Happy Burro.
France Puzzles Britain.
Better Days Coming.
Jay-Walkers Beware.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AN OLD DONKEY that worked in Colorado mines, so long that few could remember when he started, is dead at last. He was worked until he couldn't work any more, or even eat. Then they shot him.

Now he is to be "honored" with a memorial, built of ore samples from all the mines in which he worked.

A TOUCHING PICTURE, it will be appreciated by many old two-legged workers, including white collar men, superannuated bank clerks and others.

They are less fortunate than the old mine burro. Nobody builds a monument to them, and nobody shoots them when they can no longer earn a living. They are turned adrift.

HIGH FINANCE in Great Britain must be puzzled about its gold reserve. Within two weeks France has drawn $55,000,000 gold from London, using the money to buy its allotment of World Bank shares.

Britain, that supplied billions in cash to France and other allies in the war, now sees France, prosperous, without any unemployment problem, and a billion dollars in gold accumulated in New York.

The French are able and thrifty.

SECRETARY LAMONT predicts "normal business in three months." April contracts for new construction amounted to $483,000,000, biggest month since August, but lower than last April. Many will be glad to hear that, even those that specialize in pessimism.

NEW YORK, following other cities, arrests "jay walkers" to reduce automobile fatalities.

Proud citizens are indignant when told they mustn't stroll across the streets, reading a newspaper, or looking in one direction and walking in another.

A public street is more dangerous than a railroad track. A locomotive at least stays on the tracks. An automobile goes anywhere. Pedestrians as well as drivers should obey the law of common sense.

THE SEATTLE Stock Exchange, moving recently into its new building that cost nearly $4,000,000, offers a new idea to big business in other cities.

It includes in one building, the Stock Exchange, Curb Exchange, Grain Exchange, Marine Exhange and wholesale, butter, egg, cheese and poultry exchanges.

The growth of Seattle's Stock Exchange has been phenomenal. When organized two years ago, combination seats for the Stock and Curb exchanges sold for $250. They sold recently for $9,000.

NATURE, encouraged, works wonders.

In 1892 the United States established a herd of 1,300 reindeer in Alaska. They have grown to more than 200,000 head.

The Canadians are establishing a herd in their vast northern territory. One patch of 15,000 square miles, east of the Mackenzie River delta, will supply grazing for 250,000 reindeer, and provide food for natives, suffering because of game destruction.

OWEN J. ROBERTS, of Philadelphia, nominated for the Supreme Court, will be approved by the Senate. The fact that he is supposed not to believe in Prohibition will not cause him to be barred.

IT IS a good thing to allow even a Supreme Court judge to do his own thinking.

If you bar a man today for not believing in Prohibition, you might bar one tomorrow for not believing in Christian Science or Episcopalianism or Catholicism, or the Monroe Doctrine.

IN SEVENTEEN seconds, 20 men with parachutes jumped from a twin-motored Curtiss Condor, a new world record.

The interesting jumper was Armand Lizotte, news reel photographer. He sat on the wing of an airplane, photographing the jumpers, then he jumped, pulled the string of his parachute, and, sailing comfortably downwards, continued taking pictures of the jumpers.

Henry Bushmeyer, last to jump, passed the others by dropping several thousand feet before pulling the string.

GRAF CLOSE TO CANARY ISLANDS

Dirigible, Leaving Spain, Soars Across Open Sea; Late Start Annoys Chief

BULLETIN.

MADRID, May 20.—(AP.)—Trans-radio advised Madrid that its station at Teneriffe, Canary Islands, heard the Graf Zeppelin communicating with the Steamer "Gran Canarias" today at 11:15 a. m. Pittsburgh time.

The station reported the exact position of the Graf could not be ascertained, but she was believed not far from the Canary Islands.

Copyright, 1930, International News Service.

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, May 20.—Bound on a commercial aerial argosy to the New World, the Graf Zeppelin pushed its silver nose out over the open sea at 9:27 today (5:27 a. m, Pittsburgh time).

Not one among the 19 passengers failed to register a thrill as the huge air liner crossed the coast of Spain and shot its bulk over the ocean expanse. The Graf left land behind at Chipiona, one minute less than an hour after the take-off from Tablada Airdrome, Seville.

The Graf got away from Seville with some difficulty, because an insufficient amount of hydrogen had been furnished to inflate the ship's gas bags. Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, had ordered the correct quantity and its failure to arrive caused a 28-minute delay in the take-off.

COMMANDER ANNOYED

This setback, little as it may have been, annoyed Dr. Eckener, who wants this flight to take place with the same unswerving regularity as the schedule of a trans-Atlantic liner.

Dr. Eckener on leaving Seville set a bee-line for the coast. The Graf swept over Cadiz at top speed at 5:45 a. m. Pittsburgh time and took its "plunge" out over the ocean like the travel-hardened veteran it is.

All the passengers were gathered at the windows of the main

Senate Asks Report On Cunningham Suit

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP.)—The Senate today directed District Attorney Rover of Washington, to inform it why proceedings have not been pressed against Thomas W. Cunningham, of Philadelphia, on his indictment for contempt of the old Senate campaign funds investigating committee.

Princess Ileana Has Eye Ailment

VIENNA, May 20.—(AP.)—It was learned today that the chief reason for the visit of Princess Ileana of Rumania to Vienna at this time was to visit a leading oculist, and that she is suffering from a serious eye affliction.

Crowds Flee Fallen Wire Downtown

A trolley wire, charged with electricity, snapped in two in Sixth avenue, near William Penn way, this afternoon and caused consternation among crowds in the street.

The wire waved dangerously about the street, touched the auto of Frank McLaughlin, scorching a fender. Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin were not injured.

The wire snapped as a Crosstown car, moving up Sixth avenue, moved past a cross wire.

Traffic was jammed and trolleys were rerouted, pending repairs.

81 PER CENT HIT BLUE LAWS

Registered voters of Pittsburgh may do double-duty today by casting ballots at the primary election and casting ballots in the Blue Law poll. The primary is expected to stimulate returns in the poll, which has reached the half-way mark. More than 90,000 ballots have been mailed, the distribution embracing approximately 50 per cent of voters registered in each ward and eligible to take part in the primary today.

The total of ballots cast in the poll is 15,950, divided as follows:

For the Blue Laws..	1,972
For modification....	1,084
For repeal..........	12,894

These totals represent 81 per cent for repeal, 12 per cent for continuance of the law and 7 per cent for modification.

The totals are divided between men and women as follows: For the Blue Laws, 1,123 men and 849 women; for modification, 655 men and 429 women; for repeal, 8,846 men and 4,048 women.

The latest batch of ballots to be tabulated totaled 1,258, divided as follows: For the Blue Laws, 182; for modification, 113; for repeal, 963.

Ballots have been mailed to approximately 55,000 men and 37,000 women in the 32 wards of the city. Their names were taken from the district lists of voters who registered last fall and whose registrations provide the list of eligibles for the primary election today. The total registered in the city is about 185,000.

Barred From Liner, Mother Given $8,500

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP.)—Mrs. Winifred Steele was awarded $8,500 today in her suit against the Cunard line for $150,000. She charged she was denied passage on the Ansonia in 1927.

An American citizen but wife of a Briton, she wanted her baby born in the United States, she declared, she was refused passage. The baby was born in London.

Harold Lloyd Ill With Appendicitis

LOS ANGELES, May 20.—(AP.)—An attack of appendicitis has confined Harold Lloyd, film comedian, to his home, it was revealed, when the actor canceled a trip to Honolulu.

Dr. William E. Branch said the comedian was stricken last Thursday. Since then Lloyd has shown steady improvement.

LONDOR NAVY PACT HELD UNSOUND

Admiral Chase Tells Senate Group That Interminable Wrangling May Be Result

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The weight of expert naval protest against the London naval arms treaty increased today as three more admirals voiced opposition to the pact.

They are Rear Admirals H. E. Yarnell, chief of the Navy's Engineers Bureau and an adviser to the American delegation in London; J. B. Chase, member of the General Board, and J. R. Pringle, head of the Naval War College at Newport, R. I.

They told the Senate Foreign Relations and Naval Affairs Committee the treaty failed to give America parity with Great Britain and Japan and endangered the safety of this country.

WOULD SEEK PARITY

Yarnell predicted that at the next conference Japan would "ask for actual parity with America and get it."

Pringle, also before the Naval Affairs Committee, criticized the treaty's provisions giving increased tonnage to the Japanese, and agreed with other naval experts the United States needed 8-inch guns for its cruisers instead of 6-inch.

Chase, before the Foreign Relations Committee, contended the treaty used the "wrong basis" for attaining parity and attacked the cruiser, submarine and "Escalator" clauses of the treaty.

Appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Chase agreed with Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, an advisor at London, that each country should be allowed with certain tonnage limits to build the type of vessel best suited to its needs.

ONLY ONE WAY TO PARITY

Parity in any treaty, he said, can be attained only through equal allotment to each country of materials from which to build

Jay-Walker Guilty, But Fine Suspended

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP.)—The first jay-walker tried under New York's pedestrian traffic rules was found guilty today.

He was Ivan Loren, real estate agent. He was given a suspended fine of $5.

Of 33 pedestrians summoned, only 11 appeared. Many, having their little joke with police, had given wrong names. Magistrate McAdoo said warrants would be issued for all who could be found.

Pope Plans Vacation Away From Vatican

VATICAN CITY, May 20—(AP.) Reports in Vatican circles today indicated Pope Pius would go to Castel Gandolfo early in July for his summer vacation. The Pope has been examining plans of the old palace for several days.

If the Pontiff goes to Castel Gandolfo he will be the first Pope to spend a summer outside the Vatican since the days of Pius IX, 60 years ago.

'WE WILL WIN' CLAIM OF ALL

Candidates for the Republican nominations for major state offices today made final predictions of success and some of them trembled as voters began their trek to the polls to determine that intangible factor—public sentiment.

Voting was heavy throughout the state, and despite cloudy skies and occasional showers this afternoon reports indicated a total vote of more than 2,000,000. In Allegheny County, it was expected the vote would approximate 200,000.

Offices to be filled include United States senator, governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of internal affairs, judges of the Supreme and Superior courts, representatives in Congress, state senators, members of the State Assembly and members of the city and county committee of the various parties.

ROWS MARK BALLOTING IN CITY

Numerous Election Wrangles Reach Court; Prosecutor Keeps Check for Senate

As 300,000 voters went to the polls in Allegheny County today, these primary election day disturbances were reported:

1—Two policemen and a third man were arrested by county detectives for loitering around polling places in the Strip District, and later released.

2—James Kelly, Grundy overseer in the First Ward, was ordered released from police custody by Judge James R. Macfarlane when they could give no cause for detaining him.

3—Five men were arrested in the Strip by police on suspicion of attempting to cast fraudulent ballots for P. J. O'Malley, opponent of P. J. Sullivan for Congress.

4—Judge Macfarlane threw out all complaints unless substantiated with informations on the ground that arresting election boards on trivial charges deprived voters of their ballots.

As hundreds of volunteer workers stood guard at polls today, District Attorney Andrew T. Park detailed two assistants to keep tab on any irregularities in compliance with the request of Senator Gerald P. Nye, of the Senate Campaign Funds Investigating Committee. Senator Nye remained in Washington, contrary to expectations he and his colleagues might visit the state in person.

It was learned from Washington, however, that a corps of secret agents had been sent to Pennsylvania. None of these could be located in Pittsburgh, although it was assumed they were here and avoiding identification.

Seventy-five reserve police were on duty at Central Police Station and a corps of deputies was held ready at the sheriff's office to curb any trouble.

WRANGLES REPORTED

Numerous wrangles were reported from scattered districts of the city and county, but no serious trouble.

Park ordered Assistant District Attorneys Roy T. Clunk and M. Barney Cohen to sit in court as observers so that they might be familiar with any election prosecutions from the beginning.

On complaint of Patrick J. O'Malley, opponent of Congressman P. J. Sullivan for renomination, that police were loitering around polls in the Strip, county

Nominations in Today's Primaries

Voters of Pennsylvania today are voting to nominate candidates in their respective parties for the following offices:

United States Senator.

Governor.

Lieutenant Governor.

Secretary of Internal Affairs.

One Justice of the Supreme Court.

Two Judges of Superior Court.

Thirty-six members of the National House of Representatives, five of them from Allegheny County.

Twenty-five State Senators, including four from Allegheny County.

Two hundred and fifty-eight Representatives in the State Legislature, of whom 27 will be from Allegheny County.

Members of State and County Party Committees.

The polls opened 7 a. m. standard time (8 a. m. daylight saving time) and will close at 7 p. m. (8 p. m. daylight saving time).

WHALEN QUITS N.Y. POLICE

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS.)—Police Commissioner Grover Whalen, of New York, resigned today, and Mayor James J. Walker appointed Edward P. Mulrooney, assistant chief inspector, to succeed him.

Definite announcement of the retirement of the suave head of the department verified reports to this effect current for several weeks.

The resignation, handed to Mayor Walker shortly before noon, will go into effect at noon tomorrow.

Ex-Miner, Mill Girl Take Palace, Nobility Waits

EDINBURGH, Scotland, May 20.—(AP.)—The former miner who is now a member of Parliament and lord high commissioner of the Church of Scotland, James Brown, held a levee this morning at Holyrood Palace, which will be his official residence for 10 days.

Later he drove in a state procession to the opening of the general assembly of the church.

As lord high commissioner, Mr. Brown is personal representative of King George at the church conference. The palace he occupies once was the home of the Stuart dynasty.

With the installation in the palace of Mr. and Mrs. Brown a marchioness is lady-in-waiting to a former mill girl and the heir to a dukedom is aide-de-camp to the former miner during the church assembly.

Mr. Brown's aide-de-camp is the Marquis of Clydesdale, noted amateur boxer and heir to the Duke of Hamilton. Mrs. Brown's lady-in-waiting is the Marchioness of Ailsa. Among her four maids of honor is the Hon. Victoria Bruce, daughter of Lord Balfour, of Burleigh.

SENATE PAVES WAY FOR PASSAGE OF TARIFF MEASURE

DEBENTURES SUDDENLY KILLED

Flexible Provision to Remain; Curtis Breaks Tie to Insure Victory for Administration

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The administration's $1,000,000,000 tariff bill, pledged by President Hoover in his 1928 campaign, had a clear path to final enactment today following the Senate's action in releasing its conferees from further support of the debenture and repeal of the existing flexible tariff law.

Both administration leaders and spokesmen for the Democratic-Insurgent coalition expected a report from the House and Senate conferees before the end of the week, eliminating the debenture and flexible repeal and compromising all other tariff differences between the two branches of Congress.

CAME VERY SUDDENLY

The end of the year-long battle over the debenture and flexible repeal came with dramatic suddenness. The conferees had reported a complete disagreement over these items and predicted the tariff bill itself would die unless the Senate allowed them to be compromised.

Two separate votes followed. On the first, the debenture was beaten, in effect, by a vote of 43 to 41. On the second, the Senate's stand for flat repeal of the flexible law was abandoned through the aid of Vice President Curtis, who broke a 42 to 42 tie to kill the repeal.

The debenture will be abandoned, but there may be some modification of the President's present flexible powers since some of the administration senators favor a change.

DEBENTURE PLAN DEAD

The debenture was killed by a vote of 43 to 41, a complete reversal from the 42 to 34 vote by which it was adopted half a year ago. The reversal was not so great on the flexible repeal. This vote ended in a tie which Curtis broke, while the original vote was 47 to 42 in favor of the repeal.

This double victory for the administration forces cheered Republican tariff leaders as it disheartened coalition spokesmen.

AD IN SHRINE TRAIN WRECK

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 20.—(AP.)—The fireman was killed and the engineer seriously injured last midnight when the locomotive of a special train on the Pennsylvania Railroad left the rails and overturned at Mocanaqua.

The train was carrying 150 Shriners, members of Irem Temple of this city, who had been attending the dedication of Zembo's new temple at Harrisburg.

Reports received here state that several Shriners were cut by glass and shaken up, but none was seriously injured.

Missionary Circle Elects Officers

The Women's Missionary Society of the Bellevue Baptist Church has elected these officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. W. B. Lancaster; first vice president, Mrs. C. L. Love; second vice president, Mrs. A. L. Dorsch; secretary, Mrs. H. C. Frazier; treasurer, Mrs. Claude Harbison; assistant treasurer, Mrs. R. F. Durham.

Boy Killed by Car Along Erie Road

ERIE, Pa., May 20.—(AP.)—Fred Clay, 18, of New York, was killed last night by an automobile on the West Ridge road near here. C. C. Harper, of Erie, said he stopped his machine when he became aware that he passed over a body, but said he had seen no person on the road ahead of him and believed Clay must have been struck by another machine.

LINDY IGNORES ANNIVERSARY

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP.)—For the rest of the world, today may be the third anniversary of the first and only New York to Paris non-stop flight, but for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh it is just May 20.

The matter may have slipped his mind entirely, for he laughed when newspapermen reminded him of the occasion. He said he expected to do no flying during the day or otherwise celebrate the anniversary.

The weather today was reminiscent of the dreary May morning on which Lindbergh left Roosevelt Field three years ago for his 33½-hour crossing of the Atlantic.

Golf Prizes Worth $20,000 on Display

A three-day exhibition of sterling silver golf trophies, valued at $20,000, the property of the International Silver Company, is being viewed at the Hardy & Hayes jewelry store, Wood street. The collection ranges from runner-up and consolation prizes to complete tournament prizes, allocated according to value and set up in an elastic schedule of articles of varied uses. It includes ash trays, cigaret cases and match boxes, trays, salad bowls, vases and cups and cocktail shakers.

Three Men Hurt As Cars Collide

AMBRIDGE, Pa., May 20.—Three men were hurt, one seriously, in a collision of automobiles here. T. P. Dunn, 24, Coraopolis, is in the Sewickley Hospital with a probable fracture of the skull. Herman A. Harper, also of Coraopolis, and James Meyers, of Aliquippa, were cut and bruised.

Peter Romahan, of Aliquippa, operating a car on a learner's permit, crashed into the car, driven by Harper, police reported.

Court Indicts 14 For Mob Burning

SHERMAN, Tex., May 20.—(AP.)—Fourteen men were indicted today on charges of arson, rioting and burglary, the result of disturbances May 9 when a mob burned the Courthouse, causing the death of George Hughes, Negro, who pleaded guilty to assaulting a white woman.

Indictments were based on evidence furnished by a military court of inquiry.

Bulletin.

Observations taken by the United States Weather Bureau. The morning temperature readings were taken at 8 o'clock. The lowest temperature is for 12 hours ended at 8 o'clock this morning. Precipitation is for 24 hours ended at 8 o'clock this morning.

[illegible]

Weather Conditions.

The skies are still overcast over the Atlantic Coast states and as far west as Ohio, while west of Ohio, over the Mississippi Valley states and the Plains states the skies are clear. Over the Upper Ohio Valley states, the Atlantic Coast states and the Gulf states rains were general. The weather is cooler than yesterday over the Ohio Valley states and southward to the Gulf, while over the Atlantic Coast states and over the Mississippi Valley and Plains states the temperatures are rising. A high pressure area developed over the interior with its center over Arkansas and Missouri, and a low pressure area appears over the Canadian Northwest.

River Conditions.

The rivers are rising slowly. Stage at Franklin is 2.8 feet; Lock No. 7, 11.6; Pittsburgh, 11.3; Dam No. 4, 9.5; Dam No. 4, 8.6; Dam No. 8, 8.1, and Dam No. 12, 6.9. The dams are up. About 12.5 or 13 feet at Pittsburgh Wednesday morning.

Aviation Bulletin.

The skies have cleared over Central Ohio and westward, due to the high pressure area that covers the central valleys with its center over Arkansas and Missouri. The ceiling ranges from 2,000 feet over Northern Ohio to unlimited over Western Ohio and Indiana. Over Western Pennsylvania and eastward the skies are overcast with a ceiling of only 300 to 500 feet over the mountains and 2,000 feet east of the mountains.

Visibility ranges from two to four miles over the mountains. Six to eight miles elsewhere.

The high pressure area will advance eastward and bring weather that will improve over this entire section of the country tonight.

3 UNHURT AS PLANE CRACKS

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 20.—Lieut. Frank Phillips, pilot; Capt. J. A. Hill, of the Army, and another passenger escaped with bruises when their airplane crashed into trees on the edge of the Summit Hotel's golf course, east of Uniontown today.

The plane, a cabin monoplane, was wrecked.

The Army men were en route to Wright Field, Dayton, O. Residents, watching them flying over the mountains, reported the ship seemed in distress. It is believed engine trouble was responsible.

Lieut. Phillips sent this message to Dayton:

Student Aviator Crashes Into Yard

LIBERTY, Mo., May 20.—(AP.)—Henry Schmerin, 30, of Hazleton, Pa., a student aviator, was seriously injured yesterday when his airplane crashed from an altitude of about 200 feet into a back yard in South Liberty, a short time after he had taken off from a school airport.

Schmerin suffered a fractured jaw, broken leg and possible internal injuries.

SENATE VOTES ON ROBERTS TODAY

Quick Confirmation Expected As Opposition Fails to Develop Toward Nominee

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—In strange contrast to the recent battle over Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and the rejected Judge John J. Parker, the Senate today was prepared to elevate Owen J. Roberts, of Philadelphia, to the United States Supreme Court by nearly unanimous action.

Administration leaders hoped to secure confirmation of Roberts as an associate justice by nightfall. The Philadelphian will take the seat vacated by the death of Justice Edward Sanford to which he was appointed by President Hoover following the rejection of Judge Parker.

FIVE JUDGES FOR EAST

Roberts will be the first Pennsylvanian to sit on the Supreme Court in 27 years. His confirmation will give the East five posts on the high court, with the South holding one and the Middle and Far West the other three. The East will have Hughes, Holmes, Brandeis and Stone, besides Roberts; the South, McReynolds; the West, Van Devanter, Sutherland and Butler.

The Philadelphian was understood to be a "personal choice" of President Hoover, and his appointment met with immediate indorsement in the Senate, due to Roberts' highly successful prosecution of the famous Teapot Dome and Elk Hill oil cases. The very Senators who led the fights against Hughes and Parker were outspoken in praising the Philadelphian's legal ability and public career.

NO OPPOSITION SEEN

With this start, a judiciary subcommittee, headed by Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, approved the appointment. A unanimous report from the full Judiciary Committee, urging Roberts' immediate confirmation, followed. Administration leaders therefore expected virtually no opposition to his confirmation.

Repudiates Ribbon Death 'Confession'

CHICAGO, May 20.—(INS.)—William Putscher, 19, today repudiated an earlier confession that he killed Mrs. Mildred Heising, a bride of six months, in her apartment here.

Held by Berwyn police, Putscher stood by his reported admission that he had robbed scores of homes and had been in Mrs. Heising's neighborhood the day she was strangled with a silk ribbon.

He declared he confessed the murder when he was nervous and excited, saying the police told him they would "pin it on him anyway."

Private Yacht Sails, But Not With Liquor

HONOLULU, May 20.—(AP.)—The Orion, Julius Forstmann's palatial yacht, sailed late yesterday for New York via the Panama Canal. About 60 cases of wines, beer and whisky, however, remained with the customs office here.

Customs officials at Washington today instructed the local collector of customs to release the yacht and all liquor which was held on it under permit, but to seize all in excess of that amount. The yacht was detained since Friday.

236 Named to Take Army Flying Course

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP.)—The War Department today announced the selection of 236 civilians and enlisted candidates to attend the two primary flying schools of the Army Air Corps opening July 1 at Brooks Field, San Antonio, Tex., and March Field, Riverside, Cal. Of the total, 203 are civilians and 33 are enlisted men.

DRY LOBBY QUIZ INTERRUPTED BY CLASHES

Blaine Suddenly Adjourns Hearing After He Charges McBride Is Not 'Candid'

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP.)—Charging F. Scott McBride, of the Anti-Saloon League, was not being "candid," Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, today adjourned the session of the Senate Lobby Committee until tomorrow, after an argument with the witness.

The Wisconsin Senator was the only committee members present. He insisted McBride had refused to answer his questions concerning a "score card" prepared by the South Dakota League for grading candidates for office.

At one point, Blaine said it "might be necessary to call a sergeant to enforce order."

He failed in an attempt to obtain a quorum of senators and with that adjourned the session.

AUDIENCE APPLAUDS

When McBride indicated reluctance to answer Blaine's questions, a number of persons in the audience applauded.

Pointing to one, Blaine asked he stand and give his name.

The man was William D. Upshaw, former Democratic representative from Georgia, a dry. He said he had not started the applause. Upshaw declared McBride had given a "brave answer."

Blaine told McBride:

"If you expect to get off the witness stand this summer you had better answer the questions."

McBride countered:

"Don't get warmed up."

Blaine retorted:

"You may bulldoze members of Congress, but I hope by this time you have found I will not be bulldozed."

NEVER WAS ADOPTED

The league official said the "score card" in question had not been adopted by the league and he had not seen it.

The "card" would grade candidates for office as follows:

General appearance, five points; intellectual qualifications, 10 points; ability as public speaker, 10 points; morality, prohibition sentiment and practices, 50 points; record as an official or in civic enterprises, 15 points; church affiliations, two points; family relations, two points; observation of Sabbath, two points; membership in lodges and fraternal cosities, two points.

LOVELORN LADS ON PROBATION

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 20.—(AP.)—Arrested for wooing in the wee sma' hours, Heaton Brainard, of 1363 Shady avenue, Pittsburgh, and three other Yale freshmen are on probation at the university today, as climax of the stern and unromantic aftermath of their spring caprice.

The youths fired a salute of red flares in front of the Weylister School for Girls, Milford, early Saturday after placarding trees with the names of the girls for whom the amorous gesture was intended. Neighbors, more interested in sound slumber than in love's young dream, called police. The town court freed the youths but forwarded their names to Percy T. Walden, dean of freshmen.

With Brainard in the courting quartet were David G. Smith, of Concord, Mass.; Arnold Jones, of Springfield, Mass., and Hedge Wickwire, of Pelham Manor, N. Y.

Wisconsin Couple Slain in Roadhouse

GREEN BAY, Wis., May 20.—(AP.)—With arms slashed and shotgun wounds in the heads, John Van Vehel, 36, and Lucile Birdsall, 30, were found dead today in the Golden Pheasant roadhouse.

Officers believe that a gang of slot machine thieves are responsible for the double slaying.

JAPANESE DIES OVER ARMS PACT

TOKIO, May 20.—(AP.)—In the tense atmosphere surrounding the return of Admiral Kotora Takarabe, minister of marine, from the London conference and his first conferences with the cabinet and senior naval officers, a sensation was created today by the suicide of a high naval officer, which the press is exploiting as an echo of the navy's bitter opposition to the London pact.

Lieut.-Commander Eiji Kusakari, attached to the naval general staff, slashed his abdomen with a sworn aboard a train between Kobe and Tokio. He died at a hospital at Numazu, where he was removed from the train. Although Kusakari's comrades declined to comment on his act, it was said he recently expressed bitterness and despondency over the future of the navy as the result of the London treaty.

Former Archbishop Of Canterbury Dying

LONDON, May 20.—(AP.)—Serious illness of Archbishop Lord Davidson, recently Archbishop of Canterbury, is causing some anxiety.

The present Archbishop of Canterbury, preaching at Southwark Cathedral yesterday, referred to the aged prelate as lying "in bed not so much of sickness as of weakness, where with quiet fortitude and patience he is waiting the call to rest."

Ex-Ski Champion Hanged for Murder

SYDNEY, N. S., May 20.—(AP.)—Ingvald "Bing" Anderson, former champion ski jumper of New England, was hanged at 1:12 a. m. today for the murder of a Sydney hotel clerk.

He went to his death stoically, but protesting his innocence of the murder of Dublois Rehberg. The trap was sprung by Arthur Holmes, who substituted for the official hangman, Arthur Ellis.

Dominican Chief Plans U. S. Visit

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, May 20.—(AP.)—Gen. Rafael Trujillo, president-elect, today made known he plans to visit the United States before his inauguration. The object of his visit would be to visit friends he said.

He said one of the first things he would do after inauguration would be to reduce his own salary, $12,000 a year, and seek reduction of the salaries of Congressmen.

WIFE HELD IN DOUBLE MURDER

Said to Have Plotted Death Of Husband and Friend, Spurred by New Romance

International News Service.

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 20.—Mrs. Hattie Evans today confessed she plotted the murder of her husband, Robert Evans, because she was in love with Lester Underdown, 25-year-old marine, according to Prosecutor James M. Davis.

Evans and his friend, Albert M. Duffy, were shot to death in Evans' home Thursday night. Police at first believed they had killed each other.

Underdown was charged with murder today. Mrs. Evans was held as a material witness.

ADMITTED HER LOVE

Mrs. Evans was confronted with Underdown, a blond, six-foot marine. Without hesitancy she admitted being in love with him. Then she confessed she had arranged for the murder of her husband, so she could marry Underdown, according to the prosecutor.

Davis said he planned to lodge a charge of murder against Mrs. Evans, as well. In her confession, he declared, she said she had arranged with Underdown that when she drove through the Lakehurst naval reservation with her husband in her car, that was to be the signal that the coast would be clear and the murder was to be committed.

Arrival of Duffy with Evans raised an unexpected problem but it finally was decided to kill Duffy also and to make the crime appear as if the men had killed each other, Davis said.

CAME TO HER HOME

Mrs. Evans declared Duffy had come to her Lakewood home, to obtain her consent that her husband and Duffy go into business together. She said she had provided the men with wine and other liquor, that they might become a bit stupefied and so be easier victims, it was alleged.

Later there was a shot. Evans crumpled, a rifle bullet in his brain. A second shot killed Duffy. To make the double murder look like a duel, the killers then fired more shots into the bodies and the walls.

naval arms, and freedom to utilize this material as each nation sees fit.

Maintaining the contention of the board that the 5-5-3 ratio of naval arms set up between America, Great Britain and Japan at the Washington arms conference should be continued, Chase declared the present treaty maintained this ratio only in the aircraft carrier category.

He said his point of view was purely technical. There was no knowledge of political cnsideration, he averred.

The so-called "escalator clause," he continued, can operate only to the disadvantage of the United States.

This would allow any signatory to the treaty to build above the limits of the pact, in the event a naval building program which the signatory nation considers dangerous to it is begun by some nation outside the treaty.

He said he feared the submarine provisions of the treaty would "lead to fruitless discussion and interminable controversy."

Steel in Auto Tags Would Build Skyscraper

CLEVELAND, May 20.—(AP.)—Melt together all the automobile license tags used annually in America and you will have enough steel to construct a building the size of the Woolworth Building.

Steel production equals 2,890,000 ingot tons a year.

If the average man realizes this he may come near to understanding the cause of the confusion in industry which confronts us, Lee H. Miller, chief engineer of the American Institute of Steel Construction, told the Associated Press today.

Miller said:

"As a result of the immensity of the steel industry we are unable to see what is going on, and I believe we are on the threshold of moving from one civilization to another, based upon the number of uses to which we put the most versatile of metals.

"Our office buildings are now being constructed with floors of steel, and the walls will be made of steel, so that skyscrapers many floors higher than the proposed 86-story Empire State building in New York are practical. Buildings will soon be constructed like refrigerators—double walls of metal with heat-proof insulation."

U. S. Tells How to Change Grape Juice to Wine

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(INS.)—The anti-prohibitionists were happy today but the Department of Agriculture was somewhat embarrassed over discovery that its scientists had issued a booklet telling how to turn grape juice into wine.

The department's bulletin reads that it is intended solely to give information on how to make unfermented grape juice. Nevertheless, it explains all the steaps leading to fermentation.

Representative La Guardia (Rep.), of New York, has ordered copies of the booklet for the "farmers" in his New York district.

The bulletin explains fermentation, in the case of grape juice and other fruit juices, is due to growth in the liquid of yeast or molds, and gives the temperatures at which these develop most rapidly.

It also is fully illustrated with grape presses, bottles, copper boilers and other devices useful in the process.

While fruit juice was specifically exempted in the Volstead law on the ground nature might make law violators of innocent farmers by turning their cider into an alcoholic drink, the Prohibition Bureau now is making a drive against "home brew" as a result of the Supreme Court decision upholding the seizure of brewing paraphernalia.

College Fund to Flood Campus With Pretty Co-Eds

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., May 20.—(AP.)—Stanford's 500 co-eds, limited to that number by a rule of the university, today launched a campaign for a $10,000,000 endowment to permit the entry of more girl students.

Miss Sylvia Weaver, women's editor of the Stanford Daily, asserted that the endowment would be used to "flood the campus" with co-eds to keep the Stanford boys from wandering up to the University of California and to other schools in search of feminine companionship.

"Mills College (Oakland) girls are beautiful," said Miss Weaver. "California co-eds are good dates and the University of California at Los Angeles has lovely feminine creatures, but Stanford women have high I. Q.'s (intelligent quotient). There is a deep-rooted prejudice against the 500.

"We want the endowment fund to flood the campus with co-eds so that no longer will there be grounds for the belief that all Stanford women are mental geniuses—traditionally avoided by all collegians on the hectic search for romance."

COOLIDGE RESENTS SCULPTOR ALTERING HISTORY TEXT

DENIES HE CONSENTED TO CHANGE

Borglum Defends Action in Rewriting Passages to Be Carved on Mountain

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP.)—Former President Calvin Coolidge's disinclination to be criticized for the cast of another brought out that his 500-word history of the United States has been altered by Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, who is to cut the history into the granite of Mount Rushmore, S. D.

Borglum, chairman of the committee on publicity and design of the mountain memorial, as well as its sculptor and engineer, himself invited Mr. Coolidge to write the tabloid history, the first chapter of which is to be carved beneath the granite portrait of George Washington. Some time ago what purported to be the text of this chapter as Mr. Coolidge wrote it was made public.

There was no comment at the time. It is not known whether Coolidge was then aware of the changes.

WRITER STARTS COMMENT

Recently John Corbin, veteran newspaperman, wrote a letter to the New York Times, for which he was formerly an editorial writer, challenging the accuracy of several parts of the text.

Coolidge then wrote Corbin that the passages criticized in the Times letter were not his, the original having been altered "without any consent" on his part. A few days later he wrote suggesting Corbin send another letter to the Times setting forth that questioned passages were not from the Coolidge pen.

This Corbin did, saying that he had learned "on the very highest authority" that changes had been made in the Coolidge text.

BORGLUM DEFENDS SELF

Borglum gave a statement to the Times, explaining the changes, and declaring Corbin's statement as to the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution was "completely at variance, not only with the spirit, the very soul" of those documents, "but also with the letter."

In reply to this Corbin asserted that by the alterations Borglum "abrogates the supreme law of the land" and that the revised text "reads out of the Constitution its very soul and spirit."

Corbin declares the matter serious because of the enduring character of the granite-carved inscription.

EXCERPTS SHOW CHANGES

These excerpts show what Coolidge wrote and how Borglum edited it.

Coolidge text:

"The Declaration of Independence—the eternal right to seek happiness through self-government and the divine duty to defend that right at any sacrifice."

Borglum revision:

"In the year of Our Lord 1776 the the people declared the eternal right to seek happiness — self - government — and the divine duty to defend that right at any sacrifice."

Coolidge text:

"The Constitution—charter of perpetual union of free people of sovereign states establishing a government of limited powers under an independent President, Congress and court, charged to provide security for all citizens in their enjoyment of liberty, equality and justice under the law."

Borglum's revision:

"In 1787 assembled in convention, they made a charter of perpetual union of free people of sovereign states establishing a government of limited powers—under an independent President, Congress and court charged to provide security for all citizens in their enjoyment of liberty, equality and justice."

It is planned to unveil the inscription July 4.

LAUD ROBESON AS 'OTHELLO'

LONDON, May 20.—(AP.)—In a performance that won enthusiastic applause from a large audience at the Savoy Theater, Paul Robeson, celebrated American Negro actor and singer, last night appeared in the title part of Shakespeare's "Othello."

The Morning Post said "there has been no Othello on our stage for 40 years to compare with him, in dignity, simplicity and true passion."

The Daily Telegraph adds "by reason of his race he is able to surmount the difficulties which English actors generally find in this part."

Robeson appeared with Miss Sybil Thorndike, of the famous "Old Vic" Theater, and one of the foremost Shakespearean actresses in England today.

HINDUS TO PUSH NEW SALT WAR

BOMBAY, May 20.—(AP.)—Reports today said details of tomorrow's mass action against the government salt deposits have been settled, with volunteers ordered to attempt going through the wire fence and bidden not to return again unless they accomplished their objective.

Volunteers were told to adopt any means towards capture of the Dharasana salt works as long as they practiced non-violence to policemen.

Satyagraha leaders today called off the raids on the Shiroda salt works, because, they said, the police method of combatting them by the use of lathi or bludgeon had created a dangerous violent atmosphere.

South Americans Plan Medal for 'New Columbus'

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 20.—(INS.)—A gold medal in honor of the "New Columbus" is to be presented Dr. Hugo Eckener, when the Graf Zeppelin's commander brings his dirigible to this city Friday.

Funds for the medal are being collected by citizens of Recife, a German colony. Should the Zeppelin be unable to land at Rio De Janeiro, delegates from the colony will hop to Pernambuco by airplane to present it to Dr. Eckener when the airship moors there for a two-day stay.

RAIN HAMPERS GOLD STAR TOURISTS

Drizzle Falls as Mothers Leave Paris En Route To French Cemeteries

PARIS, May 20.—(AP.)—Most of the first contingent of Gold Star Mothers in France visiting the graves of their sons left in a drizzling rain today for the battlefront cemeteries where their sons lie.

Medical officers reported there was no illness among them and that everyone was able to take her place in the sightseeing bus at the proper time.

The journey to the former battlefields was made at a leisurely pace and the four groups were not expected to reach their destination until tonight. The first visits to graves will be made tomorrow.

The small number remaining in Paris tomorrow will again visit the Suresnes Cemetery on the slope of Mount Valerian near Paris. They spent today sightseeing and resting.

THIAUCOURT, France, May 20.—(AP.)—A cold, drizzling morning greeted Ambassador Walter E. Edge and Gen. Pershing today on their visit to this American military cemetery.

It was the kind of a day so often experienced in the Argonne by the 4,151 American doughboys who lie in their honored graves here. The two Americans were received by the chief cabinet prefects and Mayor Maurice, of Thiaucourt.

FLOOD REECDES AS SKY CLEARS

DALLAS, Texas, May 20.—(INS.)—Clearing skies today brought hope of relief to hundreds of homeless lowland residents as flood waters in northern and central Texas and northern Louisiana rolled their way to the Gulf of Mexico. Rain cessation during the last 24 hours brought slight recessions of flooded rivers.

Jefferson, Marion county seat, was almost completely submerged.

The Red River still held thousands of acres under back waters in Texas and Louisiana.

Improved conditions were also reported in central Texas. Danger at East Waco, where the flood threatened levees, had been checked.

GUARD AGAINST LOOTERS

ELDORADO, Ark., May 20.—(INS.)—National Guardsmen today patrolled the flood area at Smackover following reports that homes were being looted.

LEBAUDYS SEEK DIVORCE

PARIS, May 20.—(AP.)—The struggle for possession of the estate of Jacques Lebaudy, known as the "Emperor of Sahara," had its epilogue today when his daughter, Jacqueline, filed suit for a divorce from Roger Sudreau.

Sudreau and his father, private detectives, aided Mrs. Lebaudy and her daughter in getting possession of the immense fortune. Mrs. Lebaudy married the senior Sudreau and Jacqueline the son.

The Lebaudy estate which went into litigation when the father was shot to death by Madame Lebaudy at Westbury, N. Y., in 1919 was worth $4,000,000.

After inheriting $8,000,000 from his father Lebaudy amused the world by his scheme for turning the Sahara desert into an empire of which he was to be the ruler.

HEADS FOR CANARIES

CADIZ, May 20.—(AP.)—Passing out to sea today Dr. Hugo Eckener shaped the Graf Zeppelin's course in a due southeasterly direction, which would be in a straight line for the Canary Islands, but, if maintained, would hold the dirigible out of sight of the African coast.

The entire journey to Pernambuco, across the equator, follows an almost straight line from Cadiz and passes through the Cape Verde Islands and near the mid-ocean island of St. Paul.

LULL IN WIND SEEN

MADRID, May 20.—(AP.)—The Meteorological Institute of Madrid today gave out the following report on weather conditions along the route of the Graf Zeppelin at sea:

"The Zeppelin should encounter winds with decreasing force. Visibility should be excellent. Some low clouds have stormy tendencies. Along the Moroccan coast there will be light, variable winds with fair visibility and perhaps a small storm of local character. From Seville to the Canaries there is no fear of atmospheric disturbances in the path of the dirigible."

Leaves Seville With Heavy Load of Passengers, Mail

By TOMAS A. LOAYZA.

International News Service.

SEVILLE, May 20.—Silvery and gleaming, the Graf Zeppelin rose from her mooring mast here at 8:32 a. m. (4:32 a. m. Pittsburgh time) and headed into the southwest bearing the old world's greetings to the new.

Heavily laden with passengers and mail the airship soared easily in fair skies.

Pernambuco, Brazil, the next stop, was 3,500 miles away, and the Zeppelin would make the first crossing of the Equator in transoceanic flight by an airship. The trip is expected to require about 60 hours.

After making her first stop at Pernambuco, the Graf will go to Rio de Janeiro, thence northward to Lakehurst, N. J., via Havana.

There were four women and 15 men on board the air liner.

ROYALTY ABOARD

The new passengers to board the Graf at Seville were Mrs. Mary Pierce, wife of a New York stock broker, Lieut. Col. Emilio Herrera, of the Spanish royal air force and interested in the promotion of a Zeppelin line to South America, and the Infante Alfonso d' Orleans, cousin of King Alfonso of Spain.

Mrs. Pierce kissed her husband good-by at the airport before boarding the ship. He said he was unable to make the flight but that she would rejoin him when the Zeppelin returns to Europe early in June.

When the Zeppelin was loaded there was not an inch of spare space left aboard. A large amount of mail had to be left behind. There was neither room nor postage for it.

The local police were delegated to watch for stowaways. The officer in command, asked if any had been found, answered negatively.

Exoneration in Stock Deals Spurned; Charges Against Bishop to Be Made Public

DALLAS, Tex., May 20.—(INS.)—The fight against Bishop James Cannon, Jr., continued today despite the fact he had been exonerated of stock market speculation by the Episcopacy committee of Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

G. T. Fitzhugh, Memphis, Tenn., lawyer, who with Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, had led the fight against the bishop, said he would make public the accusations against Cannon. He refused, however, to say when he planned to take such a step.

Daniels expressed himself as "astounded and astonished" by the committee's action, declaring he had "never believed it possible."

ACCEPTED HIS REGRETS

The committee had voted Bishop Cannon's exoneration only after he stated that he was "sorry he had caused the church any embarrassment." Bishop Cannon also promised the committee that he never again would trade in margins.

Charges of stock market gambling were brought against the bishop last week by 21 laymen of the church, headed by Daniels.

The committee gave its indorsement last night to Bishop Cannon's chairmanship of the Church Temperance Board, although Daniels opposed it.

Referring to his brokers, Kable & Co., of New York, Bishop Cannon defended his dealings with the firm by explaining that he transacted business with the company under the impression that it was a "proper" investment firm.

ASKED INVESTIGATION

When he realized that he was not dealing with a "proper" firm he canceled his contracts, Bishop Cannon told the committee.

It was learned today through J. H. Terrell, of Ocala, Fla., committee secretary, that Bishop Cannon asked for an investigation of the charges lodged against him. This request was made in a letter received one week before the conference opened, according to Terrell.

When the committee files its report with the conference Bishop Cannon will be completely cleared of the charges which brought his trial, for according to church procedure, the committee's action is the last word.

SETTLE ACTION OVER PAINTING

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS.)—Mrs. Andree Hahn's $500,000 suit against Sir Joseph Duveen has been settled out of court, according to announcement today. Desire to avoid further costs caused settlement, it was stated in a formal announcement.

The suit centered around the question of whether the painting, "La Belle Ferronniere," in the Louvre attributed to Leonardo Da Vinci, was the original painting, or whether Hahn's picture, an heirloom in Mrs. Hahn's family, was the original. The suit was dropped without prejudice, the art dealer still holding his opinion "That the work is not that of Leonardo," but admitting it is "of great antiquity."

Mrs. Hahn charged Duveen with slander when he said the picture was not the original, asserting it prevented its sale to the Kansas City Art Museum.

Corporate Dividend Payments Increase

NEW YORK, May 10.—Cash dividends paid in May by corporations, excluding banks and trust companies, showed an increase over payments in the same month last year, according to the New York Stock Exchange Bulletin. The gain amounted to $51,400,000 and dividends totaled $263,300,000.

Hoover Slights Regulars Socially, Hastings Says

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(AP.)—Whether he likes it or not, Senator Daniel O. Hastings, of Delaware, is on record as believing President Hoover "entertains the irregulars at the White House to get them to think his way, while conservative Republicans like my colleague and myself have to seek entertainment with our state societies."

The Senator so expressed himself to the Delaware State Society and was surprised to see his views on page one of a morning paper. He said today he was "speaking in a humorous vein and not for publication."

Standing by his words, Hastings reiterated his conviction that an administration Republican stands little chance of competing with an independent Republican in the newspaper headlines, because the newspapers are "after the unusual."

He said he regretted that "nowadays a man to be distinctive has to stand against the will of the majority," adding that Senators bolt their party because "they want big headlines."

Students on Strike Over Faculty Shift

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 20.—(AP.)—Several hundred students at the Oceanside Carlsbad Union High School went on strike yesterday because the school board refused to discharge the principal, C. L. Suffield. The board also refused to reappoint two teachers who, an announcement recently said, were to be dropped next year. There are 450 students in the school and it was believed most of them walked out.

British Girl Flier in Java After Perilous Hop

SAMARANG, Java, May 20.—(AP.)—A pretty golden-haired girl of 23, as directly from London as an airplane could bring her, dropped in here today and over a cup of coffee at the airdrome restaurant told the British colony gathered around her how she had crossed the Java sea.

Her name, Amy Johnson, meant almost nothing to the English rubber growers and sugar planters who live side by side with Hollanders here, but the apparition of a girl in a flying suit striving to beat Bert Hinkler's 15-day record from England to Australia excited their admiration and curiosity.

She looked tired but smiled cheerfully as she described the Java sea crossing from Singapore as "dreadful! dreadful! I thought I would never make it." Heavy tropical storms made her change her direction and height, and long distances were flown only a few feet above sea level.

She really thought this was the end, she said. However, she reached the Java shore safely and followed the coastline as far as Tjomal, where she was forced down onto a small clearing studded with bamboo poles. The poles tore the fabric of her plane's wings and it was necessary to repair them with sticking plaster.

Leaving the restaurant, she started up her engine and within a few minutes was headed for Surabaya, which she reached at 1:20 p. m. She had left Croydon May 5.

He ruled there was no violation in the refusal of the board of the Fifth District, Sixth Ward, to admit James W. Regan, overseer. When Regan's complaint was amended to charge the board with tearing off ballots in bulk, Judge MacFarlane ruled such an offense is merely a misdemeanor, not a felony, and again refused a bench warrant.

When Paul Jones, Pinchot watcher, complained William Brown, judge of election in the Sixteenth District, Fifth Ward, refused to allow him to vote, Judge MacFarlane ruled again no violation of the election laws had been established.

Marcus Hart asked in vain for arrest of members of the board of the Twelfth District, Fifth Ward, alleging that they had refused to open the polls. The court demanded that a specific reason be given why the polls had not been opened and when this was not forthcoming declined to issue warrants.

P. J. Haggerty's petition to have the board of the Fourth District, Second Ward, Homestead, brought in, was also refused. Haggerty averred that the board was using two rooms for the election, contrary to law, one room for the ballot box and one in which members of the board sat.

Judge MacFarlane at the opening of court ruled that he would accept no complaints unless backed up by informations.

SECOND WARD COMPLAINT

He made this plain to Attorney Charles B. Prichard, appearing as counsel for Owen J. McManus, who was prepared to allege that the election board of the Eighth District, Second Ward, was allowing assistance to voters without the required affidavits as to the necessity for such aid.

Judge MacFarlane said:

"I am sitting here as a magistrate and will issue warrants only on information. We will not hear any general complaints of trouble. We expected that. We are here to run a four-ring circus today and we expect to do it right."

Prichard and McManus, a supporter of Congressman P. J. Sullivan for renomination against Patrick J. O'Malley, left to make information against the election board, they said.

WOMEN IN ROW

Voting at the polling place of the Fifth District, First Ward, was delayed for half an hour while the board went to the county commissioners' office to settle a wrangle over a minority inspector. Mrs. Lillian Kramer, who received the second highest vote on the Republican ticket, was authorized to sit by the Bureau of Elections rather than Miss Rebecca Belker, who was highest on the Democratic ticket for inspector, thus overruling Edward Hooper, judge of elections.

After sitting through the morning session of court, Assistant Prosecutor Clark commended Judge MacFarlane's handling of cases. He said that heretofore many voters had been disfranchised because of election boards being brought into court on trivial complaints, thereby suspending balloting.

Of 1,458 sets of ballots, each different in some respect, mailed out to as many election precincts in the county, no mistakes had been reported. This was an unusual record, as generally there are mispelled names and some ballots mailed to the wrong districts.

GRUNDY VOTES FOR PINCHOT

BRISTOL, Pa., May 20.—(AP)—United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy, candidate for the Senate seat he now holds by appointment, had a window book of voters clerk [illegible] his home polling place today. He has done so for 40 years. He said he intended to stay at the polls today until the close and was there when they opened. He was the fifth person to vote.

He announced that he voted for Grundy and Pinchot and along that line. This announcement was regarded by politicians as highly significant, for during the campaign it had been reported that he had formed an alliance with Pinchot.

Senator Grundy made it a point to greet every voter personally as he or she called at the polls and was identified in the window book. Most of the older voters dispensed with formality and greeted the Senator with a genial "Hello Joe." In many instances the conversation with the voters deviated from politics as he inquired after the folks at home.

PHILADELPHIA VOTE GUARDED

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—(AP)—Virtually all of the city's 240 detectives were assigned to duty at polling places today with instructions to watch for any irregularities. The men were so assigned that all of the 1,590 voting places will be under observation.

Most of the men were instructed to cover several precincts, but in some sections of South Philadelphia it was arranged for a detective to be on watch constantly at individual polling places.

The assignment of the men followed Mayor Mackey's telegram to United States Senator Nye, chairman of the Senate Campaign Funds Investigating Committee, promising that "an army of unidentified plainclothesmen, unobtrusively and unannounced, will make a survey of every election district and be ready at a moment's notice to assist a qualified voter in the preservation of his rights."

PINCHOT AIDES CONFIDENT

Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot's campaign for another term was closed last night over KDKA by Frank I. Gollmar, Pinchot county chairman, and over KQV by Mrs. Henry Challant Miller of the women's division of the Pinchot committee. Gollmar said:

"The real issue of this campaign is whether the government at Harrisburg will be controlled by the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh gangs or whether it will be directed and administered by Gifford Pinchot, whose record you know while he was governor of Pennsylvania."

Mrs. Miller declared:

"Gifford Pinchot has this fight won. There is nothing that can stop him now except failure on the part of the men and women who are interested in clean government to go to the polls and vote for him."

'WE WILL WIN' CLAIM OF ALL

of the state convince me that I will be nominated notwithstanding the tremendous sums of money being dumped into the campaign at the last minute to defeat me.

"I feel satisfied the people are going to force down the 'For Sale' sign that holds a public office up to the highest bidder."

PINCHOT CONFIDENT

Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, candidate for another term:

"The wave of sentiment against the Philadelphia gang has been growing uninterruptedly during the whole campaign and is now ready to break and smash them. And one of the reasons why victory is sure is that the gang cannot steal votes as it used to do."

Thomas W. Phillips, candidate for governor on anti-dry ticket:

"Late advices from state headquarters give me the reliable information that those on the inside of the Brown campaign now admit what we have known for several days—that Brown is beaten and that I will lead Pinchot by a comfortable margin. Brown's campaign has been going blooey during the last week and it has now blown up. I will be the nominee."

BOHLEN SEES SWEEP

Francis H. Bohlen, candidate for United States senator on the anti-dry ticket:

"It is no longer a question of victory—it is only a question of our plurality. There is every indication that we will come down to Philadelphia with a plurality of not less than 150,000. All opponents concede us 100,000 in Philadelphia. We will double that."

Francis Shunk Brown, candidate for governor:

"Time and again I have been told during my visits in 50 counties that the voice of the people will be heard above the noisy clap-trap of the fakir and the harangue of the fanatic."

Senator Joseph R. Grundy, candidate to succeed himself:

"The people of Pennsylvania are with us, but victory can be expressed only in votes. Our one remaining responsibility is to see that the vote is cast and counted."

EARLY VOTE LIGHT

Daylight saving time was credited in part for the comparatively small number of early voters at city polling places, particularly in the residential sections, to cast ballots for state and party offices.

The legal time for opening the polls was 7 a. m., eastern standard time, or 8 o'clock daylight saving time and many of the voters were on their way to work before the voting places were in operation. Others who work at night evidently did not want to sacrifice any sleeping time by remaining up until the polls opened.

The result probably will be a rush at the voting booths late in the afternoon and in the evening when the day workers, returning home and night workers going to their employment have more leisure to cast their ballots.

DISTRICT BATTLES

While contests for major state offices will be bitterly fought, they will be dwarfed in certain sections of the city by fights for one seat in Congress, another in the state Senate, numerous places in the Assembly and scores of memberships on city and county committees.

The latter contests are forerunners of impending battles in about a month when the committeemen and women will determine ward supremacy by electing party chairmen.

The fight for Congress on which most interest is centered is in the Thirty-eighth District, where P. J. Sullivan, incumbent, is pressed for re-election by P. J. O'Malley of the state auditor general's office.

The state Senate contest is in the Fortieth District and finds Herman Brandt, incumbent, opposed by Park Martin and David MacQuarrie.

Davis and Brown Lead in First Returns

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—(AP)—First returns in today's primary from the smallest election district in the city were announced shortly after 11 a. m. The district, containing six voters, gave Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, candidate for United States senator, 5 votes; Francis H. Bohlen, anti-dry candidate, 1.

For governor: Francis Shunk Brown, 4; Gifford Pinchot, 1; Thomas W. Phillips, 1.

All six votes were given to Judge James B. Drew of Allegheny County for Superior Court.

BALLOT NO. 13 CAST BY DAVIS

Secretary Davis is certainly not superstitious.

Today, soon after the polling place in his home district, the Sixth in the Twenty-ninth Ward, Carrick, he voted.

And his ballot was the thirteenth cast in that polling place.

Mrs. Davis, accompanying her husband, cast the twelfth ballot and the secretary's cousin, A. J. Nichols, dropped the first one in the big box.

On fairly reliable authority the Sun-Telegraph learned that the secretary had voted for himself and Francis Shunk Brown.

His activities yesterday included two radio broadcasts, meetings in Greensburg and McKeesport and conferences in his William Penn Hotel suite.

600 ATTORNEYS INDORSE DREW

More than 600 active trial lawyers in Allegheny County have signed a resolution recommending Judges James B. Drew of Common Pleas Court as a candidate for judge of the Superior Court.

Judge Drew is running on the Davis-Brown ticket for one of the two nominations for the higher bench.

The resolution stated that from the time the Superior Court was established until recently, Allegheny County had at least one judge on the higher bench.

It was recited that the recent death of Judge William D. Porter and the appointment of his successor from Armstrong County left the Superior Court without a representative from Allegheny County.

The lawyers committee in charge of the resolution included Oliver K. Eaton, Charles P. Lang, Roy G. Bostwick and Samuel S. Rosenberg.

Brown Votes, Wife Confined to Home

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—(AP)—Francis Shunk Brown, Republican candidate for governor, cast ballot No. 63 in the Overbrook section of Philadelphia.

Declining to make any comment, Mr. Brown indicated he would make no further statement until the balloting is over and the result known. He went to the polls unaccompanied, explaining that Mrs. Brown is ill. Mr. Brown said he felt fine. He quickly cast his ballot and posed for his picture.

O'Malley Faction Burns Sullivan Sidewalk Plea

Partisan feeling ran high in the Strip today between supporters of P. J. Sullivan and Patrick J. O'Malley, rival candidates for Congress. When O'Malley's followers found, whitewashed on the sidewalk on Eleventh street near Liberty avenue, a sign, "Vote for Sullivan," they poured gasoline on it and set it afire in an effort to obliterate the words.

BOARD ROW SETTLED, WOMAN SEATED

MARTIN O'TOOLE MRS. LILLIAN KRAMER

The election board of the Fifth District, First Ward, after it opened tardily this morning following a dispute that took the whole board to the Bureau of Elections for settlement. Thus Mrs. Kramer, Republican inspector, was seated instead of Miss Rebecca Siker, Democrat, that Election Judge Hooper ruled would be seated.

CHICAGO, May 20.—(INS.)—Something fresh in the way of rackets, a scheme whereby citizens were permitted to assert their prohibition views, has taken $250,000 from Chicagoans in the last few weeks, authorities estimated today as they investigated the American Prohibition Referendum Association.

According to an estimate by the Better Business Bureau here the association obtained 2,500,000 opinions on the prohibition issue at 10 cents per opinion.

Four Women Face Guns as Trio Robs Store

Four women faced revolvers when three bandits entered the grocery store of Mrs. Pearl Seltzer, at 1901 Sidney street, and escaped with $119 from the cash register last night.

The men asked for a can of beans. When they entered Mrs. Seltzer had turned to the shelf when she, Mrs. Walter Handschin and Isabelle Seltzer and Mrs. Seltzer's daughter, Anna, 17, were ordered to throw up their hands by the men who rifled the cash drawer and made their escape in an automobile.

GRAF BATTLES STORMS IN FLIGHT

Zep Passengers Get Thrill As Giant Craft Makes Speed Record Over Spain

By LADY DRUMMOND HAY.

Special Cable Dispatch.

SEVILLE, May 20.—With a thrilling battle through thunder squalls, and setting a spectacular speed record over a beautiful panorama, spread under a starry sky and gilded by dawn, the Graf Zeppelin gloriously fulfilled the most extravagant expectations of its passengers on the first lap from Friedrichshafen to Seville, of its South American flight.

The passengers had an opportunity to savor almost every airship travel sensation. The Zeppelin plunged into a tempestuous maelstrom of half a dozen successive thunder and lightning squalls between Constance and Basle, Switzerland, but all the inevitable rocking and rolling did not spoil the appetites of even the greenest of the passengers. Dinner was served in two series, as the Graf was over full.

Many of the passengers were reluctant to retire from the fascination of watching the brilliant night picture over France and then the Mediterranean.

VIEW SCENIC GEMS

Some who arose before dawn were rewarded by glimpses of incomparable scenic gems off the Balearic Islands and later from Cartagena southwards past White Almeria down the Spanish coast, [illegible] and brown against the background of the Sierra Nevadas.

Those who kept the vigil the whole or part of the night shared the thrill of the sensational speed record of some 129 statute miles an hour with the triumphant and excited watch on the bridge.

Never before has an airship streaked through space at such a tremendous rate.

The Spanish passengers were voluble in their delight. No greater compliment could be paid to Zeppelin travel than the unstinted praise of Herr Wronsky, director of Lufthansa, great German heavier-than-air commercial transport company. He said:

"It is the ideal way for pleasure travel to see the world."

HAS LITTLE BAGGAGE

Frau Hammer, traveling to join her husband, the famous pilot, in Rio de Janeiro, is brimming over with active technical interest. She takes the prize for traveling with the smallest quantity of baggage ever carried by a man or woman passenger on the Zeppelin. Eleven pounds is her self-ordained quota.

Frau Groeschel, traveling with her husband, and Mrs. Durston are content to see the sights in comfort and relaxation.

It always amuses me to watch the transformation of a scrupulously tidy Zeppelin within a few minutes from the embarkation of the passengers to a pell-mell confusion of maps, note books, cameras, binoculars, pencils, guide books, etc.

The suggestion for the organization of a game of table tennis was without success. Dr. Badt, of the German Finance Ministry, walked around with a checker board and pieces, seeking recruits.

DR. ECKENER JOLLY

But nothing could lure anyone from the fascination of the windows.

I never remember Dr. Eckener so jolly as he was last night, after the struggle with the weather gods, or the three captains so radiant.

There was a real holiday spirit right through the ship's passengers and crew. There were two sittings for luncheon with Dr. Eckener presiding at the first service. The menu was made up of fresh salmon, chicken, peas, asparagus salad, and apple pie.

The last vistia of formality always vanishes when there is something to see. This time it was the great Rock of Gibraltar, sheltered from the Mediterranean sun by a heavy white umbrella of dense clouds, that cleared Dr. Eckener's table in a jiffy as everyone frantically crowded at the windows to watch.

ZEP FLIES LOW

A little later Ceuta on the African side of the Straits of Gibraltar rose in relief from a turquoise sea; then picturesque Tetuan, sentinelled by the grim Riff Mountains. Thence to Tangiers, where we circled low.

That was to please me. My husband was born in Tangiers during my father's term as British minister there. I also know Tangiers well, and have relatives there.

Even if this completed the trip, it surely would still be memorably picturesque and scenically gorgeous. But it is only the first 1,440 miles of a still more wonderful 9,000 miles to come.

The passengers disembarking at Seville were loud in their regret that they did not think of, or could not afford, taking round-trip tickets. There is such a rush for berths that no money now can buy a berth for the glorious excursion all are anticipating.

HERE IS One REFRIGERATOR WHICH COMBINES 3 DESIRABLE CONVENIENCES

THIS REMARKABLE NEW REFRIGERATOR HAS BEEN DEVELOPED BY THE GREAT WESTINGHOUSE LABORATORIES

The result of 12 years' experiments

HERE is the only refrigerator adapted to the three outstanding requirements of modern efficiency! The new Westinghouse offers beauty of cabinet, an hermetically sealed, reliable mechanism, and in addition to these exclusive refinements:

The Buffet-Top — which is really the top of the hood — offers the convenience of an outside shelf! It is especially handy when food is being taken from or replaced in the cabinet. Step-saving, time-saving — this refinement simplifies your food preparation!

The Temperature-Selector — a legible dial with 7 freezing speeds — is placed in the center front panel, arm-high, where it is most easily adjusted. This efficient regulator hurries up ice cubes and frozen desserts.

And Broom-High Legs allow a full eleven-inch clearance for sweeping and cleaning. Their broad, flat glider feet protect your floor covering.

To insure satisfactory, quiet operation, the moving mechanism of the freezing unit has been sealed in a durable steel case. No dust and dirt can sift in. Nothing can leak out. The new Westinghouse is trouble-free!

Although Westinghouse electrical engineers experimented for over twelve years before they produced a freezing unit which met their standard, you can readily see in a few minutes the many superior qualities which distinguish this new refrigerator. Come and thoroughly inspect this new refrigerator.

CAPONE TO SEE BEAUTY DOCTOR

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS)—"Scarface" Al Capone, of Chicago, may soon take steps to have the scar that is listed on hundreds of police records removed, according to announcement today by a beauty specialist here.

Capone has contracted for a 21-day treatment, the beauty specialist said, which he hopes will remove the four-inch seam on his left cheek. The treatments, according to reports, are to begin tomorrow.

Capone, it is said, will fly here from Florida.

TRIAL POSTPONED

MIAMI, Fla., May 20.—(AP)—Trial of "Scarface Al" Capone on a vagrancy charge today was postponed until tomorrow.

Albert Prignano, arrested with Capone, also will be tried tomorrow.

Judge Barns announced he would hear testimony June 10 in the proceedings to padlock Capone's home because of the finding of liquor there.

OUTLOOK GOOD, REALTOR SAYS

Real estate today is on a much sounder basis than it was during the peak of the boom in 1926, and men in the real estate business have every reason to be encouraged by the outlook, according to Leonard P. Reaume, of Detroit, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, who is visiting Pittsburgh realtors.

Mr. Reaume pointed out that the persons who are depressed today were among the most enthusiastic during the good years. The country retains all of the substantial values that it had five years ago and in addition has gained more than 12,000,000 population.

Mr. Reaume was the guest of the officers and past presidents of the Pittsburgh board at a noon luncheon today at the William Penn Hotel. He will speak tonight to the Pittsburgh board and guests, following a dinner meeting at 6 o'clock at the Fort Pitt Hotel. He visited the Fayette County Real Estate Board at Uniontown, Pa., yesterday.

Measles Epidemic Hits Polish Liner

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS)—The Polish liner Kosciusko reached Brooklyn today with 52 passengers. The first to arrive here of three vessels purchased by the Polish government from the Baltic American Lines and put in trans-Atlantic service.

Ninety-four passengers were taken from the ship at Halifax, N. S., and placed in isolation hospitals, suffering from measles. All on board today were sore-armed from innoculations.

One Killed as Car Swerves Off Road

FORSYTHE, N. Y., May 20.—(AP)—Gustav Kraintz, 35, of Erie, Pa., was killed and J. J. Johnson, also of Erie, injured, perhaps fatally, in an automobile accident here today.

Their car, failing to make a sharp turn in the highway, shot off the road. Johnson was taken to a hospital in Dunkirk.

Now "Undy" Tints Last for Months

REMARKABLE New INSTANT RIT produces smartest, daintiest Parisian shades which last through many extra washings. Keeps underthings fresh and new-looking for weeks longer than usual.

An exclusive German formula makes colors penetrate to every fiber of the material instead of merely tinting surfaces. All shades come out clearer, richer, exactly like new. INSTANT RIT dissolves completely in 40 seconds. Fabrics "take" the color quickly, evenly . . . no streaks, no spots.

25 lovely colors for:

Dresses	Lingerie
Curtains	Children's clothes
Hosiery	Scarfs, gloves, etc.

At your druggist or department store 15c per package.

WHITE RIT—Color Remover
(Harmless as Boiling Water)

Any color, even black, completely removed from all materials by WHITE RIT (color remover). Also takes spots and stains from white goods—even ink, fruit, perspiration, rust, etc. Restores "yellowed" or "grayed" white goods to original whiteness.

PASTOR SCORES VOLSTEAD LAW

SEATTLE, May 20.—(Universal)—The Rev. George T. Ashley, pastor of the First Unitarian Church, predicts that modification or nullification of the Volstead law as a relief from "present intolerable conditions" will take place within 10 years.

The Unitarian clergyman pointed today to the results of the Literary Digest prohibition poll and the success King County Republicans had in putting through an anti-dry plank at their recent convention as indications of widespread dissatisfaction with present enforcement methods and the unreasonableness of the Volstead law. He declared:

"Since 1892 when I voted for the Prohibition candidate for President, I have been a staunch dry, but I never dreamed that the Volstead law interpretation of what constitutes an intoxicating liquor would ever be foisted on us.

"It's time to sanely consider this liquor problem and come to an agreement. The tendency is toward modification of the Volstead law. We can't alter the Eighteenth Amendment. We can, however, amend the statute that is undermining the morals of the country. If we don't, nullification is the only way out."

HUNT FOR LOST JUDGE FAILS

OAKLAND, Cal., May 20.—(AP)—Experienced police investigators confessed failure in their four-day search for Judge Edward E. Engs, of the Alameda County Superior Court.

Bloodhounds have followed his trail from the time he slipped from his bed of delirium and vanished, only to lose it on the road to Hayward. Airplanes circled the Berkeley Hills, but found no trace of the missing man.

Judge Engs was suffering from a nervous collapse following seven weeks of a wearisome trial which he insisted must continue despite his failing health.

The trial was completed with conviction of three former deputy sheriffs and an alleged bootlegger on charges of conspiracy.

Judge Engs' brother, Dr. John S. Engs, dentist here, said:

"We have not given up hope of finding him alive."

"I am confident that my brother did not kill himself. He was either kidnaped or done away with by persons whose motives are absolutely unfathomable, or else he wandered away from home in a fit of mental dejection and is still wandering about irrationally."

Eczema on Hands in Small Water Blisters. Healed by Cuticura.

"My granddaughter began having eczema on both her hands when she was eleven years old. Small water blisters broke out on her fingers and the itching and burning were unbearable. She could not put her hands in water at all. At night she could not sleep on account of the irritation.

"We tried different remedies without success. We began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped her, and in about three months she was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Lena Davenport, ℅ Wm. Travis, Himrod, N. Y., June 11, 1929.

CHICAGO VOTES ON TRANSIT

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP.)—Subject to approval by popular vote, the City Council voted 47 to 3 to grant an indeterminate franchise to the newly created Chicago Local Transportation Company which is obligated, under the grant, to consolidate the surface and elevated lines, and operate subways and feeder buses.

The new company is a merger of financial interests in the existing systems. A special election will be held June 1 to determine the view of the voters if Mayor Thompson approves the grant, as it was indicated by his spokesmen he would.

The passing of the ordinance making the grant, is the result of years of conferences among transportation company representatives and city officials.

PLAN TO FLOOD BURNING MINE

AVELLA, Pa., May 20.—(AP.)—Fire in No. 2 mine of the Powhatan Coal Company here has kept miners from returning to work since the explosion last Thursday which killed three men.

A shortage of water at the mine has frustrated efforts to extinguish the blaze, and company officials are having two miles of pipe line laid from the Avella Water Company with the intention of flooding the workings. Creeks of the vicinity are being dammed for the same purpose.

Meanwhile, mine rescue crews are on hand to hold the blaze in check and prevent it from spreading.

Reds on Bicycles Attack British Consulate

COLOGNE, Germany, May 20.—(AP.)—A band of Communists on bicycles yesterday swooped down on the British consulate here and shouting "Hands off India" and "Down with MacDonald," smashed all the windows of the buildings with stones.

After painting the same slogans in red on the sidewalk, the band leaped on their bicycles and escaped before the riot squad arrived.

Hungary Studies U. S. Loan Offer

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 20.—(AP.)—The Hungarian government is considering an American offer of $20,000,000 for a short term loan at 7½ per cent. An offer from London bankers has been rejected.

The honest reason

THERE IS ONLY one real reason for smoking and that's pleasure. A pretty good reason after all. The cigarette you select in the long run will be the one that can contribute most to your enjoyment.

Camels are made with that idea in mind—the idea that genuine smoke pleasure is what you want in a cigarette.

When you try them you will find a refreshing difference—a mild, mellow richness of choice tobaccos—a blended harmony of fragrance, silky smooth—that makes smoking a delight.

The fact that more millions have chosen Camel than any other cigarette is a tribute to an honest product, marketed for an honest purpose.

BUICK
DEDICATES ITSELF
SERVICE POLICY..

"Satisfy the customer." This has been the service policy of the Buick Motor Company throughout the twenty-seven years of its history. And so faithfully has Buick followed this policy that today the familiar blue and white emblem of Authorized Buick Service is a guidepost to prompt, efficient and courteous maintenance to more than 1,500,000 Buick owners. Buick has twice as many owners as any other company selling cars priced above $1200.

Here are just a few of the many important provisions of Buick's Service Policy:

More than 4,000 factory-supervised Buick Service Stations—equipped with genuine factory parts and tools—assure all Buick owners the same fine standard of skilled Buick service.

A written Warranty, covering the first 4,000 miles or the first 90 days of ownership, whichever shall accrue first, guarantees every new Buick car to be free from defects in material or workmanship.

Should parts or workmanship prove defective at any time during the Warranty period, Buick dealers will supply the parts and perform the necessary labor free of charge.

In addition to careful pre-delivery tests, the Buick owner receives two major inspections without cost—one after 500 miles and another after 1500 miles of driving. These include a thorough road test of all elements of performance.

The "Tourist" and "Change of Residence" clauses permit the Buick owner to change his residence as frequently as he desires or to tour any part of the U. S. or Canada and still receive the full Warranty benefits from the nearest authorized Buick dealer.

The basic underlying principle of Buick's service policy can be summed up in these three words—the creed of the entire Buick organization—satisfy the customer. All Buick dealers dedicate themselves to the task of serving promptly, efficiently and courteously—providing maximum service at minimum cost—that owners of Buicks may remain friends of Buick always.

Ask for a Copy of Buick's Owner Service Policy

The complete facts regarding Buick service, including Buick's new Owner Touring and Change of Residence privileges, may now be had in a brief, compact booklet, "Buick Owner Service Policy."

Buick would like everyone who now owns—or expects to own—a Buick car to be thoroughly acquainted with the liberal provisions of this Policy.

You may obtain a copy of this interesting booklet from the nearest Buick dealer, or by writing direct to Buick Motor Company, Flint, Michigan.

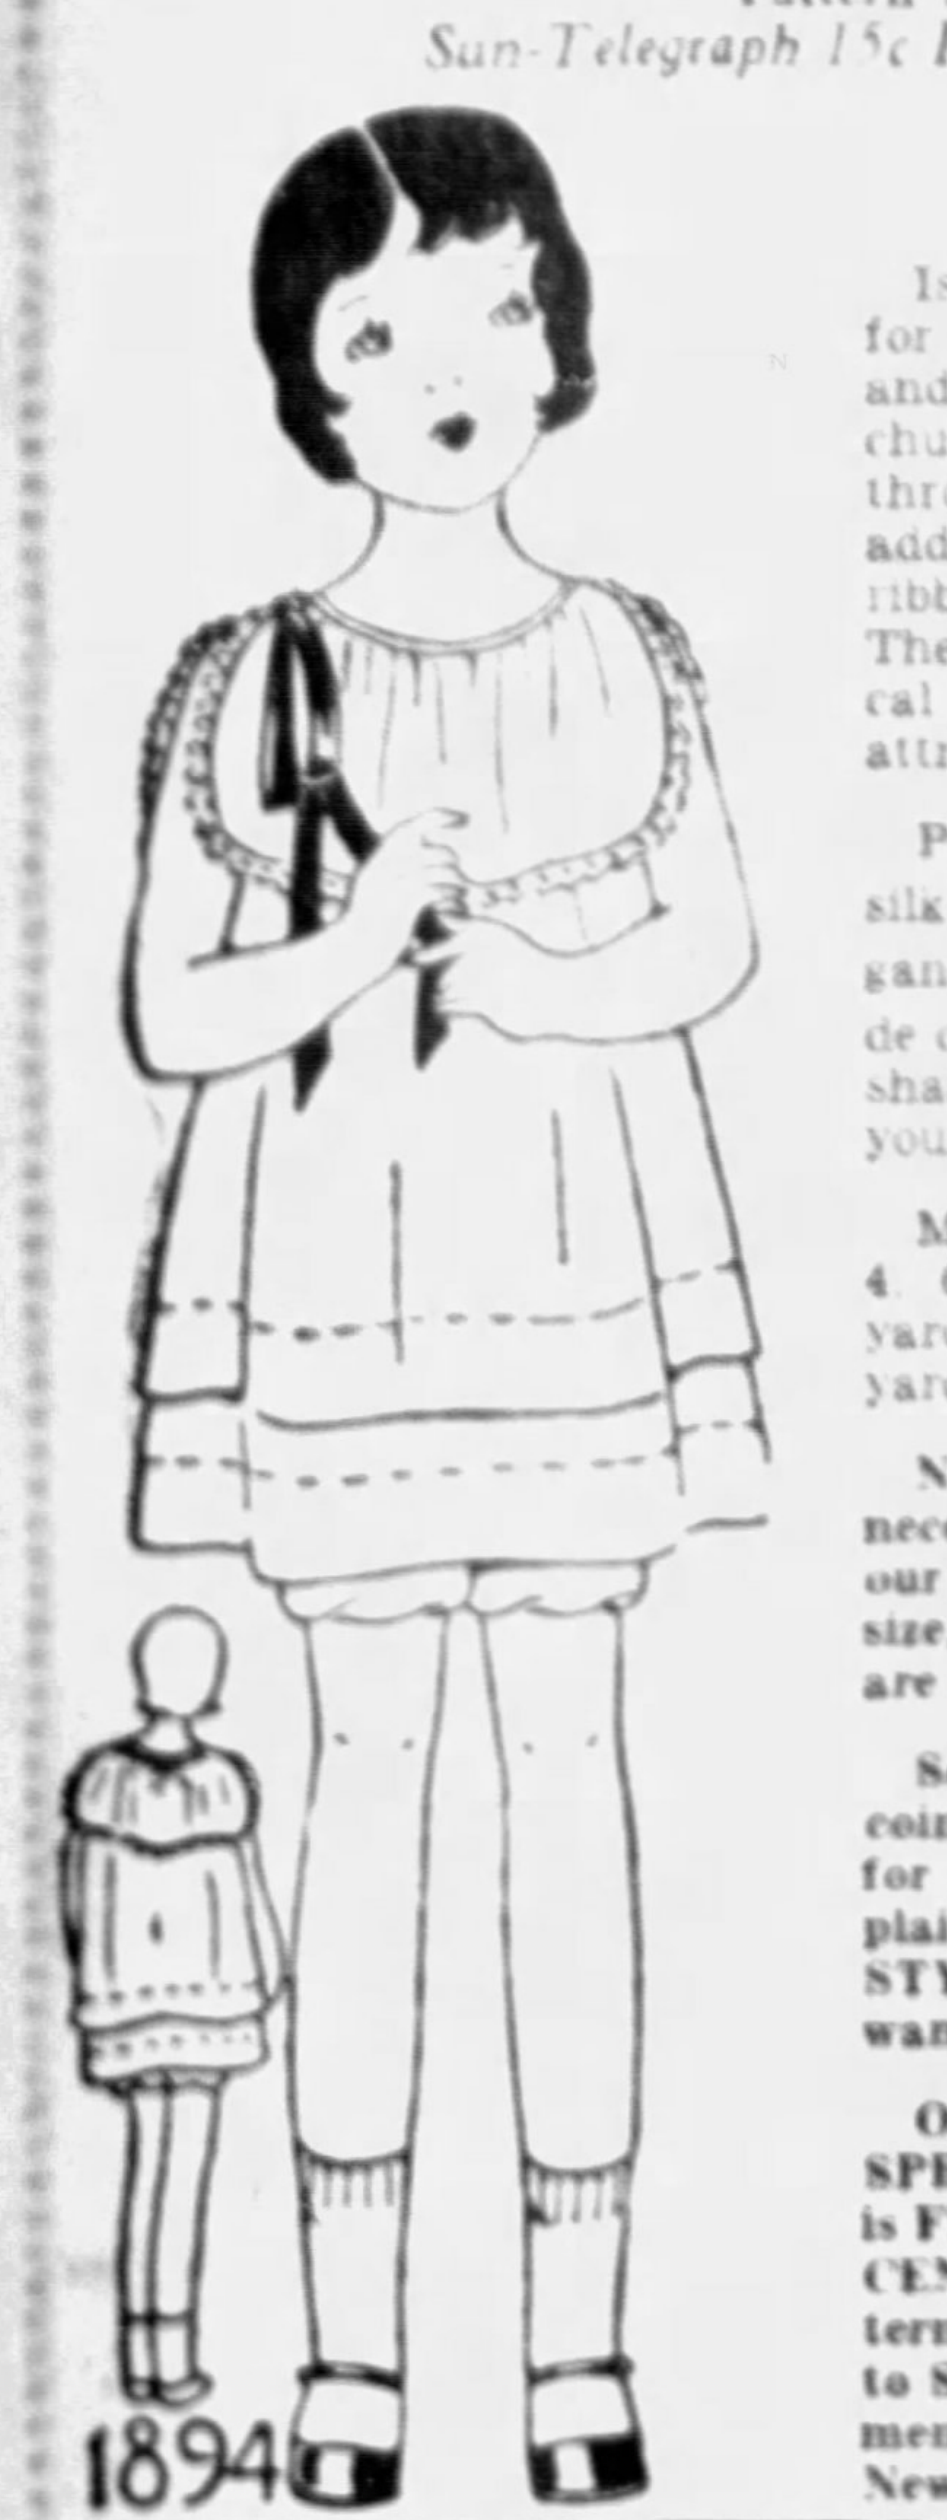
Dainty Frock For Small Girl
Pattern 1894
Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern
By ANNE ADAMS.



Isn't this a ravishing little model for best? The unusual capes back and front are cleverly cut to allow chubby rounded shoulders to peep through. The dainty lace edging adds a soft touch and the pert ribbon bow is extremely smart. The tuck above the hem is practical for lengthening as well as an attractive skirt trimming.

Pattern 1894 is lovely made of silk or cotton fabric . . . voile, organdie, swiss, dimity, batiste, crepe de chine, georgette, etc. The pastel shades are most popular with youngsters this season.

May be obtained only in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8. Size 2 requires 2¾ yards of 36-inch material and 2¼ yards narrow lace.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our PATTERN BOOK of NEW SPRING and SUMMER STYLES is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4.—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.

OIL CITY LOSES P. R. R. APPEAL

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 20.—Officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad here yesterday declared that its recent elimination of the Allegheny division is a closed incident.

Protests will avail citizens of Oil City nothing, it was declared at Broad Street Station. The plan whereby the Allegheny division was dissolved and its employes scattered throughout other divisions of the railroad, is in accordance with a general scheme to reduce overhead and improve operating efficiency, it was stated.

Oil City citizens, fighting hard to have the action annulling the division rescinded, had planned to send a delegation to this city yesterday, to confer with Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania. No such delegation visited him. He was in conference virtually all day.

Five officials and 21 employes were transferred or assigned to new posts in the shakeup.

Bingo Games Banned In Beaver County

BEAVER, Pa., May 20.—Bingo games, paddle wheels and other games of chance have been placed under the ban, Sheriff William V. Kennedy announced after a conference with President Judge Frank E. Reader and District Attorney J. Bline McGown. The edict is especially aimed at carnivals and circuses, it was said.

BOILER MAKERS OPEN MEETING

Master Boiler Makers' Association opened its twenty-first annual convention today in the William Penn Hotel with 1,000 members expected to be registered.

Technical discussions feature the programs continuing through Friday morning when the convention will close with election of officers. Addresses of welcome and committee reports opened the sessions this morning. The first technical discussions were held this afternoon with national experts leading the subjects.

Social features include a reception and dance tonight, theater party and dance tomorrow night and the annual banquet Wednesday night. The Ellwood City works, National Tube Company, will be inspected tomorrow afternoon. Another inspection tour is scheduled Wednesday afternoon, delegates journeying by boat to the Homestead works of the Carnegie Steel Company.

Members of the women's auxilary are meeting in joint sessions, with parties, sightseeing and shopping tours occupying their days.

Sentence of Judge In Slaying Appealed

DALLAS, Tex., May 20.—(AP.)—A motion for a new trial for John W. Brady, former Texas civil appeals court judge sentenced to three years imprisonment for the slaying of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, stenographer, in Austin, last November, was filed here by his attorneys.

The lawyers said they believed the court would act on the motion in time to have their client out on bond by the latter part of the week.

GIRL REPORTED DEAD FOUND

UNION CITY, Pa., May 20.—(AP.)—Miss Ina Green of Union City, whose body was reported to have been found by fishermen in Lake Erie at Cleveland last night was located at the home of a relative near here.

Ina Green was at Cleveland Y. W. C. A. last week and at the same time another girl registered as Rose Green of New York. Rose Green, whose [illegible] was said by Cleveland police to be Marion S. Dailey of [illegible] New York City, was said to have become confused with the [illegible] girl in making identification through the Y. W. C. A.

Cleveland police were undetermined whether the New York nurse was the victim of foul play or had committed suicide. The strongest theory was that she had ended her life by jumping from a cliff. The body was clad only in underwear. Labels had been cut from her coat but a baggage check for a coat left at the Y. W. C. A. led to establishment of identity.

Explodes Dynamite, May Lose Eyesight

MARTINS FERRY, O., May 20.—Marion Kugaski, [illegible] son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kugaski of Adena, O., may lose the sight of both eyes as the result of playing with dynamite. He struck one of the sticks with a hammer causing it to explode.

Boy Shot to Death By Chum at Play

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., May 20.—While playing in a log shanty Miles Dumire, 17, son of Jasper Dumire of Parsons, was shot and killed by Robert Mineat, 17, his companion. Officers pronounced the shooting purely accidental.

Bargains in used house furnishings are advertised every day in the Classified Section.

Soviet Sponsors Floating Home Of Art

MOSCOW, May 20.—(AP.)—To propagate abroad modern Soviet art, music, singing and ballet dancing, a "floating home of art" will be sent on a European cruise by the Russian government this summer.

The steamer will call at the principal European ports and may even extend its cruise to include American ports. Special exhibits of Soviet handicraft work and proletarian art will be installed aboard. The feature will be ethnographical nationalities of the Soviet Union."

TALKS OF DUCE STIR FRANCE

PARIS, May 20.—(AP.)—Premier Mussolini's speeches during his present tour of Tuscany are being closely followed by the French press which in some cases is showing concern at his remarks, particularly as they are felt to refer to France.

The conservative Temps last night said:

"The tone of the last speech of Premier Mussolini reveals the existence on the other side of the Alps of a state of mind which is not very reassuring to friends of peace."

It is understood that the Premier's speeches have caused some concern in official circles, but the French government thus far has remained non-committal.

Seek Paroled Man For Attacking Kin

'CHUTE MOTOR INVENTED

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 20.—(AP.)—Henry Bushmeyer, professional parachute jumper, announced he had invented a machine to enable parachute jumpers to travel about 20 miles in any direction after their chutes opened.

Bushmeyer said the device consisted of a two-cylinder, seven horsepower motor with two batteries, a four-foot propeller and a steel and board framework which is attached to the jumper's chest and back.

Flight direction would be obtained by holding out a hand. The machine has a fuel capacity of one quart of gasoline which Bushmeyer declared would provide a flying range of about 20 miles. He added that he would give a demonstration soon.

Lumbering Losses Cause Census Drop

RIDGWAY, Pa., May 20.—During the past 10 years the population of Elk County has dropped 1,700 largely due to the fact that many lumbering towns have disappeared. The three principal towns of the county—Ridgway, St. Marys and Johnsonburg—all show steady growth. The preliminary figures of the census gives the population of the county as 33,229, as compared with 34,981 in 1920.

$10 a month installs any one of these beautiful fixtures in your home

NOW it's so easy to bring your bathroom up-to-date—to modernize it by installing "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures, the most durable, most beautiful plumbing fixtures made.

Have you a leaky, old water closet that gets out of order and puts you to the expense of having it repaired? Then you can have a "Standard" water closet of improved design, quiet and efficient, installed in place of the old one for $10 a month.

Does the lavatory in your bathroom have brassy faucets and is it stained and dirt-pitted? Then you can replace it with a new spotless, attractively designed "Standard" lavatory for $10 a month.

Is your bathtub out of date and hard to keep clean? You can have a new "Standard" bathtub installed at once for $10 a month.

Better still, you can have all three of these new "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures—bath, lavatory and water closet—for as little as $14 a month.

Of course the amount of the down payment and the monthly installment depends upon the design and price of the plumbing fixtures you select. Even the most modestly priced "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures are attractively designed and are available in nine beautiful colors as well as white.

Don't delay modernizing your bathroom—it's the most important improvement you can make in your home. Every new plumbing fixture you need—a new kitchen sink, stationary laundry tubs or an electric clothes washer, as well as new fixtures for the bathroom—can be had for a small down payment and easy monthly installments.

Ask your plumber for further information, mail the coupon, or come to the "Standard" Showroom where you can see a most interesting display of the many new designs and colors for plumbing fixtures.

LAUD GARDNER AT DINNER

Citing the fact that Judge Samuel H. Gardner was the first district attorney to prosecute and secure convictions in election fraud cases, District Attorney Andrew T. Park last night expressed hope that the record of Gardner's prosecutions might prevent any election irregularities today.

District Attorney Park was toastmaster at a dinner tendered by Judge Gardner to the entire staff of the district attorney's office and the County Detective Bureau in the Hotel Roosevelt. Park cited the record of Gardner and praised him as an efficient public official. Other speakers were First Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt, Assistant Roy T. Clunk, Chief County Detective George W. Murren and Assistant District Attorney Ralph P. Hunter.

Pennsylvania Girl Wins Church Contest

PHILADELPHIA, May 20—(AP.)—Sectional winners in the national oratorical contest of the Presbyterian General Assembly on the subject of law observance and constitutional loyalty were announced today. Representing the eastern section of the country, Elizabeth McKinley, Brookville, Pa., headed the list of winners. She will compete in the final contest at Cincinnati, May 28. The winner will receive an award in gold.

Chicago Maligned, Coroner Declares

WASHINGTON, May 20—(AP.)—Defense of Chicago as a city "unjustly maligned" for its crime, and the statement the city ranks not first, but thirty-ninth, in its number of homicides per 100,000 population, were made today by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, coroner of Cook County, Ill.

FRENCH QUIT RHINELAND

MAYENCE, Germany, May 20.—(AP.)—Evacuation of the Rhineland by the French Army of Occupation today entered upon its last phase. With homeward movement of the first of 40,000 troops, complete evacuation was cheduled before June 30.

In accordance with an order issued by the Supreme Command of the French Army of the Rhineland yesterday the smaller places were to be freed of military control first. The French war office made it known that Wiesbaden, Mayence, and other larger cities would not be liberated until the very end.

Already during the recent months about 20,000 troops have been quietly withdrawn, leaving 40,000 to evacuate by June 30.

E. A. Linhart Heads Downtown School

Edward A. Linhart, son of Dr. Samuel B. Linhart, of the University of Pittsburgh, has been elected president of the downtown student association of the university, it was announced today.

Modern Method,
Lift Them Out

CORNS

Callouses Go, Too

The safest and real modern way to remove corns, root and all—out to stay is soak them every night for 3 or 4 nights in an invigorating, stimulating Radox Footbath.

Then put on modish shoes again, walk and dance with greatest comfort because there's nothing left to ache. No pain, no trouble.

Radox liberates oxygen, which softens hard outer layer of corn, each night penetrating further and further thru the pores, carrying the salts to actual root of corn, so loosening it that it comes right out. Nothing like healthy, free from corn feet to assure happy days! Get a package of Radox at Mayflower Drug Stores, or any drug store.

Freedom of Seas Issue Left Unsettled by Pact, Says Naval Expert

United States Navy

U. S. Naval Academy, 1905, commanded destroyers and convoy escorts in European war zone during World War, graduate Naval War College, recently commanding the U. S. ship Sirius. Capt. Goss is a practical sea-going officer who has devoted much study to the subject of sea power and is a well-known writer on naval subjects.

The London conference did not consider or settle in any way the question of freedom of the seas which concerns the relation between belligerents and neutrals in war. Upon questions connected with this subject depends the size of a navy we need because they determine what it will have to do.

The conference did, however, definitely limit naval strength. This has the effect of tying our hands in advance before we know what we may need to do.

Long Knotty Problem

The rights of neutrals at sea in war have always been a debated question. The stronger sea powers have generally disregarded the rights of neutrals unless the neutrals were able to enforce such rights.

Beginning with our unofficial war with France back in 1799 all of our foreign wars except the Mexican War and including the World War have been due to this question which in our case has meant interference with our shipping and seaborne trade.

Great Britain, with the aid of her powerful navy, has been a constant aggressor in this direction in the past. Her interference with our trade in our own vessels with the West Indies was one of the underlying causes of the revolution. British aggression at sea caused the War of 1812.

Interfered With U. S.

Although probably not so well remembered by the public, allied interference with our trade led to more conflict prior to our entry into the war than interference by the Germans, but as the loss of life was not involved it naturally did not receive the same attention from the public.

Various attempts have been made to define and settle the rights of neutrals and belligerents in war concerning blockades, the status of cargoes in transit at sea, of neutral goods in enemy ships, the convoy of merchant vessels by men of war and the status of merchant vessels when manned or directed by naval personnel.

Parleys Failed

Conferences resulting in the Treaty of Paris in 1856 and the declaration of London considerably later failed because some powers refused to ratify these agreements and naturally any such agreement is not binding in case of war unless all belligerents had previously ratified it.

In the recent war the Germans found it inconvenient for submarines to follow the long accepted principle of international law that a neutral merchant vessel upon the high seas could not be seized or her cargo confiscated until the vessel had been visited and her cargo manifests and bills of lading examined by a boarding party from the blockading vessel.

Their attacks on merchant vessels without exercising this long-established principle of visit and search aroused popular indignation everywhere, as everybody knows, and actually brought about our entrance into the war.

Kirkwell Practice

The British and the French as well, to suit their own convenience and to safeguard their blockading vessels from attacks by German submarines while waiting for neutral vessels to be visited by the normal boarding parties, established what is known as the Kirkwell practice, whereby instead of searching a neutral vessel at sea they ordered her into some convenient port, often Kirkwell, where she could be inspected in safety at their leisure.

This was quite simple and convenient from their point of view, but very inconvenient for neutrals, principally ourselves, who soon had large numbers of merchant vessels tied up in port with perishable cargoes deteriorating and all cargoes greatly delayed.

This interference with our trade was so annoying as to leave considerable doubt, until the declaration of unrestricted submarine warfare by Germany, as to whether we should not take active measures against the Allies to protect our trade. These are examples of questions involving freedom of the seas.

The war brought about a revival of the convoy system under which merchant ships were escorted at sea by naval vessels. The extension of the submarine campaign with consequent increased danger to all merchant vessels finally led to most such vessels being either manned entirely by naval personnel or placed under naval command.

Raises Issue

This practice, which might readily occur again in a future war, raises the question of whether or not merchant vessels, manned or directed by naval personnel, should not be classed as men of war and hence be subject to attack without warning.

A question also naturally rises as to whether a neutral has the right to convoy her merchant vessels through a war zone by one of her naval vessels in order to protect them against interference by one of the countries at war. This in turn involves the question of whether a conflict in this case would rightfully be considered a warlike act.

These are all unsettled questions, until they are settled we don't really know how large a navy we need because we don't know what it will have to do.

To definitely limit the strength of the Navy in advance, before these questions are settled, would seem to be inadvisable and might be a very dangerous thing to do.

Airport Workers On Strike for Insurance

MADISON, Wis., May 20.—(AP)—What is believed here to be the first airport strike in the United States went into effect here as Robert M. Thompson, chief pilot, and Merle Buck, chief instructor of the Midwest Transport Company, quit work because of charges that the company failed to provide compensation insurance. The men said they would return to work when the company agreed to produce insurance for them.

CADMAN HOLDS POLL FALSE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 20.—Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, New York pastor, who opened the annual community chest drive here last evening, declared that the Literary Digest prohibition poll does not represent the true sentiment of the country. Dr. Cadman said the natural tendency was for those favoring repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to vote, while those who favor prohibition looked on with disfavor and did nothing. He said:

"The greatest mistake the drys have made was to stop the educational campaign against liquor after the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted."

He deplored the failure of people to attend church, saying that the same people who do not attend religious services insist on their children going to Sunday school.

FAMILY DOCTOR LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it for it never gripes; children liked its pleasant taste. All drugstores today have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.

Poor complexion made smoother, clearer—overnight

—a nurse's secret

LONELY, unhappy — because you have a poor complexion? Then start right in getting a lovely one. Use the medicated beauty cream nurses advise.

Already, over 6,000,000 women have had amazingly quick success with this cream — just as you will. The minute you smooth it on, you feel your skin grow softer, smoother. Eight hours later, you see it is fresher, clearer!

The explanation is simple. Noxzema Cream contains healing oils that soften tough, scaly skin. Gentle astringents that shrink coarse pores and refine the texture of the skin. A mild medication that heals away marring blemishes and stimulates dull, sallow complexions to healthy, glowing beauty.

No matter how coarse-textured—how tough, broken-out with blemishes — your skin is, Noxzema will quickly beautify it. Try it just once — and you'll use it regularly. For one application of Noxzema will convince you that it is a real corrective cream.

Don't put off the happiness—the popularity—that a charming "come hither" complexion will give you. Get a generous trial jar of Noxzema Cream today.

ROAD BUILDING RECORD SET

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 20.—(AP.)—A new 45-day record for road construction in Pennsylvania was claimed by the State Department of Highways for the six weeks from March 31 to May 15.

Contractors for the department laid 65.15 miles of new pavement during that period, which exceeded by more than 23 miles the previous high of 42 miles completed during the same period in 1925. All together, 86.41 miles of new highways have been built this year.

The paving during the week ending last Thursday totaled 32.39 miles, which were built on 319 contracts under way. There were 12,279 men employed by road contractors and 8,997 by the department in its own maintenance crews on May 15.

BYRD TO REST IN MOUNTAINS

PANAMA CITY, May 20.—(AP.)—David, a mountain city, 205 miles from here, that was visited by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in 1928, will furnish rest and recreation to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd for the next four or five days.

Admiral Byrd first intended to go to Rio Hato, 80 miles from Panama City, but he changed his mind and took off for David an hour earlier than scheduled. It is understood he was told of the lowness of Rio Hato and hence decided to seek coolness in the mountains.

SONGS OF PERCY WENRICH ON RADIO TONIGHT

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

The kind of music sung by front porch tenors and corner quartets will be given an overture tonight in the Happy Bakers' program, WCAE at 9:30. Percy Wenrich, who says he should be famed if for no other reason than he survived a boyhood in Missouri with the name Percy, but whose real recognition was acquired writing such hits as Rainbow, Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet and Where Do We Go from Here Boys? will be guest artist. Wenrich's songs never allure to Broadway; they are always of the picnic supper variety.

Martha Attwood

Sophie Braslau and Martha Attwood will entertain us. On the Libby voyage to Russia, KDKA at 8:30, Sophie will sing Rachmaninoff's Floods of Spring. Martha Attwood will open the Sunoco Show, KDKA at 9:30, with Deppen's Comin' Home.

Nathaniel Shilkret's Eveready group, WCAE at 9, will depict the life of Antonin Dvorak, noted Czech composer whose famous New World Symphony was written of and in America.

The "Two Daffydils"—new on WJAS at 7:15—is one of the finest recorded programs we've heard.

GUARDING, GUARDING MORN 'TILL NIGHT

"My work is completed with PEBECO Tooth Paste," said a dentist. "It is like a diligent sentinel—on guard. It guards every nook and cranny of your teeth—keeping them free of fermenting food particles. It guards the flashing whiteness which adds so much to the charm of a pleasant smile. It guards against decay, because, being a salivary stimulant, Pebeco helps Nature check the destructive mouth acids" . . . And, best of all, using Pebeco, you just know it is doing its job. Try it and see.

FEEL FINE in 30 Seconds!

The very minute you put your sore burning feet in a TIZ bath you can feel the pain being drawn out and grateful comfort soaking in. TIZ draws out acids and poisons that make feet burn, swell and smell. Revives the feet and leaves them feeling simply marvelous. Oh, blissful comfort! Yours right now if you get a package of TIZ from any druggist.

HANGMAN WE'RE GOING TO KILL YOU NEXT!

THE TRUTH ABOUT AMERICA'S MOST SAVAGE PRISON RIOT!

IN CANYON CITY, Colorado, the prison siren screamed its awful warning—Jailbreak! The Chapel and mess hall were in flames. A thousand fear-crazed convicts, yelling and cursing, were watching for any chance to "crush out" . . .

Fifteen guards, manacled with their own handcuffs, cowered before the menacing guns of Danny Daniels, Jim Pardue, and "Red" Majors, three long-termers, desperate and crazed with smuggled dope . . .

A wolfish howl went up—"Kill the hangman next!" And the feared and hated prison hangman crumpled on the floor—another hostage shot to death. Canyon City's crimson night began as murder stalked those grim black corridors . . .

A Denver newspaper man, eyewitness to this night of horror, has written the inside story. Read how a prison guard escaped death by "playing dead"; how an elderly priest braved the convict snipers to plant a charge of dynamite; how Danny Daniels put to death his own best friend. Don't fail to read this stark thriller, illustrated with official photographs taken during the height of the riot—complete in the June issue of True Detective Mysteries, on sale at all news stands today.

On the right, DANNY DANIELS, ringleader in the Canyon City jailbreak, who took his own life as the final curtain rang down on this Carnival of Death.

When Death and Plunder Rode the Chicago-Northwestern Flyer

It was one of the most sensational train robberies of all time, perpetrated by a "lone wolf" whose steel-jacketed fangs left death behind him.

Read for yourself how the strange clew of the silver platters opened a crooked trail that doubled back into the very heart of the police department itself, and brought the hysterical confession of a half-maddened gunman.

It's a true story you'll never forget. Look for it in the June issue of True Detective Mysteries.

Kid McCoy's Final Knockout! . . . In His Hand a Smoking Gun . . On the Floor His Mistress . . .

"I loved that woman! Don't make me look at her now, Joe!" So begged Kid McCoy when the long arm of the Law clamped upon him. All the world knew Kid McCoy, who fought Tom Sharkey and James J. Corbett. A brilliant success—until that night of a wild party when he found himself with gun in hand standing over the crumpled form of another man's wife—beautiful Theresa Mors. Los Angeles' Detective Chief gives the detailed account of the "Kid's" soul-searing tragedy—in True Detective Mysteries, June issue.

New Jersey's Strange Mystery of the Man Who Killed for Love

"Curly Head—I love you more and more. Can't you slip away and meet me?" Such was one of the notes written to beautiful, innocent young Honey Sarlo, the "girl who had never had a boy friend."

Then, one soft, romantic night, "Honey" slipped away from the movies to meet the soft-spoken fiend whose words of love lured her to that last lonely night ride from which she never returned.

The man who solved this mystery tells you about it—step by step, clue by clue, from the finding of the girl's semi-nude body to the throwing of the lethal switch that ended the Strangler's life. Read it in the June issue of True Detective Mysteries now on sale at all news stands.

TRUTH—True Detective Mysteries prints only authentic reports of actual crimes and the apprehension of the criminals—narrating them in all their dramatic, thrilling aspects—but always faithfully clinging to facts. True Detective Mysteries is the only detective magazine which deals exclusively with true criminal mysteries.

BISHOP TO KEEP KENTUCKY POST

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 20.—(AP.)—Bishop James Dewolf Perry, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in America, has announced that, at his request, the Right Rev. H. P. Almon Abbott, bishop of Lexington, Ky., has withdrawn his resignation.

This action, Bishop Perry said, results from correspondence he has had with Bishop Abbott and many officials of the Lexington diocese, and from the conviction that "the best interest of the church would be served by the continuance of Bishop Abbott in his jurisdiction."

Bishop Abbott resigned after the Rev. Julius A. Velasco, of Dayton, Ky., was acquitted in an ecclesiastical trial on charges brought against him after his marriage to a Roman Catholic girl. Bishop Abbott claimed the verdict was a reflection on his integrity.

N.Y. Mother Finds A Real Weight Builder at Last

If you are tired of being bony, scrawny and weak, read how Mrs. Henry A. Thaler, of Richmond Hill, N. Y., and her daughter, gained weight and improved their figures:

"The writer of this letter and my daughter, Viola, have been using McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets for seven weeks, and in that time I have gained 4 pounds and am more full of 'pep' than ever. Viola has gained 3 pounds and she is beginning to get wonderful color in her face."

The reason is that McCoy's are genuine cod liver oil extract tablets. That is the same as saying that like the Norwegian cod liver oil from which they made, McCoy's are hundreds of times richer in flesh and strength-producing vitamins than even milk, eggs, butter or cream.

So take advantage of druggists' offer of the safe, pleasant, easy, inexpensive way to gain the weight and energy you need. McCoy's must give any man, woman or child the increased weight desired or money refunded. Just ask for McCoy's—60 tablets 60 cents.

GREAT CHANGE IS BIG STRAIN

People Need World's Tonic to Help Restore Health,

Men and women who come to this country from the Old World find a great difference in climate, water and air. Sometimes they change from outdoor work to the big mills that turn out steel or the mines that produce the fuel. Then the conditions of living are so much different that the entire system undergoes a great strain. That was the case with Mr. Andy Hajduk, who cultivated a farm in Austria, and when he came here he went to work in the mills.

"I did not notice it at first," he told the interviewer in his home at McKeesport, Pa. "After I had been at work awhile the first thing I noticed was that the water seemed so different from the spring on the farm. I got so I actually loathed it. Of course with the great heat in the mill I was thirsty all of the time, but it seemed as if my stomach would refuse water. I did not feel right, and I had to hawk and spit a lot. When I got up in the morning I did not feel a bit rested. I got worse until I had to lay off every two or three weeks to feel up.

"One day one of the men I worked with brought some medicine to the mill with him. I teased him about it, but he declared that it was great, and had cleared him up so that he really enjoyed his work. I tasted it, and it reminded me of that wonderful medicine my mother used to give me in the old country. Then I bought a bottle. That first one made me feel a little better, but I was not well yet. To make a long story short, I kept right on, and after I had taken four bottles I was a changed man. In spite of foggy, smoky mornings, I went to my work singing. I could eat anything and enjoy it, and the great heat did not weaken me as it had. That is what World's Tonic did for me, and I am sure it is because it contains what my mother used to give me when I was a boy."

World's Tonic may contain just what the wise old mother used, because it is the result of a world-wide research for the right medicine, and it has been wondrously successful in helping people in this community. You can obtain it at Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, or at any other first class drug store. (A-30)

DENY PENNINGTON 'WINKED' AT RUM

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

To Attorney C. K. Robinson, counsel for the taxicab company, goes credit for manufacturing the best laugh of the drivers' strike.

It was at a hearing before the Public Service Commission. Robinson protested that opposing counsel in reading the complaint recited only parts of sentences. Opposing counsel continued, despite the objection.

Robinson leaned over counsel table and whispered to his opponent:

"Just read until you come to a dot."

It is needless, so it is, for us to point out to the people ("my readers," as the columnists say) that political speeches are nine times out of nine the bunk. Their texture is (and this is a very pretty sentence) tissue which curls up and vanishes with one whisk of the wind. Especially is this true of the noon-day speeches. A political speech at noon is as dull as the first day after vacation. At noon loquacious, to say the least, lawyers, politicians and ward chairmen drop around to their respective candidates' headquarters, mount the rostrum and speak eloquently to an audience of six persons who are all waiting their turn to speak. If the audience is greater, it doesn't matter, because they're all for that candidate or they wouldn't be there.

The speeches are made up of hollow but impressive phrases. A veteran political campaigner doesn't have to start to prepare his speech until he is halfway through speaking. During this last campaign a noon-day speaker noted in the rear of the hall a friend whom he hadn't seen for many months. The friend was a detective in a downtown store, and his presence inspired the speaker, who improvised thusly: "Why, just the other day I was talking with a friend who is a department store detective and he was telling me that four out of every five women who come into the store are in favor of our candidate."

One of the neatest bits of strategy executed during the recent political campaign is credited to Frank E. Shaughnessy, campaign manager of the anti-dry Phillips-Bohlen ticket.

Mr. Shaughnessy was on the air for 15 minutes. Immediately following him, on, of course, another program, was Floyd Gibbons, radio reporter, with the stray vote in the national poll on prohibition.

"And now," said Mr. Shaughnessy, in concluding his anti-prohibition speech, "Floyd Gibbons will give you the figures."

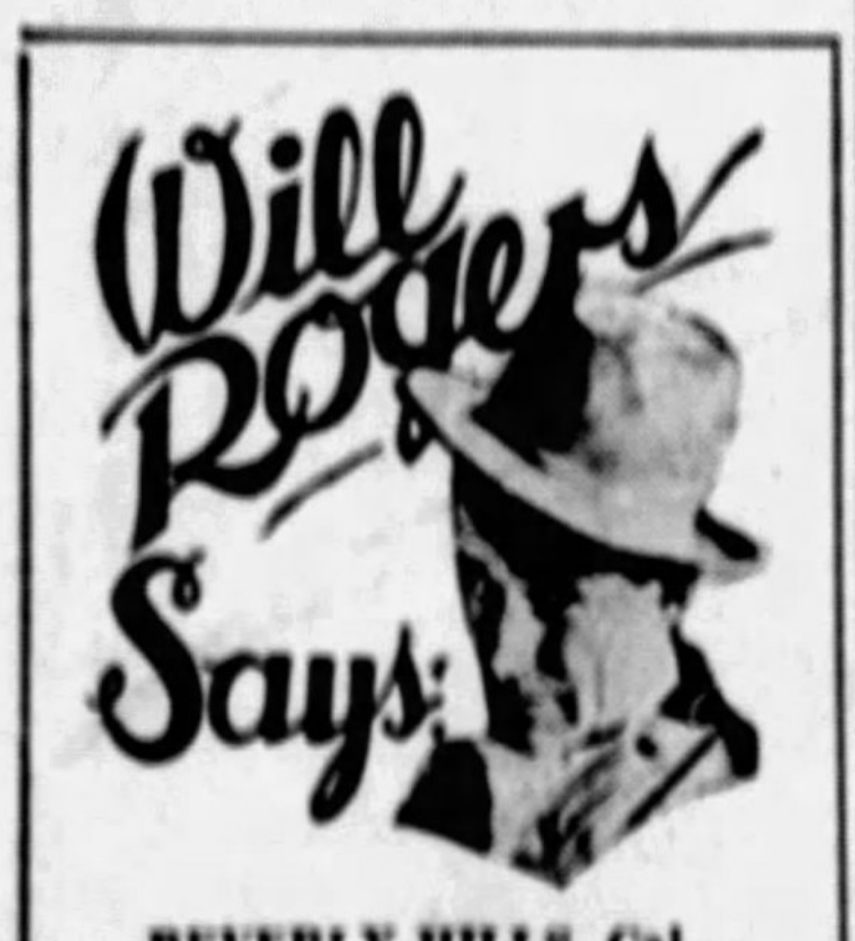
Jimmy McKay, one of the veteran political figures of Pittsburgh, tells about Joe Armstrong's first political job. Joe, like most other South Siders, was working in a glass factory in the 1880's when a strike or bad times put him out of work. Young, red-haired and strong, Joe managed to obtain a job on the county roads.

BOY THIS IS WORK!

Joe found the work more strenuous than he had anticipated, but he carried on. After a few weeks of this he learned that he had been doing the work not of one man, but of three, and that the two shirkers had been taking advantage of his inexperience. Probably you have guessed that one of those two was Jimmy McKay.

Will Rogers Says:



BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 20.—President Hoover today is reviewing our whole American fleet. It looks awful unnecessary to see all those ships, and not a war booked. But taxpayers they are our spare tire. The countries that have no navies are standing by the roadside fixing a flat.

England without her navy would be another Chechoslovakia. America has a unique record. We never lost a boat in battle, but we have had many a one shot from under us at a conference. Did you ever figure it out, had we never conferred, we wouldn't have to be conferring now to try and get parity.

Yours,
WILL.

ZONE LAW O. K. STIRS FIGHT IN MT. LEBANON

Public Protests Fail to Halt Board Majority in Plan For Holding Secret Meets

Resentment against three commissioners of Mt. Lebanon Township flamed anew today as the district learned that protest on the manner of hearing zoning law changes was ignored.

At a meeting of the board last night three commissioners to two voted an amendment to the ordinance regulating zoning. It provides that any proposed changes be heard at a public meeting, with the commissioners giving their decision at a succeeding meeting. The decision was formerly made at the same public hearing.

FOUGHT BY CIVIC GROUP

Protest against the amendment was made by representatives of the Mt. Lebanon Township Civic Association at a public meeting last Friday night. At previous meetings heated discussions over the zoning act occurred. At present the Civic group, headed by J. V. Long, president, is having petitions signed by the citizens demanding that the three majority commissioners resign. They are Clarence Shook, chairman; Charles Clatty and Ferdinand Vitte. Vitte presented the amendment. F. H. Clark and F. A. Meneilly opposed it.

Previously the three majority commissioners were subjected to the fire of the Civic group for the dismissals of Frank Shriner, borough solicitor for 16 years, and Charles Baldwin, police chief for the same length of time.

PLEDGE BROKEN, CHARGE

The group alleged that the commissioners were elected last November principally on promises not to make these dismissals, and as well to prevent changes in the zoning laws.

At the meeting last night, in which the public was not allowed participation, plans for a swimming pool were presented, and suggestions made to illuminate the township park's tennis courts and open them Sunday afternoons.

RURAL SCHOOLS HOLD EXERCISES

Marking the first of the 1930 commencements in Elizabeth Township, the W. M. B. U. Hall in Blythedale will be the scene tomorrow night of joint exercises for the graduates of Blythedale and Smithdale school, with F. H. Remaley as the principal speaker. Friday evening, joint exercises will be held for graduates of Industry and Buena Vista schools, with C. E. Dickey as the principal speaker.

Tuesday, May 27, exercises for graduates of Boston school will be held in the Boston United Presbyterian Church, with F. H. Remaley as the principal speaker. Wednesday, May 28, the Elizabeth Borough High School auditorium will be the scene of commencement exercises for the largest class in the township, Wylie school, when Assistant County Superintendent C. W. Peters will be the principal speaker. Thursday, May 29, J. W. Werry will be the speaker for the graduation exercises for Greenock school, and Monday evening, June 2, F. H. Remaley will be the speaker at the Victory school commencement.

The diplomas will be presented by the township supervising principal, C. F. Montgomery.

Brewery Appeals Loss of Permit

The Mt. Pleasant Beverage Company, Inc., of Mt. Pleasant, filed an equity suit in Federal Court, asking for the review of the revocation of its permit by Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington March 19. The administrator held, in his decision, that the company falsely reported the dealcoholization of 50 barrels of illegal beer.

GIRL UNAFRAID

By GLADYS JOHNSON

CHAPTER XXXVI.

A bleak moment when Ken's eyes clung to her own. A moment when the little shop seemed to race to a great distance. When the sound of voices, the clatter of teacups from the Smokerie appeared to die, so that she and Ken faced each other across a blank grayness which held neither time nor reality.

Sharp dismay in the girl's heart. Oh, he was so changed! It was not so much that he looked older, as that something of youth was gone.

The compelling Ken of that golden Sunday on the marshes—the laughing Ken who had dragged her away from Tom on the toboggan—little of them left in the man who now came slowly into the shop.

Yet the brilliant Ken of those days never dragged on her heart strings as the sight of him dragged now. Ardeth felt her face go cold. Her hand moved in a little flutter to her throat.

"Why . . . Ken . . ."

He came over to the glass case. Faced her and she gained the impression that he put a tight leash on his mind to keep from going to pieces.

"I guess if the dead come back, it's like this—" He tried to smile and the result hurt her.

"Oh, no . . ." Her voice was bleak. "Why . . . why . . ."

He answered the unspoken question. "To take Cecile home. You mustn't think I came on purpose. You mustn't think that, Ardeth. I had to talk to myself to get here. But she asked—and I couldn't refuse without—without—"

Yearning

Ken Asks Ardeth About Herself

She finished the thought in her mind. Refusal to call for her would have led to a scene with Cecile. A scene bristling with sneers at Ardeth. Sneers which would have hurt him.

Ken's eyes were drinking her in as a thirsty man would gulp water. The dear naturalness of her. The warm human quality. The tender curve to the soft lips. The sweet frankness of her gaze . . . After months of Cecile's glittering artificiality, the man found them doubly dear.

A wave of yearning love went over his heart. He found himself asking in a shaking voice: "How are you getting on, Ardeth? What do you do . . ."

Again that odd little movement as though her hands would fly away. "Oh . . . I get on. The shop. And I read a lot."

His eyes had found a place where the bright hair brushed her temple. A place his lips had known.

He gave a little harsh laugh. "Hard to believe, isn't it? Ardeth—don't let this keep you from life. You know what I mean—your own life. Just because mine's wrecked . . ."

"Oh, no." Her voice was faint. She began to stroke the long, black ostrich feathers of a fan.

Sees Neil

Surprised as She Meets Him on Street

"Well, I was beginning to think you were never coming, Ken!" Cecile's high voice sliced through the air. She stood in the doorway of the Smokerie, surveying them through the violet haze of her perfumed cigaret. The pale grey eyes held a bright, malicious smile as they swept the other girl's face.

This glimpse of Ken made it harder to bear. If he had deliberately hurt her, her pride would have braced Ardeth. She could have forced herself to go out with Tom—make herself forget that delirious, happy time. But to see him unhappy—knowing he was yearning for her . . .

A few nights later, as she walked up the hill toward her hotel she heard her name called. Neil stood beside her.

"Neil!" Her voice was slightly incredulous. Not since that stormy scene with Aunt Stel had she seen Neil. He had sunk out of sight with that earlier life of hers which had become dreamlike.

It was so long since she had even thought of Neil that she looked at him with secret embarrassment. All resentment had died—all feeling toward him, in fact.

"Just happened to be passing—caught sight of you—" he explained awkwardly.

An embarrassed little pause when neither knew what to say. Neil had fitted his step to hers—was walking up the hill.

Astonishing to have him appear out of the past like this. A certain raw force about him. Had he always been so big? She eyed him beneath her lashes, rather disturbed, as they talked commonplaces.

Change Noted

Neil Sees Difference In Ardeth

They spoke of the Fell street flat. The Harrisons were going to move. Aunt Stel had sciatica; she wanted a place where there were not so many stairs. Bet had a beau at last—a red-headed shoe clerk who took her to his lodge dances. Neil's father had been arrested in some labor riots and had very nearly gone to jail. Granny Burke was poorly. The cold this last winter had bothered her a lot. She missed Ardeth . . . On and on, in Neil's rough voice, that strange past to which she had once astonishingly belonged. . . .

All the time, the man's eyes were taking her in, miserably aware of the change in her. Change, which Ardeth herself did not realize.

This was not the eager young girl he had waylaid in the hall of the flat and mauled in his young lovemaking. Something about her which abashed him. Even her voice was changed. Speaking with Mary Eastwood had given depth to it, even as the hours of lonely reading had given depth to her mind. It was more than the quiet distinction of her clothes—a quality which Neil could describe to himself only as "class." It was something deeper. Some integral quality—though he did not put it thus to himself.

Neil Angered

Says Ardeth Is Ashamed Of Him

He knew bewildered resentment. Always, in the back of his mind had been the thought of Ardeth—Ardeth who would come back to him when she'd got "this society rot" out of her head.

He hated her now for the change which had removed her from his thought of her. Hated himself for noticing the gulf.

His embarrassment transmitted itself to the girl. She tried to dissemble by keeping up a running stream of light comment, to which he returned grunts.

At the door of the hotel she turned with secret relief and held out her hand.

"It's been so good to see you again, Neil—"

He ignored that kind little hand. His black eyes burned with wretched anger. In a mighty effort to break through the wall which separated them he burst into rough speech:

"You don't mean that, Ardeth. You've hated seeing me. That's what they've done to you. Made you ashamed of the people you used to know. You're ashamed because you loved me once. Well—you did. You used to like to have me kiss you—"

His eyes blazed in accusation, his dark face was flushed. In his own bewildered fashion, Neil was suffering.

WARN SHIPPERS OF NEW RATES ON STEEL

Increase Effective Today Affects Delivered Price Of All Finished Products

With the Interstate Commerce Commission's increased freight rate on manufactured iron and steel articles scheduled to go into effect today, a warning was issued last night to shippers in this district by Donald O. Moore, manager of the traffic division of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Moore reminded shippers to procure the correct rates this morning instead of relying on rate sheets or other information.

The change in rates would be effective on carload lots both East and West of the city, and on less than carload shipments East of Pittsburgh within a radius of 125 miles. Shippers in quoting prices should be careful to base them on the new rates, Moore said.

The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce is leading the fight against the increase and has enlisted many of the local industrial concerns. A hearing is to be held before the Public Service Commission either June 11 or 12. Final plans for the presentment of the Pittsburgher's case to the commission will be discussed tomorrow afternoon when 15 traffic men, representing some 60 steel producing and consuming concerns will discuss the new scale.

ASKS HILL ROAD BE EXTENDED

The extension of Mt. Washington roadway from its present terminal at the portals of the Liberty Tubes to South Tenth street is more important so far as the handling of traffic is concerned, than the present highway, according to Councilman George J. Kambach.

Ordinances providing for the extension, introduced by Kambach, will be considered by Council in committee tomorrow. Today's meetings were postponed because of the election.

Explaining that he did not wish to minimize the importance of the present roadway, Kambach declared that its usefulness would be greatly increased by the extension. In addition, the extension, he said, is a necessary improvement in connection with the new South Tenth street bridge.

The project will cost about $1,000,000, available in bond funds.

MISSION CIRCLE HOLDS JUBILEE

The Woman's Home Missionary Society, Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, will hold their golden jubilee luncheon at 1 p. m. tomorrow in the church social rooms.

The speaking program will be given by Mrs. John B. Magee, Mrs. A. T. Morgan and Mrs. C. C. Heckman. Hostesses will be Mrs. Ira D. Johnston, Mrs. John E. Jones, Mrs. H. W. Leonard, Mrs. S. E. Evans, Mrs. L. H. Leighton, Mrs. Harry J. Stern, Mrs. Barthelmeh, Mrs. J. G. Winterton, Mrs. H. B. Walker, Mrs. H. P. Snyder, Mrs. Williard Moon, Mrs. C. S. Uline, Mrs. J. G. Thompson, Mrs. C. M. KEEPING PLANES AWAY

R. E. MARBURY WITH HIS "OBSTRUCTION LIGHT"

Inventor Marbury, Westinghouse, just after his new light was set up on the Cathedral of Learning to be lit at night so that airplane pilots won't run into it! It burns red.

AIR LIGHT TOPS 'CATHEDRAL'

A marker has been placed 40 floors above the ground, on top of the Cathedral of Learning in Oakland, by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company to warn low-flying aircraft. The marker is designed to demonstrate the protection it affords tall unlighted buildings at night from aircraft.

The ball of red light, about three feet in diameter, will be visible five miles on a clear night. The marker will resemble a spread umbrella with six U-shaped neon tubes sloping downward from the center. The umbrella covering—made of metal—protects the tubes from weather.

R. E. Marbury, Westinghouse engineer, developed the marker.

CIRCUS DRAWS DESPITE RAIN

The three-ring Sells-Floto circus, with its sawdust and its silk-hatted barkers, still holds its attractions for Pittsburghers. A crowd estimated at 5,000, braved the downpour yesterday and between showers dodged from one tent to another to attend the first circus of the year. The show will continue today at the Point Breeze lot, Fifth and Penn avenues.

The circus is featured by the appearance of Tom Mix and his horse Tony. Tom and Tony arrived here Sunday morning amid the cheers of Pittsburgh's official circus greeters—the youngsters.

Pittsburgh's boys used all the favorite devices known to children to gain admittance to the show. Water, great bucketfulls of it, were carried to the elephants. Other boys, not so fond of work, managed to crawl under the sides of the "big top."

HINT TO CAFE MANAGERS CHARGED

Aides Ridicule Statement Dry Chief Asked Patrons' Bottles be Kept Hidden

Attorney E. Lowry Humes, appearing in Federal court in behalf of the Nixon cafe and Plaza restaurant, caused a furore when he declared Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington had asked the proprietors of the restaurants to co-operate with him by asking patrons to keep their bottles of liquor in their pockets or under tables.

The declaration was made after United States Attorney Louis E. Graham made motions for preliminary injunctions against the Plaza and Nixon, under the common nuisance clause of the prohibition act, upon bills of complaint filed by Administrator Pennington.

Judge R. M. Gibson denied the motions and set June 23 for final hearings for permanent "padlock" injunctions.

Denial of Humes' charges were issued last night by Harold D. Wilson, assistant administrator in charge of enforcement, and J. M. Moss, chief investigator. Both said Pennington never had talked with representatives of either of the restaurants.

BAN ORDERED

With United States Attorney Louis Graham, then legal aid to Pennington, they carried instructions to the restaurant owners to bar all liquors in their places, they said. Wilson continued:

"It is not the custom of Pennington to hold conferences with anti-rum law violators. I remember being assigned with Graham and Moss to meet Fleming, Tracy and Brown, the renting agent and proprietors of the Plaza. I did most of the talking, because I was the enforcement head. I knew what had been going on in the restaurant and told it to the three men. I made it plain the 'carryings-on' there would have to stop. Conditions were bad in the restaurant. Recently things resumed their old proportions, only worse.

"Then Graham plainly declared the practice of patrons drinking their own liquor, or newly purchased stuff, must stop. He did not tell any of the owners to advise customers to keep their liquor out of sight, either in their pockets or under the table."

DEFEND PENNINGTON

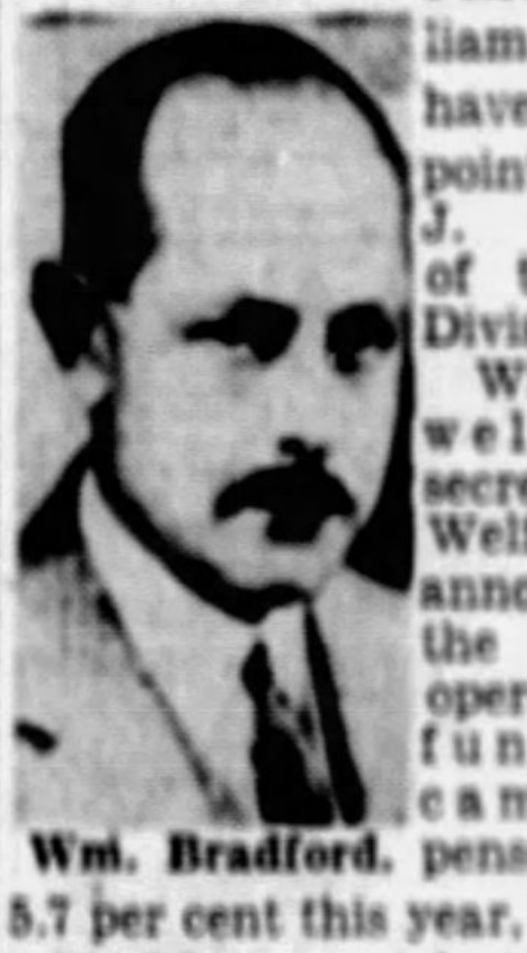
Moss also declared he felt sure Pennington never talked with the Plaza restaurant owners regarding conditions. His statement was along the same lines as that of Wilson.

In the bills of complaint no charges of liquor sales were made against the proprietors of the two restaurants. The bills allege that liquor was carried into the establishments by customers, who were furnished with "setups" of ginger ale and cracked ice to make highballs, by employes of the restaurants. Heretofore all "padlock" injunction proceedings in the district court alleged sales of liquor.

Much of the arguments between Graham and Humes concerned the interpretation of the word "kept" as used in the common nuisance clause of the prohibition act. The bills alleged that the premises were used as a place where intoxicating liquor was "kept" in violation of the dry act.

WELFARE FUND NAMES HEADS

In preparation for the Welfare Fund campaign next November, two district chairmen, Carl L. Peirce and William Bradford, have been appointed by Frank J. Chesterman, of the Employe Division.



Wm. Bradford.

Wilbur F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the Welfare Fund, announced that the expense of operating the fund, including campaign expense, would be 5.7 per cent this year, as compared with 6.5 per cent last year, and an average of 15 per cent in previous campaigns conducted by agencies of social service.

Only nine-tenths of one per cent of the 1929 pledges remain unpaid, Maxwell said.

Stage Novelty, 'The Golem,' To Have Premiere Here

One of the strangest plays ever to be presented on the American stage, "The Golem," will make its first appearance in this country tonight when it opens in the playhouse of the Y. M. & W. H. A., Bellefield avenue.

Developed from an ancient Jewish legend by Boris Glagolin, former head of the Moscow Art Theater, and Russia's most famous "Hamlet," it will be performed principally by Pittsburgh actors. An exception is Sheba Strunsky, formerly of the Provincetown Players, and other experimental organizations, who will play the lead. Mrs. Frank D. Stout, director of the playhouse, is assisting, and Mr. Stout did the settings.

The legend will move through 26 scenes, many of them complemented by incidental scenes in silhouette. Great rocks with living dancers will permit the introduction of a new "movement chorus" of eurythmic dances. Annabel Kempton, of Carnegie Tech; Cecile Bramer, Milton Grauman, Alexander Kann, Alfred E. Smith and many others are in the cast. The music, for which a special organ has been provided, is under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Speer Levy.

CIRCUS CROWDS SEE STORAGE PLANT BURN

Flames Light Scene for Blocks; Dozen Companies Called by Four Alarms

Two firemen were injured and damaged estmated at $50,000 resulted from a spectacular fire in the three-story frame storage house of the Red Line Transfer Company, at 7007-09 Kelly street, last night.

Four alarms brought firemen from a dozen companies to the scene, and they fought the blaze for more than an hour before it was brought under control. Flames which leaped about 75 feet into the air illuminated the sky and attracted large crowds most of them from the circus grounds.

BOYS SPREAD ALARM

Samuel Miller, 17, son of the proprietor, S. A. Miller, and his cousin, Lester Winters, 19, were in the Miller apartment on the second floor of the building when they discovered smoke. They ran to the third floor and there gave alarm to two cousins, Mrs. Marie Naugler, 26, and Miss Billie Custer. Mrs. Naugler, asleep, was led to the street by the two boys.

A half dozen families residing in adjacent dwellings were driven into the street. Some of them obtained garden hose and doused their frame homes with water to keep flying sparks from igniting them.

FIREMEN TREATED

Firemen John Foster, of No. 38 Engine Company, and John Beckert, of No. 29 Engine Company, injured while battling the flames, were treated by Police and Fire Surgeon D. E. Sable. Foster suffered a laceration of the knee when struck by glass, and Beckert sustained a sprained ankle when he slipped.

Streets in the vicinity of the fire were roped off by police from East End, Squirrel Hill, Penn avenue and Oakland stations.

The Millers were at the Homewood Presbyterian Church, with another son, Robert, 14, rehearsing for a church play, at the time. Fire Chief Richard L. Smith, who said the cause was undetermined, estimated the damage at $35,000. Miller placed it at $50,000. He said that virtually all of the furniture stored in the rear part of the building was destroyed.

$52,000 ASKED FOR BRIDGES

A bridge repair schedule totaling $52,000 has been submitted to Council for approval by the Department of Public Works. Authority is asked to advertise for bids.

Bridges listed are the Baum boulevard bridge over the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Murray avenue bridge over Beechwood boulevard, the Boehm street bridge over the Baltimore & Ohio, the South Twenty-second street bridge and the Herr's Island structure over the back channel of the Allegheny River.

For the last named $8,000 is asked, while $30,000 is wanted for structural repairs to the Twenty-second street bridge. A total of $14,500 is asked to gunnite the bridges as a protection against engine smoke.

Hit-Run Motorist Sought After Crash

A hit-and-run motorist who struck an automobile driven by S. Van Lewin, of 1803 Realty avenue, Beechview, in Sawmill Run boulevard last night, was being sought by police today. Van Lewin's wife, Bessie, 55, suffered severe bruises. She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Sergeant Risks Injury to Save Squirrel

Police Sergeant Michael Daugherty, of the Woods Run police station, braved possible injury to please a group of small boys yesterday when he climbed a telegraph pole in a rain storm to rescue a squirrel.

The squirrel climbed the pole at Ketchum street and Preble avenue. The boys, fearing electrocution, were afraid to climb the pole. Daugherty then rescued the climber.

Boy Shot in Arm By Chum's Pistol

As a result of having been accidentally shot in the arm, Charles Utecht, 17, of 513 Edgar way, was in West Penn Hospital today.

Utecht and three companions were walking near the Stanton Heights Golf Club when a revolver which Harry Whitfield, 16, of 513 Edgar way, was carrying, discharged when he slipped, police say. The bullet struck Utecht in the arm. Whitfield told police he found the revolver Sunday. The other two boys, Francis Jackson, 17, and his brother, Mervin, 15, of 511 Edgar way, also were questioned by police.

WOULDN'T LIVE HERE, DIVORCED

Walter Arion Janssen, 42, of the Iroquois Apartments, who testified that he could not induce his wife to come to Pittsburgh, has been granted a divorce from Evelyn Janssen, 34, by Judge Samuel H. Gardner.

The Janssens were married in Chicago, September 27, 1922, and where Mrs. Janssen is secretary to the president of a Chicago business concern. While Janssen lived in Chicago he was the vice president of a foundry company.

He came to Pittsburgh in 1926 to design and operate a new foundry for the Pittsburgh Malleable Iron Company, but declared his wife refused to come here with him. He explained his opportunities and went to Chicago in an effort to persuade her to live in Pittsburgh, but failed. Janssen, who testified his wife lives in Roscoe street, Chicago, charges her with desertion.

WIFE LEAVES, GETS DIVORCE

His wife believing she had lost everything when their two childred died, Mrs. Lucy D. Longstreet left William O. Longstreet, 104 East Ohio street, resulting in Judge Frank P. Patterson granting the latter a divorce.

Longstreet told the court he did not know why his wife had gone away, unless it was because of the death of their two children, aged 17 and 18, in 1927. They died within five weeks of each other. The libellant, who is a World War veteran, said his wife had told him she felt if there was nothing else left in the world for her.

He remonstrated with her about leaving, but she said she did not want to stay and he knows nothing of her whereabouts.

The couple were married at Waukegan, Ill., May 2, 1907. They resided at 507 East Ohio street at the time of the wife's departure.

Injured in Crash, Sues for $10,000

Grover C. Priest, injured April 3 last when the machine in which he was riding collided with an automobile owned by the Pittsburgh Candy and Cigar Company at Irwin and Ridge avenues, has brought suit for $10,000 damages against the latter. Priest avers he received injuries to his back and that the accident has proved a shock to his nervous system.

BAR TO BALLOT ON JUDGESHIP

By a vote of 40 to 27, the Allegheny County Bar Association yesterday decided to hold a referendum to suggest to Gov. John S. Fisher a successor to Judge John A. Evans, retired.

Arthur M. Scully, president of the bar association, was recently in communication with Gov. Fisher who indicated he would be glad to hear from the association.

The time for holding the referendum was left to the descretion of the executive committee of the bar association. At the previous election, the three candidates receiving the highest vote were recommended to the governor, to succeed the late Richard W. Martin.

Judge Samuel H. Gardner, who was chosen by the governor, and who was the district attorney, received the third highest vote.

She leaves four sons, Donald and Thomas McKim, at home; Robert, of Bellevue, and Andrew McKim, of Cleveland, and five daughters, Mrs. George E. Thomas and Mrs. Herbert E. Morse, of Youngstown, O.; Mrs. A. D. Reynolds, Miss Lillian and Miss Annie McKim, at home.

The Camera Question Box

Today's question: Who do you predict will be elected governor and United States senator and on what do you base your prediction?

Miss Mara

MISS CAL MARA, East End, secretary: I predict that Gifford Pinchot will win out for governor because of his past record as holder of that office. Pinchot, I believe, has the confidence of the people and is free from gang politicians. Davis, I think, will be elected senator, for he is the popular candidate.

P. E. Fleeger

PAUL E. FLEEGER, East End, radio announcer: In my opinion Pinchot will lead the field in the governorship race. Voters look upon him as a man who is independent and capable. The fight for senator is a difficult one to judge, but when the votes are counted I feel fairly certain Grundy will win. Grundy is wise in the ways of politics.

Miss Gorwick

ANN V. GORWICK, East End, secretary: The winners will be Pinchot and Davis. Pinchot is too well known and has too much experience in the game of politics to go down to defeat. He is a good man, too. All the working people will vote for Mr. Davis, for he has always showed an interest in them.

Miss Marshall

MILDRED MARSHALL, Greenfield, store manager: According to all I hear and read, Davis and Pinchot seem to have the advantage. There is no doubt in my mind that both men have gained the favor of the middle class. It is this class that will cast the greatest number of votes. Senator Grundy is too closely connected with big business.

H. C. Sumner

H. C. SUMNER, East End, clerk: I'm not much good at predicting the outcome of elections, especially Pennsylvania elections. Too many things may happen. As it appears now Pinchot and Davis are leading. Although these two do not know any more than other candidates, they are the most popular with the people.

C. A. Belt

C. A. BELT, Crafton Heights, foreman: I predict that Pinchot will be our next governor and Davis the next United States senator. Both men have had much experience in governmental affairs and have made influential friends during their various terms of office. Then, too, they are more or less independent.

HOME DAMAGED $50,000 ASKED

Frank Meyer, Jr., 983 Becks Run Road, Baldwin Township, who claims Becks Run overflowed through carelessness of the City of Pittsburgh, destroying the furnishings of his home and eventually causing the death of his wife, Mrs. Nellie Meyer, has sued the city for $50,000 damage.

In his bill of particulars filed in Common Pleas Court, Meyer says the city built a culvert in Becks Run between East Carson street and the former borough of Carrick. Debris was permitted to collect around the culvert, interferring with the natural flow of the water course. On July 4, 1928, following a storm he claims his premises were deluged by water. His house was in such condition that his wife slipped on the floor, injuring her back and other parts of her body, eventually causing her death. He claims the city was negligent.

HOUSEMAIDS PLENTIFUL

Hard to get housemaids?
Hard to keep them?

The cry of the American housewife has been answered by Miss Drusilla Holton, of the employment bureau of the Woods Run settlement.

She says:

"More women—several times as many—are available this year for positions as maids, nurses, laundresses, cooks than there were last year."

"The scarcity of good maids is pure fiction. Not only that, but people are keeping their maids, as is shown by the scarcity of jobs for them."

She says the settlement has listed, waiting for jobs, a grandmother struggling to continue life insurance in favor of six grand-children; a mother with six children under 14, whose 42-year-old husband is told he is "too old" by employers; a mother with six children under 12 years who relies on day work to keep them fed and clothed.

COURT CHANGES POLLING PLACE

C. V. Johnston, 173 Highland avenue, West View, is serving as judge of elections in the Sixth District of the borough today, following his eleventh hour appointment by Judge Harry H. Rowand, in Quarter Sessions Court yesterday, to fill the place formerly held by Albert Poli.

A last minute change in the polling place of the Second District of the Second Ward, Millvale, was made by the judge when he signed an order changing the polls from 227 North avenue to 213 North avenue.

TRAFFIC COUNT DETAILS LAID

Acting Traffic Engineer Donald M. McNeil today announced the 22 points at which city traffic policemen will be placed to give tags during the city's first "origin and destination" count to be conducted Thursday by the Better Traffic Committee. The count is to determine the routes taken by vehicles through the Triangle.

Each entrance to the downtown district will be covered by two traffic officers, one for outbound and the other for the inbound traffic between 6 a. m. and 12 p. m. Each motorist will be given a card upon entrance to the district and he will return it upon leaving.

The county seeks to substantiate a contention that more than 18 per cent of all vehicles using the Triangle might be by-passed without harming the district commercially.

WARRANTS DUE IN SHOW BOAT

First Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt today was to swear out informations against the persons believed responsible for the operation of the gambling establishment on the "Show Boat," which was raided last week by Federal prohibition agents. This action was to have been taken yesterday, but Federal agents failed to turn over necessary evidence to Langfitt.

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington has forwarded to Langfitt copies of the petitions filed in Federal court for padlocking the boat for liquor law violations. In this petition are mentioned the names of George Jaffe and F. P. Graham as alleged operators.

400 CHURCHES REPRESENTED AT MEET

Speaker Scores Gandhi For Retroactive Demands; Two Sessions Mark Day

Mahatma Gandhi's demand that India return to the spinning wheels of its forefathers is but another proof that defensive nationalism in Oriental nations has become a "protective religion" against western progress, the Rev. Samuel W. Stagg, editor of the Philippine Observer, told delegates today at the opening session of the Methodist Episcopal Church Foreign Missions convention in Memorial Hall.

3,000 DELEGATES HERE

More than 3,000 delegates from churches in Western Pennsylvania, Erie, and parts of West Virginia are in attendance at the two-day conclave. Bishop Herbert Welch, of the Pittsburgh district, is in charge. Speakers include Methodist missionaries to Korea, Japan, India and China.

Mr. Stagg said:

"The dominant passion around the world today is an exaggerated nationalism.

"Nationalism and materialism are the results of people of the Orient in turning inward upon themselves to stop aggression. Unity of Christian religions is the solution of the problem of attacks against the church."

The other speaker at the opening session was the Rev. F. H. Otto Melle, president, Martin's Mission Institute, Frankfort, Germany, who spoke on "The Church in Southeastern Europe."

TWO SESSIONS HELD

Two sessions, one this afternoon and the other tonight, will bring the first day's activities to a close. Speakers will include Dr. Ralph A. Ward, H. K. Mondol, Calcutta high school teacher, and Bishop James C. Baker, of Seoul area, Korea.

Four hundred Methodist churches of Pittsburgh and surrounding districts are represented at the convention by their pastors and groups of laymen.

POSTAL SURVEY HERE PLEDGED

With the promise that government officials at Washington will make a new survey of the situation involving probable alterations in the plans for the projected Pittsburgh Federal Building, the delegation of Pittsburgh business men headed by Arthur E. Braun returned today from a conference at the national capital. Sixty days will be required for the study, it was stated, and if material changes are made in the plans a further delay of nine months to a year would result.

Before this decision was reached yesterday there was a heated discussion between Fourth Assistant Postmaster General John W. Philip and members of the Pittsburgh delegation. It was brought out that one of the problems to be settled is to provide for the railway mail service as well as the regular postoffice unit.

One of the suggestions of the Pittsburgh delegation called for the purchase by the government of an additional plot of ground on Seventh avenue across the street from the Federal building site. It was proposed that an auxiliary building be erected to permit unloading of mail trucks. The mail would be conveyed to the main structure through a tunnel under the street, thus overcoming the traffic problem.

'Field Collector' For Sales Licenses

The city treasurer will have a "field collector" to investigate violations of the law requiring peddlers, vendors and others to have licenses, if Council approves an ordinance introduced yesterday. No salary was specified. The new employe would be a special officer authorized to make arrests.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Frances Kier To Make Bow In Fall

Have [illegible] noticed that every other year the bouquet of buds is large and every other year small though none the less [illegible]tant? And as I mentioned yesterday this winter we're [illegible] going to see so many [illegible] girls make their bows [illegible] but the debutantes [illegible] fewer in number will be [illegible] charming and just as [illegible] socially.

I venture to say that not more than 15 girls will be presented to society during the coming winter but the following winter there'll be about twice as many according to those [illegible].

One of the buds of this winter will be [illegible] Frances Kier daughter of [illegible] J Kiers of Beechwood boulevard who's abroad [illegible].

And I [illegible] addition [illegible] called yesterday who [illegible] study next winter and [illegible] 1931 instead of 1930. Marguerite Borntraeger [illegible] daughter of the Carl H Borntraegers of Homewood avenue who's studying at the French School.

And I might add that the Soho Bath board elected yesterday includes Mrs F D Glover Mrs George S Jenks Mrs Karl Warmcastle Mrs Robert McEldowney Wright Mrs Charles H Kline and Mrs Edgar M Tait.

And on the nominating committee were Louis K Manley George Brady Snyder and R E Iffert.

Miss Marie Dermitt looked charming in a beige lace gown with a finger tip jacket of lace and a beige and rose straw hat. Mrs. Theodore F Smith who was among the first to arrive wore a navy blue crepe caped coat and a printed gown of navy blue with a white leaf design and with bands of navy blue crepe as the only trimming. Her hat was of felt.

Mrs James O Pontefract was among the first to arrive wearing a smart black tailleur with a straw hat to match and with her was Mrs Wallis J Tener of New York formerly of Sewickley. I noticed Mrs Herbert A May in a smart fleet blue crepe ensemble with a cape collar of lighter blue. Her hat was of blue straw.

Society Attends

Mrs George Singer Ebbert president of the Girls' School Federation wore a dark green crepe suit with a lighter green blouse and a green felt hat. Others I noticed were Mrs William J Powell in a pirate blue and eggshell print gown and large blue straw hat and her guest Mrs. Ernest O Dorbritz in a navy blue ensemble.

A smartly tailored gray crepe frock, with a coat of grey boasting a caracul-banded cape and a hat of grey felt was worn by Mrs William A Duckham.

And I caught a glimpse of Mrs. James I Marsh Mrs. John B. McCormick Mrs J Sidney Hammond Miss Helen Rauh. Mrs. C S B Ward and Mrs Ambrose Nevin Diehl. Miss Lillian Dermitt wore a black and rose printed crepe dress. Mrs. H. Fred Mercer wore a beige ensemble and Mrs Thomas Orr I noticed, too.

Paper Cups to Cost Drug Chain $275,000

A change from glass to paper cups at the soda fountains of its stores is costing a national chain of drug stores $275,000 according to its local representatives. The change according to the store officials was made because paper cups are more sanitary than glass. Glass service has been costing the company $25,000 a year but the new method of dispensing fountain drinks in paper costs $300,000.

SMALL HATS THAT ARE LARGE IN SMARTNESS

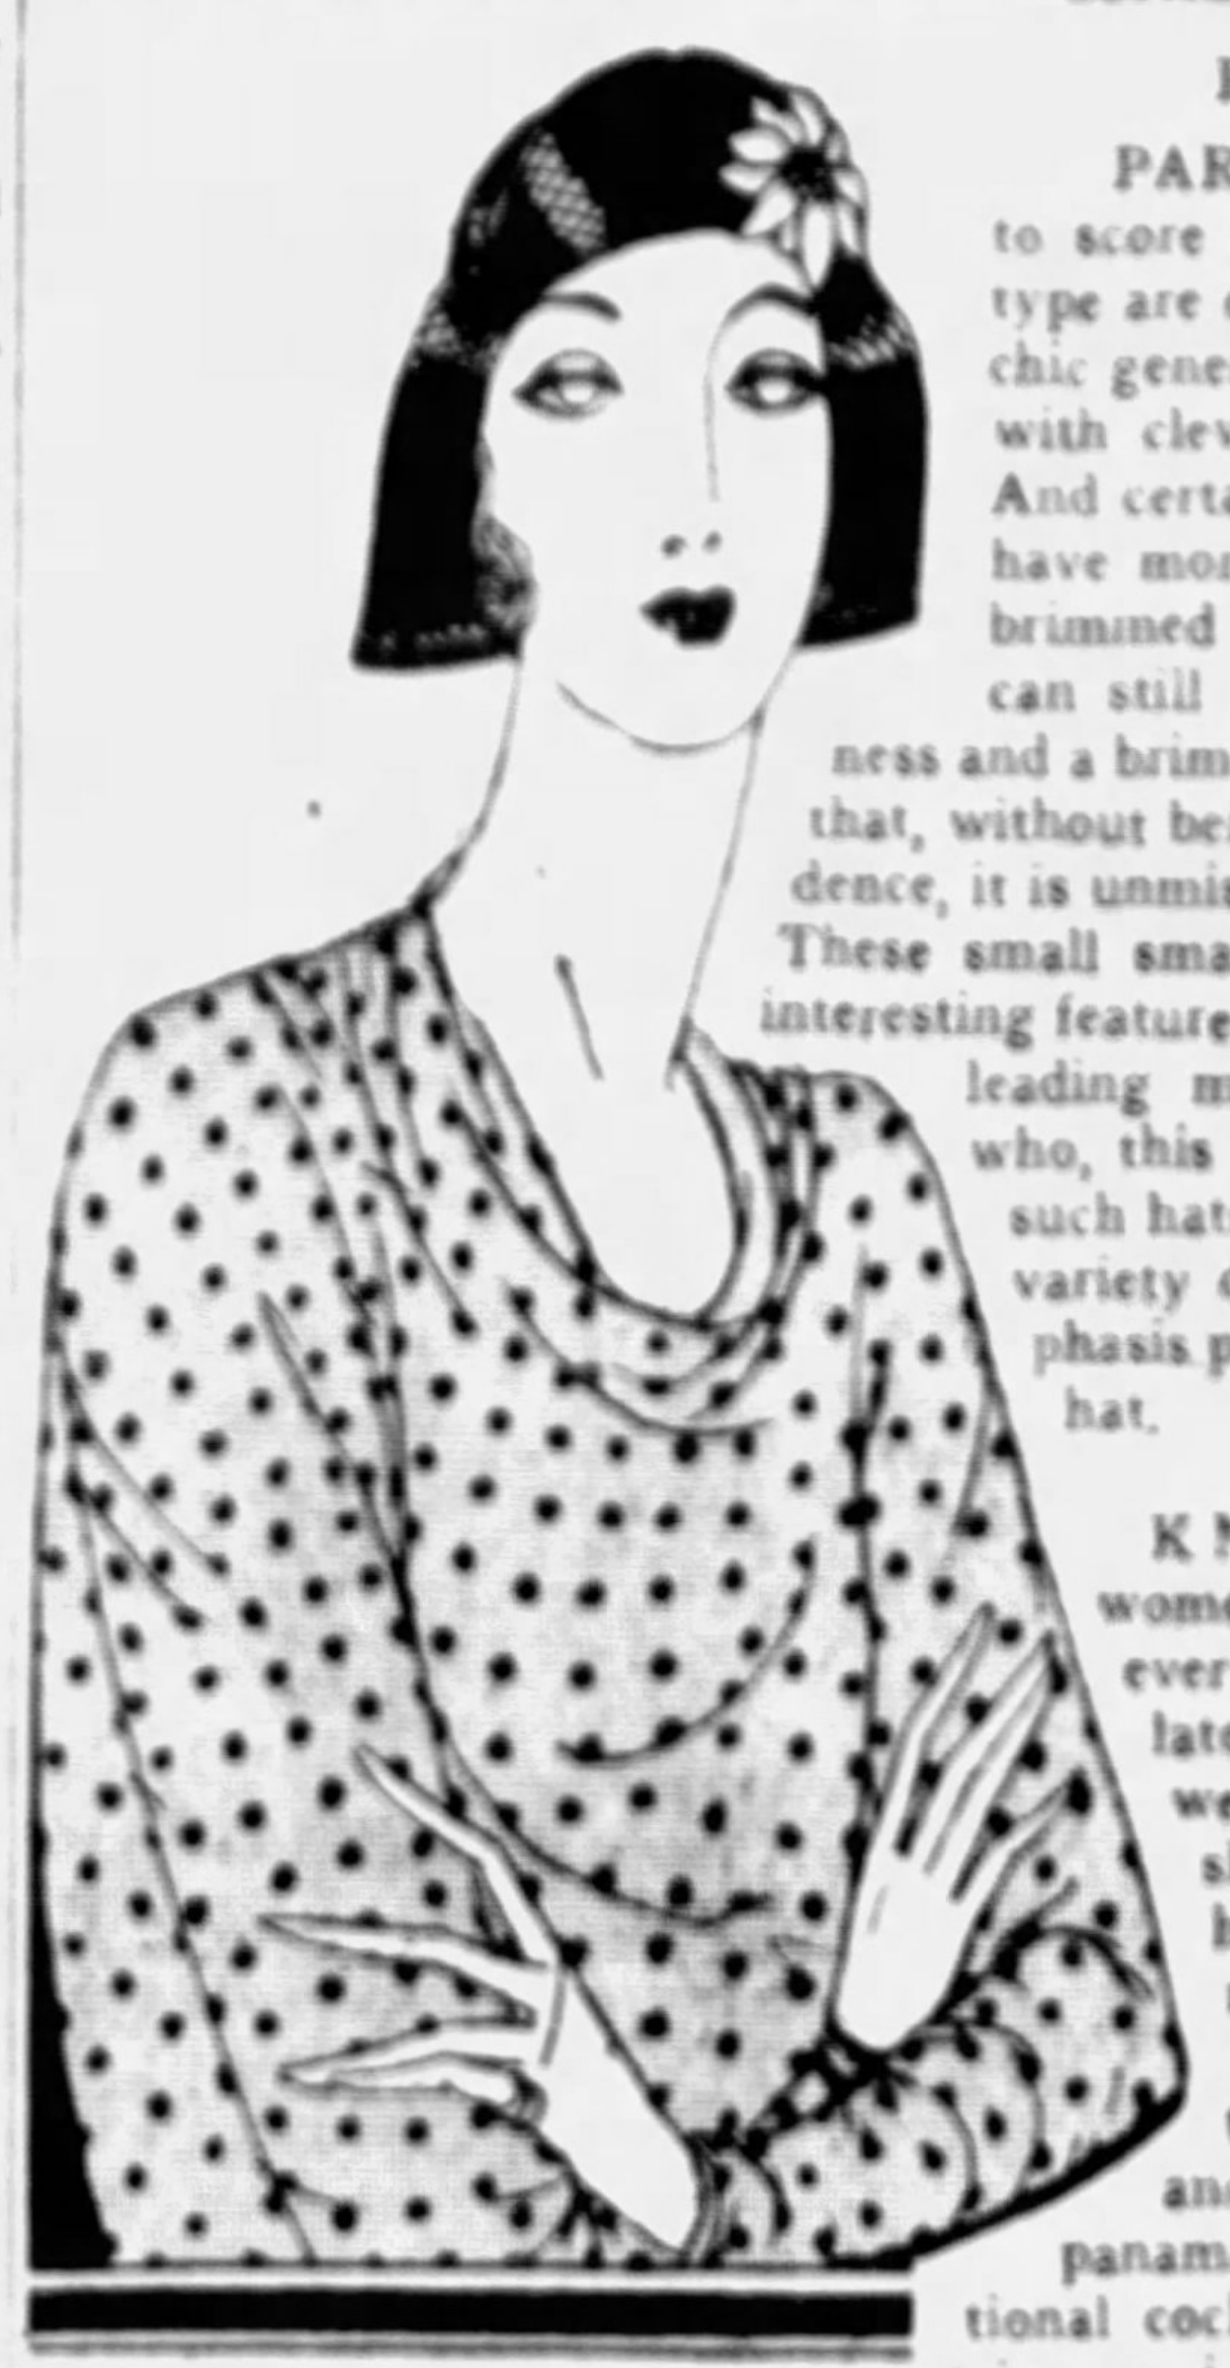
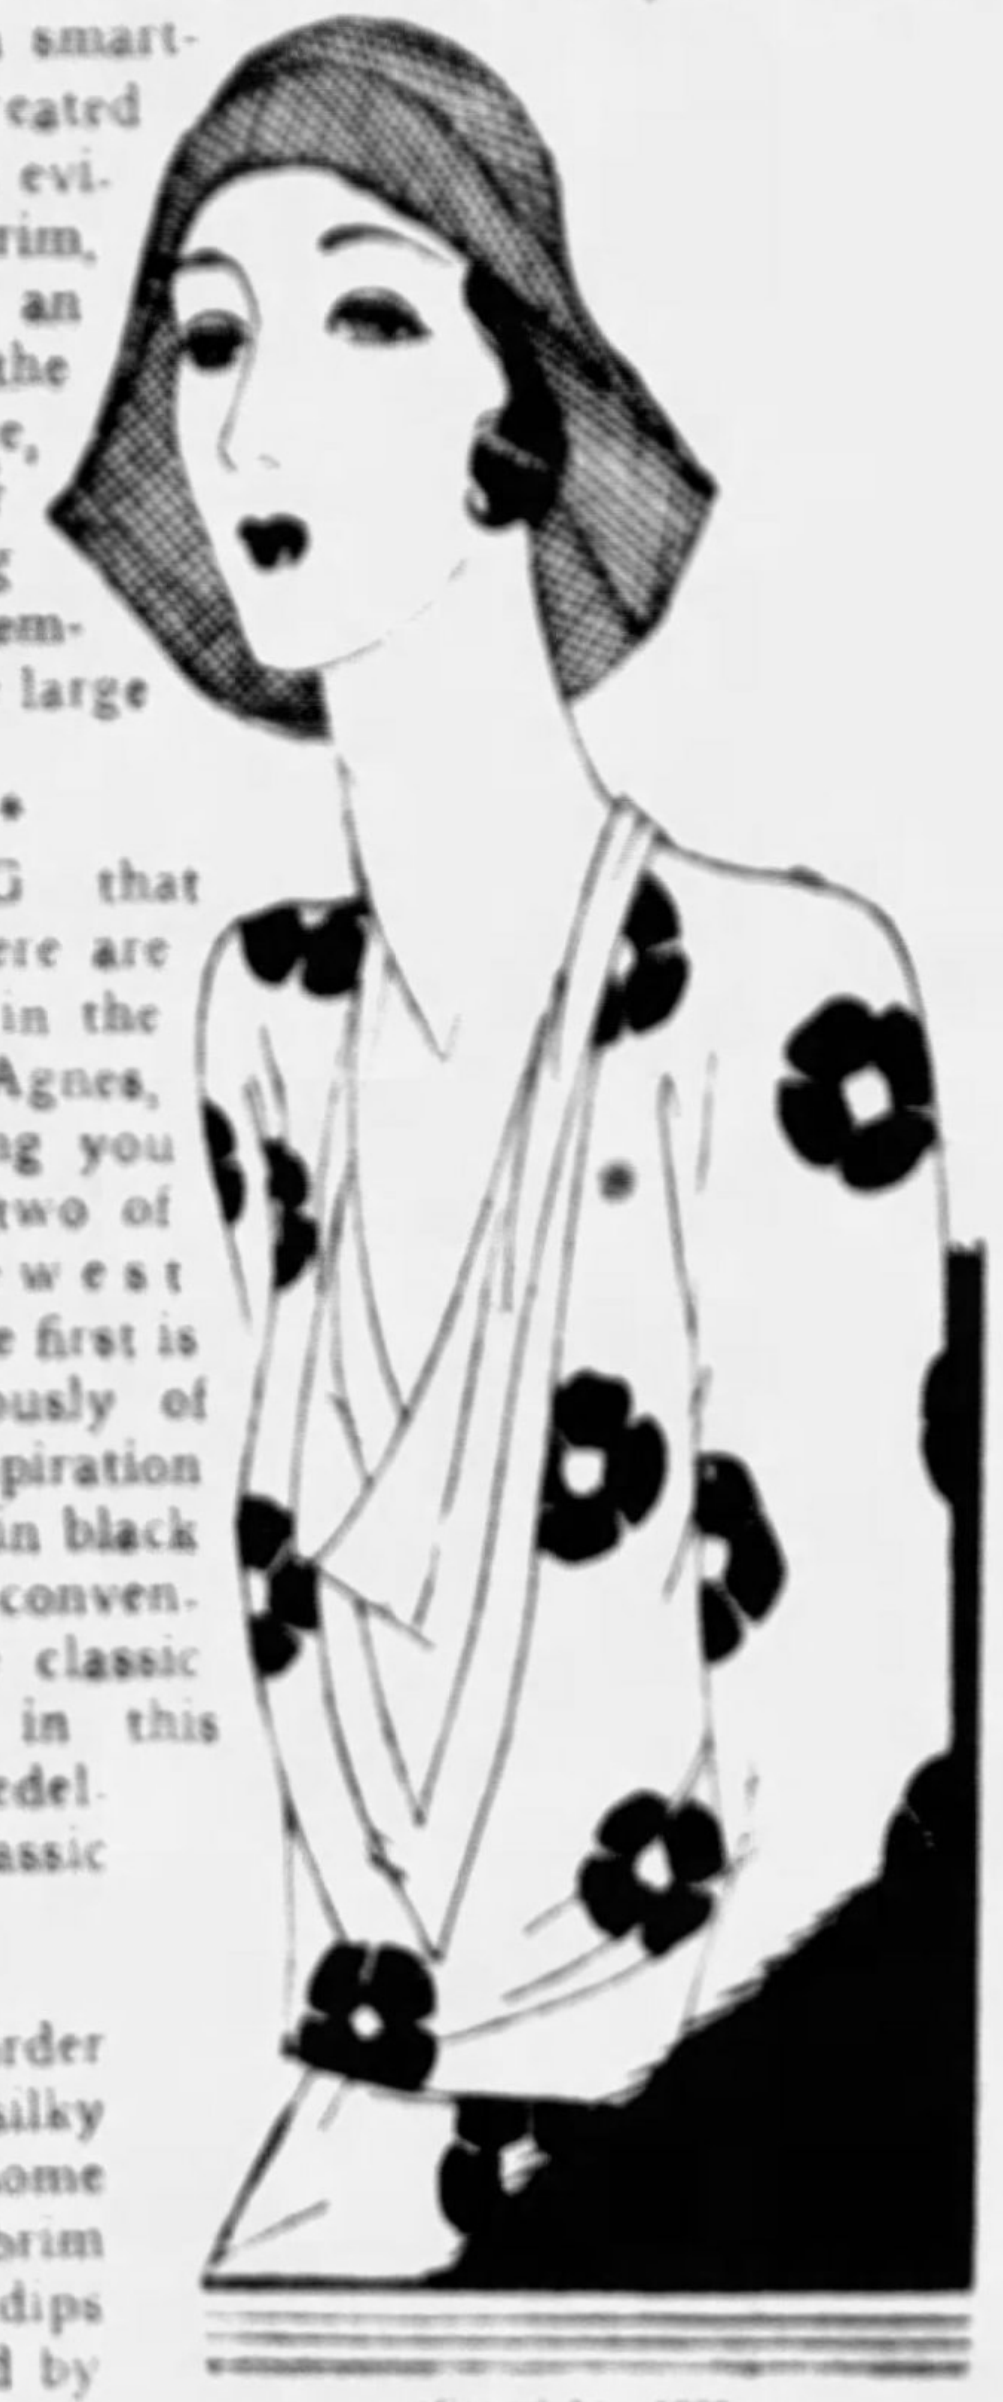
Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.





PARIS, MAY 20.—The piquant little hat continues to score however many hats of the elaborate or picture type are offered for our approval. Women of pronounced chic generally declare themselves in favor of the small hat with clever detail as their choice for all daytime wear. And certainly with simple frocks and suits such chapeaux have more to recommend them than the floppy or wide-brimmed type of headwear. Even if a hat is quite small it can still be big with smartness and a brim can be so treated that, without being much in evidence, it is unmistakably a brim. These small smart hats are an interesting feature of most of the leading milliners here, who, this season offer such hats in pleasing variety despite the emphasis placed on the large hat.

KNOWING that women everywhere are ever interested in the latest ideas of Agnes, we are sending you sketches of two of her very newest models. The first is quite obviously of tricorne inspiration and is offered in black panamalac. The conventional cockade of the classic tricorne is replaced in this model by a large white velvet flower resembling a huge edelweiss. Such a hat would be ideal with a suit of the classic tailleur type.

* * *

THE OTHER HAT is on rather a more elaborate order and Agnes has made it of pink nimpo which is a soft silky straw with a fancy weave that seems destined for quite some popularity as it is very light and comfortable. The brim which is turned back off the face, flares at the sides and dips over the neck in back. Additional smartness is obtained by the pleat at one side.

Romance doesn't always demand Moonlight

PITTSBURGH

Even picnics have their opportunities and simple frocks their charm

WHY is it so many girls think romance must WAIT for just the RIGHT moment? That moonlight, music, atmosphere are essential?

Romance is everywhere—afternoons at the beach, hiking in the country—simple picnics—all have their OPPORTUNITIES.

But you must always look dainty, colorful, attractive—your charming best.

You should know above all the significance of color in clothes. For you needn't wear expensive things if you know this secret.

Men Love Color

Men respond quickly to color—as the old saying goes, "It's color that takes a man's eye." Even on a PICNIC where old clothes are called for, avoid faded blouses, color-dimmed prints. For the loss of original COLOR in a garment means a corresponding loss of ALLURE.

Therefore, let me give you two simple hints—

FIRST: In even your simplest frocks, choose the pretty colors that are most becoming to you.

THEN: Guard the charm of color always from even slight fading—for there is a magnetic appeal in vibrant fresh color.

When I say this, girls often reply that frequent washings—which daintiness demands—too often take the loveliness from colors. If that is the case, you have probably been using the wrong soap.

Ordinary "good" soaps are sometimes not good enough—and some of the color goes with the dirt.

To play absolutely safe, use Lux, which is made to safeguard colors. Lux has a slogan . . . "if it's safe in water, it's safe in Lux." And that's true. DOROTHY DIX

If it's safe in water, it's safe in LUX

Try Lux FREE

Try this marvelous Lux care for your clothes, at our expense. Just send us your name and address. By return mail you will receive a full-size package of Lux free. Write today to Lever Bros. Company, Dept. Y-5, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

THE SECRET OF CLOTHES APPEAL

(Left) Washed 12 times with ordinary "good" soap—Undeniably faded. Not actually ruined, yet it has lost the allure of joyous color.

Poets Meet

Poems were submitted from several other states in the contest conducted at the monthly meeting of the Pennsylvania Center of the Poetry Society held yesterday in the Congress of Clubs. Frances Larkin, of Washington, D. C., won first prize; Lillie Reed McMaster, of Pittsburgh, second; Martha Opie, of Williamsport, third, and May T. Neff, of Pittsburgh, fourth. "Unbound," by Marie Tello Phillips, awarded a prize by the Society of Arts and Letters of Philadelphia, was read, and many bits of news concerning the activities of the members was made known. Mrs. Galen Hartman's poem on Mussolini, published in the Continental Anthology, Paris, 1929, brought a letter of appreciation from Mussolini through the Italian consulate; a book of verse called "Fragments," by Ruth Miller Reed, is to be published in June; a poem by Lillie Reed McMaster was given the cover of the April International Writers' Magazine and the author has been asked to edit the book of Pennsylvania poetry for the magazine next year.

Its closing program meeting for the season was held yesterday by the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club in the Business Women's Club. For the musical portion of the afternoon's entertainment there were songs by Mrs. Elizabeth Stephens Cross, accompanied by Miss Winona Hill, who also gave piano numbers, and violin solos by Mrs. Ben G. Graham, with her daughter, Miss Betty Graham, accompanying. Mrs. William M. Davidson, in a most interesting and entertaining paper, told of her last summer's trip to Spain and at the conclusion of the program Mrs. Mary J. Cowley, retiring president, served tea. The club will conclude its year with a luncheon in the College Club, June 2.

Mrs. Harry G. Samson entertained the department of women's work of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches at a tea in McClure Gardens, yesterday afternoon.

It being the last meeting of the season, reports of the year's activities were presented by Mrs. Samson, chairman of the department, and Miss Grace Woodrow, Mrs. Eva Hall, Mrs. E. E. Cole, Mrs. E. J. Gibson and Mrs. William H. Schuette, chairman of the committees; Mrs. M. G. Schutker, financial secretary and Mrs. P. N. Jones, recording secretary.

These officers were elected: Mrs. H. G. Samson, chairman; Mrs. E. S. Wallace, first vice chairman; Mrs. F. C. Jordan, second vice chairman; Mrs. A. G. Liebelt, recording secretary, and Mrs. M. G. Schutker, financial secretary.

Structural Workers Ask $1.70 an Hour

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP.)—Unless their demands for a wage scale of $1.70 an hour are met June 1, members of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers Union have voted to strike.

The present scale is $1.61½ under an agreement which expires May 31. There are only 400 members of the union employed at present, but Joseph Corr, business agent, said 2,100 men are waiting for jobs, which were expected to open after the summer construction program started.

12 FEARED DEAD IN BLIZZARD

BUENOS AIRES, May 20.—(INS.)—Twelve Argentine engineers were believed lost today, victims of a blizzard in the high passes of the Andes Mountains.

The party was surveying over the line of a new railroad and their work had taken them to an altitude of 17,000 feet.

When it became known that storms swept the area, airplanes were sent out and 10 days of painstaking search were unsuccessful. All hope for the safety of the engineers has been given up.

Immigration Order Brings Jewish Strike

JERUSALEM, May 20.—(AP.)—The Jewish National Council today proclaimed a general strike throughout Palestine Thursday noon to Thursday evening in protest against stoppage of immigration into the country by the British government.

CIRCUS VIES WITH STAGE AND SCREEN AS AMUSEMENT ATTRACTION

Tom Mix Ousts Washington As Hero of Boyhood On Circus Day

By GEORGE SEIBEL

George Seibel

FATHER IS A DEACON, and doesn't believe in such worldly doings, but he had to take little Johnny to see Tom Mix, and then the elephants and camels are so educational, just like a lesson in geography and almost as good as a trip to the Holy Land. So the family went to see the great Sells-Floto Show, out near East Breeze, and fed the Zoo with peanuts, and worried about the beautiful lady who wears a gigantic serpent about her neck just as if it were a boa. And little Johnny screamed terribly when the clown's automobile blew up, and little Mildred wondered if the other clown, who had a stove for a hat, did not get cinders on his head when the fire and smoke were coming out of the flue.

Then Johnny, with several thousand other little boys, who had been wavering between George Washington and Christopher Columbus, decided they would grow up to be like Tom Mix, and wear just such a five gallon hat, and travel around the world with all the beautiful ladies with pink legs and pink cheeks and golden curls.

There were things of course the Deacon did not approve of—such as the clown with the empty breakfast and sign: My Hope Chest, and the wicked horse that played it was drunk while the other horses pirouetted and minuetted daintily.

YOU'RE YOUNG ONCE ONLY

But you're young once only, reflected the Deacon, and even the Blood-Sweating Hippopotamus was eating hay, so the world is probably not as bad as timorous people think.

Meanwhile Mabel Pelke, the lady gymnast [illegible], had given her stupendous exhibition of human endurance, a [illegible] whirl that made the Deacon giddy, and the Aerial Butterflies had tested their cast-iron jaws by fantastic flights and rainbow scarves—so the Deacon purchased a live chameleon for Johnny to teach him kindness to animals and a rubber elephant for Mildred.

It was a great day for Johnny. He had learned that the Gnu and the Emu really exist and aren't merely cross-word puzzle beasts and he saw the elephants parading around the arena holding on to one another's tails, and he thought he could walk on stilts too like the Belgian DeKoes, and he knew he could walk upstairs on his head like the Japanese Kobam. Yes, it was a great day for Johnny!

But most of all he envied Rawlet and June, the Human Frogs, in nice scummy green, who had no mother to forbid their going to the old swimmin' hole, and Mildred envied the lovely ladies who could swing so high on the trapeze and had tame elephants to ride around on.

EVER SO MANY HORSES

And gosh, Johnny never knew there were so many horses in the world—almost as many horses as automobiles! They were the most beautiful horses he ever saw, cakewalking and goose-stepping, jumping over hurdles, and not at all afraid of the Bears.

Perhaps they knew those Bears wouldn't hurt them, for they had been educated by Pallenberg, and walked on stilts, rode on bicycles and hobby-horses, scootered and roller-skated. But they couldn't play a tune like the educated seal, and they couldn't walk on the silver wire like Miss Berta Beeson.

Johnny liked Miss Berta Beeson, and he adored Miss Jessie Goodenough, and he worshiped the Sisters Schwartz, all of which ladies were Queens of this or that. There was nothing less than Queens in the Sells-Floto deck—no Duchesses or smaller fry. Johnny's heart is in little bits—and distributed among the various Queens.

Except the large slice that belongs to Tom Mix.

GOT TIRED AT LAST

But even Johnny got tired at last. Otto Griebling, the equestrian clown with the Novellis, evoked but a languid interest; the clowns who fought a prize-fight with bladders were regarded with critical eye; the rivalry between the Cervantes Troupe and the Pachiani Troupe, one of which turned double somersaults blindfolded while the others turned triple somersaults with open eyes, left him cold. And Mildred wanted to go home.

Perhaps Johnny had seen too much.

When the Deacon asked him whether he wanted to see the South Sea Beauties in the sideshow, Johnny decided he would rather have some hot dogs. Whereat the Deacon looked disappointed.

He got even with Johnny a moment later when Johnny wanted to see the Escapologist. Nothing doing on Escapologists who might rouse criminal instincts by laughing at handcuffs.

They all took one more look at the axis deer, the spring-bok, the sable antelope and the puma—then they went home to tell Mother all about it, and see if they could find any colors the chameleon couldn't match.

"AFTER DARK" STAYS THIRD WEEK IN PITT

"After Dark," old melodrama by Dion Boucicault, continues in the Pitt, where it began its third and last week last night. It is a relic of the days when villains were hissed and heroes were cheered by noisy audiences and reflects the early crude attempts at stage realism in the introduction of a train and the rescue of the heroine from a watery grave. Edith King is the heroine; Weldin Heyburn, the hero, and Robert Fiske, the double-dyed villain.

This is the final week, but one for the George Sharp Players in the Pitt for the season. After next week's performance of "Ritz" the stock company's occupancy of the theater will cease until August.

SCREEN AT ITS BEST, WAR AT ITS WORST IN SHERIDAN

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

The movies are growing up. They dare to present war drama without a heroine waiting for her soldier boy's return; war drama that has no dashing hero rushing into his girl's arms at the grand fadeout.

This display of daring is made in "Journey's End," which opened yesterday in the Sheridan Square. It is the screen version of that powerful stage play which has gripped two continents.

The motion picture keeps well to the original version, though it does elaborate on it. Instead of confining the action between dugout walls, it brings in flashes of No Man's Land above. There are some battle scenes. But these have been done with a keen restraint. For which, our praise.

NO PUPPETS HERE

Like the stage play, the movie "Journey's End" is stern, tragic drama. Those aren't puppet heroes that appear before you. They are real men. Men within earshot of Death's hoarse whispers. Men that find something in "Alice in Wonderland" that you or we never found when we were children. Men that "look through" dugout walls and "see" worms crawling. Men who are brave, because they are afraid.

To us, the screen depiction is not as poignant as the stage version. The battle elaborations somehow detract from the terrific and human drama that goes on in that dugout. And glycerine tears, old standbys of the movies, appear.

OUR TURN TO SALUTE

However, the picture does succeed in digging down deep inside of you. And it is the screen's greatest achievement in the war drama line to date. So we salute in praise members of the cast—members whose names are unfamiliar to movie fans. Though some of their performances have been equaled and bettered on the stage—what of it?

We also salute the director and everyone else who had anything to do with the film; everyone, except the fellow responsible for the glycerine.

Sincerely, "Journey's End" is a picture to see. It is war at its worst and screen craftsmanship at its best.

Mr. Fenton Climbs Alps For Gulp of Beer And Scenery

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.

They tell a swell yarn about Carl Laemmle, Jr. Junior is reported to have written a letter to George Bernard Shaw, the contents of which embodied a request for his autograph with: "I have been collecting autographs of great men since I was 17 years old."

Shaw answered the letter saying (my quotes are the general contents of his reply):

"You may have my autograph. So you have been collecting them since you were 17, have you? When are you going to grow up?"

Nevertheless, Junior got his letter!

LESLIE GOES HIKING

About a year ago, with his picture career heading straight for stardom or near stardom, Leslie Fenton (he played in "Paris Bound," with Ann Harding, etc.), shook the dust of Hollywood from his shoes, boarded a tramp schooner at San Pedro and headed for an island off the Spanish coast. His friends pleaded with him to stay here. They condemned him a darn idiot for forsaking a career that promised a fortune.

Ann Harding

But Leslie's mind was set. He wanted this European jaunt while he was still young enough to appreciate it. Les is about 25. Off he sailed. He landed on the compassed isle. He trailed to Paris. Thence to Berlin, where he visited his friend, Conrad Veidt.

BEER AND SCENERY

The next we hear of Leslie he is realizing a secret ambition: A walking trip from Berlin to Venice. He is will stroll into Venice some day. He is in no hurry. He walks about eight hours a day, through magnificent country. When he finds a particularly gorgeous spot, he idles there for a few days. He found such a spot high in the Switzerland Alps, whence he climbed for a glass of beer and a gulp of the gorgeous scenery. Snow capped mountains, towering to the sky. As far as the eye could see. And Les an ecstatic bit of humanity, drinking it in. Far, far from thoughts of the Gilded Coast and its brittle materialism.

A great soul, Leslie Fenton. One day, he'll return to Hollywood and resume his picture work. One day, too, he may soar to the dramatic heights and become in the concrete world what he is in the metaphysical—a great, vibratory soul, with the depth of the elemental.

MORENO "COMES BACK"

Antonio Moreno has come into his own with the talkies. Tony is going for Spanish versions with vim and vigor. He vivified "One Man Kiss" for First National and is now doing right by "The Bad Man." These Spanish picture versions sew up Spain, Spanish-speaking colonies, and South America for the boy.

HITHER & YON: James Rennie, imported under contract to outloud Bow in "The Girl of the Golden West," is Dorothy Gish's husband. Some talk that Dorothy may come to Hollywood this summer . . . Lillian Gish, you know, has been launched on New York's Broadway in a show and is doing right smart. The opening of the baseball season hereabouts hasn't created a stir in the colony. "Pears boxing, wrestling and football—particularly football—are the favorite pay-as-you-enter sports to flick—ites . . . Well, I'll be seeing you.

PLANE DODGES 7 IN BALLOON

CLEVELAND, May 20.—(AP)—A narrow escape from an aviation tragedy in which an air mail plane near Cleveland airport barely missed diving into an inflammable gas balloon which was carrying Ward T. Van Orman, America's premier balloonist, and six passengers, was disclosed here last night.

H. P. (Hi) Little, one of the country's best air mail pilots, who was in the plane, said he would confer with Van Orman concerning traffic and lighting questions developed by the near-accident which occurred in the darkness of early Sunday morning, and that the problems probably will be submitted to the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce for a decision.

Occupants of the balloon besides Van Orman were Dr. Wolfgang Klemperer, research engineer of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, Akron, and five students from the same company.

Little was flying near the airport early Sunday when he suddenly saw directly in front of him a white light. Not until he swerved and was out of danger—by a margin of inches—did he realize that the object in his path had been the bulky, gas filled bag of a balloon.

"It would have been terrible had I smashed into it—all that inflammable gas," Little said.

Van Orman said the white light suspended below the basket of the balloon was the only light required by the Department of Commerce.

RICHER and CREAMIER

Folks once traveled miles for it — now you can get it anywhere

. . . this richer, creamier mayonnaise called Ivanhoe. Once it was the treasured possession of a mother and her own family. But good things can't be be kept secret. And the fame of her home-made mayonnaise spread. Her friends asked her to make it for them . . . in such increasing numbers that a great business was the outcome of her home specialty!

Today, although Ivanhoe's fame is nation-wide, the same home recipe is used. Choice eggs with the finest oil and spices are still employed. Yet it costs no more than ordinary mayonnaise. Once it's tasted Ivanhoe is the constant choice of any family.

Buy it almost anywhere in quarts, pints, half-pints, or in 3¼ oz. jars if you are a "kitchenette family."

"SALAD LEAVES" is a unique booklet of salad recipes and balanced menus. Write for your free copy to Harriet Meaker Osborne, Ivanhoe Kitchen, Auburn, N.Y.

FAY KING

By FAY KING

YOUNG FOLKS have always flirted and they always will. It is as natural for youth full of life, fun and romance to be attracted to those of a like age as it is for children to approach their playmates on the same block.

But is it well to know something about the one with whom you flirt.

Perhaps you pass each morning in the same building. Or you live in the same neighborhood.

Surely there is no harm in a smile, a "good morning" and a little walk.

But before you chance automobile rides, or accept invitations to parties, be sure that in the safety of a soda counter or a sandwich shop you have learned more of your new friend's character.

Lonely Place

Agnes Robbins [illegible] her red eyes. She made Chickie come into the [illegible] where it was warm. There was a table near the window. Agnes poured coffee and stared at the dreary level acres. The wind swept dead leaves upward and the leaves made [illegible] forlorn rushes and dropped along the ground. Agnes shivered. "What a God-forsaken place this is in winter! Merle"—this was the name Chickie had given herself—"dearie—what makes you want to stay up here?"

"I don't feel equal to moving. I like you, Agnes Robbins. And with my folks all in the East—it's better here than anywhere else could be—"

"Oh dear! It gets me in the winter. I want to be away. I wish the place was sold. I can't stand this monotony. When I was young like you, Merle, the heavens couldn't chain me."

"Oh—some things could, I guess."

"We must make the arrangements. You haven't much longer."

"They're all made. Didn't I tell you?"

"No—you'll go down into town, will you?"

Chickie nodded. But this was not the truth. She had been deliberately vague with Agnes Robbins as to the date, setting it after than the time the doctor had named.

Hears From Barry

She did this because she was stubborn and determined to remain on the farm. She was afraid to be sent from it.

Then Jonathan wrote again: "Well, we didn't know what to make of it, Chickie girl, when you didn't come and didn't write. And your mother cried by the hour and that's not good for her. She's not a bit well, though I don't want to frighten you. I had the doctor and he thinks it's a touch of pneumonia and her heart's none too strong. Please ask them to give you a little time off, Chickie girl, and run down here to see us. Jennie is in bed and I can lift her now like a baby. She's gotten thin. Chickie, your old Dad would find it mighty sweet to have you here in these night times and sitting by the bed. What shall I tell your mother—that [illegible] as soon as the [illegible] [illegible] She [illegible] And she [illegible] God was here [illegible]

[illegible] Because [illegible] had sent another [illegible] It was from Barry Dunn. He sent his money. He wrote this:

"I know you don't want to hear from me. I don't send this to you. But the time must be about over. I can't endure the thought that it should all be [illegible] of me. It will [illegible] no matter what is done now that you haven't the right because of courage for me to [illegible] all [illegible] if you [illegible]"

Mother Is Worse

She took a plain envelope and put the bills—$250—in this and sealed it. Then she put it in her trunk and trembled. The child was his—his too the pain of it—

Jonathan's letter remained unanswered two days. Then came another swift commanding frantic little prayer:

"Chickie girl come now! Jennie is sinking. Your mother is out of her mind calling for you. She's taken this sudden [illegible]. Pray God to help us. I don't know what to do or what to say to her. Send me a telegram. Don't waste a moment!"

And Chickie shaken from head to foot crept up the steps to her room. She closed the door, locked it. Then she faced into the closet, pulled down her coat, pulled down a black silk cape. Oh she would go—rush down to them—brazen it out—fling her arms about Jennie's neck, whisper and see the dear faded eyes grow bright again.

She pulled on the cape and stood before the mirror, her eyes dilated, almost a madness lighting them. She draped the cape boldly, flung her head up.

Time Passes Slowly

Chickie leaned against the mirror. She pressed her face against the glass. She whispered "God let me die! Oh—if there is a God let me die!"

She called up her friend the telephone operator at the hotel, asking her to send this wire:

"Jonathan darling don't let Jennie sink! I'm coming! The very quickest I can. I won't lose a minute. But the travel is slow on these mountain roads. Oh—if you let her sink I'll never get over it! I may be delayed because I have a terribly sprained ankle and I can't walk on it. Wire me if she gets any worse."

A week passed. There was no further word. Of course—why he thought she was on her way to them—he thought his letters wouldn't reach her.

Time went with slothful feet. It trampled heavily upon her.

A week longer—oh she had but a week longer—if only it might come on time—that little—that very little could be granted her!

Even as she asked for this Dorothy Wreden phoned from the hotel. She had a telegram: "Jennie is dying. Chickie, what keeps you? You may not see your mother again. Hire machines—but get here!"

Chickie ran into the field. She went down to the river, the dog bounding at her side. She caught his head and rocked it wildly in her arms. Tears were flames on her face. She said "I'm killing her—mother—oh, God—"

That night the child was born.

Madge Learns That She Is to Play Hostess and Guardian

Dicky's remark that we were on long-distance terms [illegible] tered my thrifty soul and jostled my brain into action. I knew that long-distance talks tend to irritate [illegible] and that he would [illegible] if he happened to be in a [illegible] mood.

"I don't need [illegible] sure," I told him lightly. "A long-distance telephone from Harriet, an announcement from you that we shall have three boys added to our Christmas party, the [illegible] only one thing. Mary's brothers are coming to us for Christmas. When do they arrive?"

"A [illegible] from [illegible]," he answered laughingly.

"Are Edwin and Harriet coming too?"

"No. Edwin has to—"

"Dicky dearest," I made my voice coaxing, "don't you suppose you could write the rest of it to me? I'm going around [illegible] you all about it tonight and I ought to be doing eight separate things this minute. But tell Harriet I'll love to have the boys. It will be wonderful for Junior to have Roderick."

"I'll bet they'll get into seven scraps a day," Junior's father retorted pessimistically. "But then you always were an incurable optimist. And if you don't want to talk to your only husband any longer, you know what you can do."

"Dicky!" I expostulated. "You know I'd love to talk to you—"

"All day, I suppose, at 5 cents a minute." My husband's voice was heavily ironical. "You can't fool me, old thing. I know what's eating you—the toll charges. All right. Say I love you prettily, and I'll ring off."

"I love you, Dicky," I repeated obediently, although I flinched at saying the intimate words over a telephone. But my Peter Pan was in one of his flamboyant moods and I knew that he must be humored.

"And I love you, sweet," he answered, and there was in his voice such loving sincerity that I thrilled to it as if I were the bride of a day.

"Goodby," he added, and I put all my heart into my answering "Goodby, dearest." Then as I turned from the telephone the full realization of what his message meant swept over me. I was to have the care of three boys—all under [illegible] the eldest one younger than Marion [illegible] I would have to be the disciplinarian, for I knew that [illegible] I had tried [illegible] in the past when I had tried to enlist Dicky's aid in disciplining our own little lad. It is lucky that I never have been the type of mother who says "Wait until your father comes home." In Marion's schoolgirl phraseology, I would have been distinctly out of luck if I had been compelled to depend upon Dicky for drastic measures with Junior.

Memories swept over me of the first time I had seen these three young brothers of Mary Harrison when, with their mother, Dicky's sister Elizabeth, they had come to the farm. My sympathies had been deeply aroused by the patent unhappiness of the three older children, for Elizabeth Harrison had not been a good mother—a distinctly cruel one in fact, with a perverse kink in her brain which had come perilously near to insanity. It had been a relief to me when mother and children left, and I had been ashamed that I could feel no other emotion concerning my sister-in-law when later an automobile accident resulted in her instant death and in the mortal injuries of her husband.

I turned another page in my memory album of pictures. It showed me William Harrison, devoted father, dying and asking his brothers-in-law, Dicky and Dr. Braithwaite, to take care of his children. He had known the avarice of his own brothers and had tried to provide against their having control of the children and the modest inheritance he had left them. I was glad he could not foresee the fight which his relatives had waged for control of the children, a fight which had sent the Braithwaites on a hurried secret flight out of the country and had kept them there until their legal guardianship had been fully established.

I knew that the thwarted parenthood of Edwin and Harriet Braithwaite had found compensation in their love and care of the orphaned Harrison children and I wondered what exigency had made Harriet send them to us at Christmas time, of all others.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, May 21

According to the mutual and lunar aspects predominant on this day, there may be some very interesting and surprising developments of a social, domestic or affectional nature. Elderly persons or institutions may contribute to this fortuitous condition and real and personal possessions may find enhanced value. Old obstacles may be removed in order to make this change possible, with fidelity, industry and personal merit finding its due recognition. It is a time for real progress and laying solid foundations.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of stabilization of the affairs, with proper returns for past industry, application and faithful service. Elderly persons or organizations may be disposed to recognize these, with substantial favors. All may find reaction in surprising developments in the purely private relations, in which there may be sudden change or possibly travel. Property values and personal possessions may find stability.

A child born on this day should be industrious, stable, faithful and practical in its efforts, by which it gains suitable recognition as well as a happy state of personal affairs.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Garden Party

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would like to invite some men and their wives to visit me. I have beautiful flowers and I would like them to come on May 30, so that I may present each with a bouquet. Will you please give me an idea as to what kind of invitation I should write?

READER.

A charming note of invitation can be made the most fragrant of messengers to invite such a party, and I suggest, therefore, that you send your invitation in this form. Perhaps this will suggest a form to you.

Dear Mary:

My garden is so lovely these days that I do want very much to share its loveliness with you and Tom. Won't you both come to have tea with me in my garden on Sunday, the thirtieth of May, at about 4 o'clock. I have invited some other friends, and I am sure that we can have a nice "garden-y" time together. Do say "yes!"

Best wishes and friendliest greetings to you both.

Cordially yours,

If you are inviting just a few friends and if it would be possible for you, I think that it would be a beautiful gesture for you to leave a box of flowers with your invitation. It was this box of "posies" that the lovely ladies of by-gone years used to have their footmen deliver with such a delightful invitation.

A Vanishing Custom

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Should a young girl of 17 years of age wear any kind of mourning if her uncle or aunt should die, and how long should she wear it?

A. M. V.

No. This is not necessary, and would not be expected. Especially in these days, when mourning clothes are not much worn.

Unnecessary

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would appreciate any information you can give me on the correct form of announcing an engagement. It is not possible for me to give a dinner, so I would like to know if small engraved cards would be in good form.

S.

You needn't worry, dear girl, because you can't give a dinner or any other festivity to celebrate and announce your engagement. This isn't a bit necessary. In fact, the simplest ways of making this charming announcement are in the best form. And sending cards isn't at all in good form.

In perfect taste is the writing of notes to tell the relatives and friends who do not live near enough for you to tell by word of mouth. And this is really all that is necessary. Soon enough, and along the delightful paths of friendship, the news will make its way.

If you wish, also, it is in fine form, too, to have your mother and father make formal announcement of the engagement in the newspapers.

Household Hints

There will not be any dangers of flannels becoming hard and felted in the wash if a little olive oil is added to the washing solution. Use about one tablespoonful of the oil to every gallon of water required.

* * *

When marking linen take a rather blunt lead pencil and write the name or initials and follow over the pencil mark with ink. The lead prevents that tiresome running of the ink and the marking will be very exact and neat.

Restrict Diet in Treating Cystitis

Various requests come to me to write upon certain health subjects. A recent letter asked for information regarding the ailment known as cystitis. In this disease there is an inflammation of the mucous membrane of the bladder. It may even extend to the deeper structures in the pelvic region.

There are many possible causes for the trouble, but always there is some germ infection.

Many cases are found in cold weather, so exposure to cold is another contributing cause. Certain drugs and alcoholic intemperance bring on cystitis.

Persons most susceptible to it are those in middle life rather than the young. In aged persons it may be extremely serious.

Cystitis begins with chills and fever, symptoms common in any disease from germ infection. Usually the pain is located in the bladder, but it may seem to be in the tissues below and around the bladder. Pressure on the abdomen causes pain.

Modern science has furnished the medical profession with many devices which help to diagnose disease. Likewise, they are used to aid in the treatment of disease. The discovery of one of these, the "cystoscope," has done much to mark an advance in our knowledge of cystitis. By means of this instrument the condition on the interior of the bladder may be ascertained by the physician and successful treatment given.

During an acute attack of the disease it is very important that the patient remain in bed and keep as quiet as possible. Rest is necessary in the treatment. Alcohol in every form must be excluded.

Whenever symptoms like these appear the only wise course is to have a doctor on the case and follow his advice. Sometimes serious complications arise in the course of the disease, so that no chances should be taken.

Some of the old-fashioned remedies are useful in this disease. Slippery elm tea is very good. It may be made by pouring a pint of hot water over an ounce of slippery elm bark. The use of this preparation serves to dilute the urine and to make it less irritating. Flaxseed may be prepared in the same way and is also helpful. Either of these drinks may be taken often and will give comfort.

Hot baths, particularly hot hip baths, are useful. A hot-water bag will reduce the congestion and promote the comfort.

In all cases of cystitis the diet should be restricted. Sometimes by keeping to a diet of milk alone relief is found and it supplies the patient with sufficient nourishment.

Answers to Health Queries

H. M. H. Q.—What causes my fingers to become numb?

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

If girls under 20 would only realize that nine hours sleep are necessary and essential to health! Preach as mothers will, the young fry won't listen. It is a life law that periods of activity must be followed by periods of rest. If the girl of 20 doesn't want to look like 60 when she is 40, she had better crawl into the feathers at a reasonable hour.

Women are dress-minded as they have never been in the past; varying skirt lengths show that fact plainly enough. Paris designers make their offerings and women pick and choose. A frock that will make a masterpiece of sartorial beauty of Anne will turn Mary into a caricature. The woman with the feather bed shape knows that she can't wear the chic little dud flaunted by the pint-size gal with the urchin figure. What the sisterhood is learning about the art of clothing the female form is something plenty. Clothes are easy on the public eye.

New shades in complexion powders are worth considering. Bronzy tans are not on the beauty menu, but there are lovely ochre tones, ivory fluffs and blue-beiges. There is a new pink tan shade that is so ruddy one can't use rouge with it without looking like a house afire. Every season has its new offerings in face paints and calcimines.

Women's feet are getting bigger and better. Time was when the girl who wore a triple A felt that she had attained some kind of social distinction. Her shoe was shaped like a miniature ski, and she took pride in regarding its silverlike proportions. Women are showing judgment in the selections of shoes, getting them of ample width as well as ample length. Unless the shoes can wiggle freely, a shoe is too small. Tight shoes produce wrinkles, ugly faces, ugly tempers, backache and headache. Maybe divorces, sudden death and murder. Who knows?

The Talking Picture Story of

"CAUGHT SHORT"

Starring

MARIE DRESSLER
POLLY MORAN

Based on

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Caught Short," Written by Willard Mack,

A Cosmopolitan Production.

Marie Jones works very well over any distance telephone which isn't fixed up for television. Inmates of her boarding house are more likely to get peas served from a can than oysters served on the half shell. Her Sunday suppers keep her daughter, Jenny, in a snappy boarding school.

"Anybody that doesn't like beans, is a liar," Marie says.

Polly Smith, who runs a boarding house on the other side of the street, would leave the pigs knuckles in the oven any time to get the latest news from Wall Street. Polly and her son, William, haven't yet learned there is likely to be more water in stocks than in chicken soup. So, Polly and William are expecting Wall Street to make them rich. Polly has just said to her butcher:

"Have you any nice fresh United States Steel today?"

When Marie and Polly meet anywhere, the butcher's included, it is a case of Greek meets Greek. Marie has just said to Polly:

"I suppose those magnifying glasses are a great help to you when you're shopping."

"Well, I don't see any spare ribs where I'm looking," says Poll.

Once in a while, Marie, goes across the street to call on Polly. She has just surprised Polly enjoying a sail on the steam yacht she is going to buy, when her stocks go up far enough.

"Don't you find those goldfish keep you awake nights?" asks Marie.

SPORT COMMENT

Moores Lead Majors.
Outnumber All Others.
Boone Still Carries On.
Oliver Hits Like Groh.
Tigers' Belated Start.
Odd Fistic Finishes.

FIVE OF SAME NAME IN BIG LEAGUES

Eddie Moore

THE SMITHS AND the Joneses may be the ruling families elsewhere, as far as numbers are concerned, but in the big baseball leagues they've got to be content with a minority ranking. Another family has grown to an extent that puts them in total eclipse, and with them the Johnsons, the Millers, the Browns and all the rest. Have you noticed the multiplicity of Moores in the main show this season? Well, they're heading the parade right now. There are more players bearing that name than any other in the National and American loops.

Time was, not so long ago, when Eddie Moore, who made his big league bow with the Pirates, was the only representative of that family in the upper diamond set. But now there are no fewer than five of them. In addition to Eddie, who is doing reserve infield and outfield duty with the Dodgers, there are W. Austin Moore, a recruit pitcher from Macon, with the same club; Randolph Moore, from Dallas, filling both infield and outfield roles for the Braves; Jim Moore, also from Dallas, an outfielder, for the White Sox, and Carlos Moore, from Birmingham, a pitcher for the Senators.

THERE ARE FIVE Johnsons in the big show, but as Walter is managing Washington from the bench only four are active players. Three of them are pitchers—Sylvester, of the Cardinals; Henry, of the Yankees, and Silas, of the Reds. The other is Roy, an outfielder with the Tigers. Unless you count Harry, the Philly pitcher, who spells it "Smythe," there are only three Smiths left since the Cardinals released Earl. They are Bob, the Brave pitcher, George, the Red Sox hurler, and Ernie, the White Sox infielder.

Only three other families have more than two representatives. They are the Browns, with Lloyd, of the Senators; Clinton, of the Indians, and 18-year-old Bob, of the Braves, all pitchers; the Millers, with Bing, of the Athletics; Walter, of the Indians, and Otis, of the Red Sox, and the Clarks, with Weston, of the Dodgers; Earl, of the Braves, and Stuart, of the Pirates, the last named spelling it with a final "e." There are also Bucky Harris, of the Tigers; Spencer Harris, of the Athletics, and Dave Harris, of the White Sox, but Bucky is no longer a player. The names borne by two players are Waner, Heving, Ferrell, Lucas, Reese, Alexander, Bell, Collins, Sewell, Thomas, Jones, Rice, Wilson, Hargrave, Taylor, Cronin, Walker, Elliott and Moss.

BASEBALL STARS OF the greater Pittsburgh district, besides being noted for their brilliance, are standouts in endurance. Consider the case of Lute (Danny) Boone, a staunch Glenwood citizen before succumbing to the lure of the South Hills.

Lute Boone

Lute has been a diamond luminary for almost 20 years and that he is still a very valuable performer is attested by the position of the Columbus club of the American Association. Danny has been playing third base for the Senators and the manner in which he has played it has elicited much praise from critics throughout the A. A. circuit.

RONALD M'INTYRE, of the Milwaukee Sentinel, has a fine eulogy for Boone in a recent edition of his paper. He says, in part: "To me Danny Boone is one of the most remarkable ball players the Association ever had. It would seem that the years should have taken their toll and forced Boone into retirement but they haven't. Danny is one player who has always taken care of himself. He never has taken a drop of liquor and I don't think he ever smoked. His only thought in life have been of baseball and his family. He has saved his money and accumulated a sizeable bank balance. Boone was adjudged done when Bob Connery let him go after taking over the St. Paul club and starting to build up with youngsters. That was five years ago, but Boone goes on as he always did, playing heads-up baseball and fighting for all he can get."

FOR YEARS BOONE and Marty Berghammer, another Pittsburgher, were the talk of the baseball folk as they performed around second base for the St. Paul club. Major leaguers who played against St. Paul in those seasons proclaimed Danny and Marty the best defensive pair in the sport.

In two recent games Boone accepted 12 chances at third base without an error and stole two bases, including a steal of home. The Columbus club has awakened interest of the fans in that city by its first-division drive.

BILL M'KECHNIE has been showing his usual managerial smartness in shifting his players around in a way to get the best results from the Braves. George Sisler, 37-year-old first baseman, is a case in point.

George Sisler

Instead of starting Sisler in the cold, damp weather of April, McKechnie kept him on the bench, meanwhile getting out of Johnny Neun the best the latter could deliver. As soon as Neun began to fall off recently, Bill sent Sisler into the lineup. The whole team braced up at once, and Sisler's individual work has been a big factor in the improvement. He has made 10 hits in 29 times at bat for an average of .345.

MOST BASEBALL FANS figured when Heinie Groh dropped out of the majors that they'd never see another batter of his peculiar type in the big show. But there's one in evidence this year in the person of Tom Oliver, the outfielder whom the Red Sox grabbed from the A's on waivers. Oliver, a right-hand hitter, doesn't use a bottle-shaped bat, as Groh did, but, just like Heinie, he stands facing directly toward the pitcher with his right foot extended out farther than the left. When the pitch comes he pivots and gets all of his weight into his swing. He's hitting .369 up to date, too, and has played an important part in the surprisingly good showing made by the Red Sox this spring.

DETROIT'S TIGERS, THE most disappointing club in either of the major leagues during the first month of the season, appear finally to be getting their feet under themselves and making a start toward the showing of which their strength on paper originally gave promise.

The double win that the Jungaleers scored over the Browns yesterday placed four straight victories to their credit. The change in form that this means may be judged from the fact that not since the first two days of the season had they won two games in succession. At one stage they lost seven straight and 13 out of 15.

AND WHILE THE Tigers are pulling themselves together and

Mastro Whips Cohen In Return to Ring

MILWAUKEE, May 20.—(AP.)—Slamming Jackie Cohen, New York featherweight, against the ropes several times and nearly scoring a knockout, Earl Mastro, Chicago, last night won the decision in their 10-round bout here. Mastro weighed 123 pounds, and Cohen 124.

GOB REALIZES HE IS HOPE OF U. S.

By JACK SHARKEY,
American Heavyweight Champion.

Jack Sharkey

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., May 20.—Since I started training for my 15-round world heavyweight championship bout with Max Schmeling, which will be staged at the Yankee Stadium, New York, June 12, I have felt that I have been entrusted with a great task by the American sporting public.

It will not be only Jack Sharkey against Max Schmeling in the outstanding heavyweight match of the year, but also the representative of America battling the best of the foreign heavyweights.

I am very proud of the fact that the New York Athletic Commission and the other leading commissions in the United States consider I am the best man to turn back the foreign invasion.

WILL BE AT BEST

You may be sure that I shall do everything in my training camp to get myself into the best possible condition for my clash with the man they call "The German Dempsey."

The American public may be certain of the fact that it will be a well-conditioned Sharkey who will oppose Schmeling. I realize that the youthful German is a first-class fighting man and that I must be at my best if I am to leave the ring the champion.

For more than a year I have been pointing to a shot with Schmeling. As soon as Max knocked out Johnny Risko, I knew he was the man I ultimately would face in a duel for the championship.

I didn't see Schmeling in his contest with Risko, but I made it a point to get a ringside seat when he clashed with Paulino in the Milk Fund show last June.

KNOWS MAX'S STYLE

I always like to see a man I later may be called upon to meet in action for two or three rounds. In this way I can size up his style and figure out how I can beat him.

I watched Schmeling for 11 rounds and by that time I knew his every ring move. I didn't wait for the decision, as I knew Max had the fight won by a mile. Instead I hastened back to Boston to begin getting ready for the German.

It was a great disappointment to me when Schmeling refused to box me in Detroit and returned to Germany.

The New York Commission insisted that Schmeling tackle Phil Scott before he could consider meeting me. When Max would not consent to this arrangement, I stepped in and moved Scott out of the way. Phil is an experienced boxer and from many standpoints it was a dangerous match for me. But I took the risk and won by a knockout in three rounds.

EXPECTS KNOCKOUT WIN

I believe I shall make a much better showing against Schmeling than I did when I battled the English champion. In the Scott match, I had everything to lose and little to gain. It will be a different story in the Schmeling match. I shall have reached the high point of my career and won't have to worry about losing and thus depriving myself of the big shot.

The Schmeling bout will be just

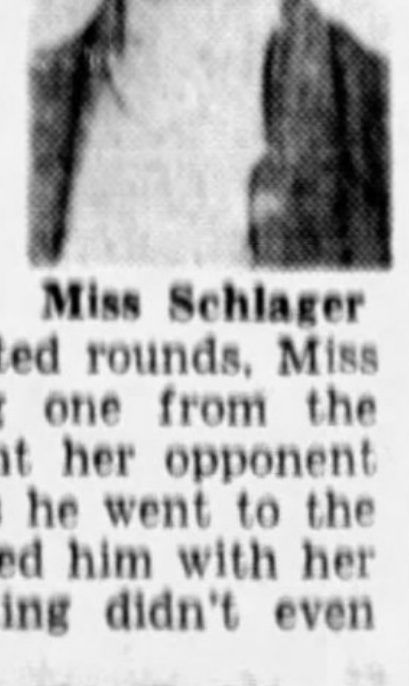
Stribling Floored By Fair Foe On Ship

NEW YORK, May 20.—Miss Katherine Schlager, 18, of Scranton, Pa., holds a three-round knockout victory over Young Stribling, Georgia heavyweight boxer.

They were sparring as one of the features of gala night on the Leviathan returning from Europe, and two knockdowns featured the battle. The first saw Pa Stribling, father of the boxer, go down when he halted one of his son's rights as the fair Katherine ducked.



Miss Schlager

In the third of the abbreviated rounds, Miss Schlager swung one from the floor and caught her opponent off balance. As he went to the floor, she prodded him with her feet and Stribling didn't even claim a foul.

Was it all staged? Perhaps.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE TOMB OF A DOG—Thebaw, the last King of Burmah, was a tyrant of extraordinary cruelty. Yet he had a frenetic love for a Scotch terrier which an itinerant beggar presented to him. He endowed the animal with the rank of a Duke, make it a General and Admiral of the Royal Armed Forces and after its decease gave it a royal funeral and had a magnificent tomb erected over it. The picture was drawn from an original photo of the "Pagoda of the Dog," which I procured in Rangoon a few years ago. TRAYNOR BACK IN LINEUP

Captain Pie Traynor will be back at his third-base post when the Pirates open their big four-game series with the champion Cubs at Forbes Field tomorrow afternoon, it was announced by Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss today.

The treatment which the Buccaneer star underwent in Baltimore recently is said to have effected a complete cure of his stubborn attack of iritis, and Traynor expects to continue at his position steadily during the remainder of the season.

Pie has participated in only three games this season.

"GOLFING IN THE RAIN"

MISS KATHERINE MAC CLOSKEY

Rain failed to halt the women's golf team matches at the Westmoreland Country Club yesterday. Here we see Miss Mac Closkey, a member of the Longue Vue Club team, putting under the protection of an umbrella held by her caddie.

OPENER POSTPONED

The opening of the Pennsylvania League scheduled for today at Pitcairn between Greensburg and Pitcairn has been postponed, owing to the soggy condition of the field. These two clubs will shift the scene of the inaugural to Greensburg next Saturday and the games will be held under the auspices of the American Legion.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER

CINCINNATI, May 20.—Well, folks, I guess you are anxious to see how we're gonna look against them Cubs when they get to Pittsburgh. I hope we can show some of the stuff we put out when we're on the road. Most of the gang was glad to get away. I don't mean that as a knock. But I guess they figured we was in a rut and a change might start us. Anyhow, the team looked like what the doctor ordered in the first game here.

We was rained out yesterday. But we're hopin' to clash today, even if some of the boys are limpin'. George Grantham had a big hole in one of his shoes where Red Lucas spiked him when he tried to stretch his hit into a double. Boots' foot was cut, too, but not enough to keep him out of the game.

COMMY BRANDED

Comorosky has "John A. Heydler" printed on his back like we used to brand cattle down in Texas. You know when Jakey May's fast ball smashed against Commy's back Saturday, it hit him so fair it left the trademark of the ball. I told Commy he was a real National Leaguer now. I guess it would be better to call it a badge of honor because Commy sure was hustlin' when he got clipped.

When we was kiddin' him about it, he just laughed and said he rather have that than be working in the old coal mine. On the level, though, Adam is so stiff and sore he can hardly swing at the ball and I think that's the reason he went hitless in Sunday's game.

Everybody around these parts is talkin' about Brame's pitchin' and his home run. The funny part is, Brame keeps sayin' the ball is too lively. That sounds kinda funny when he can pitch nine innings and walk up and slap one outa th' park.

CINCINNATI, May 20.—The much-predicted scramble for the honor and money positions of the National League is being upheld eloquently in the early phases of the present sweepstakes. As the teams approach the interesting Memorial Day milestone the competition is so keen as to be unusual in the long history of the senior circuit.

As late as this morning, the fifth-place Buccaneers were only one game removed from the topmost Robins. To say that is unusual is stating the condition mildly. Indeed, it is absolutely remarkable, to say the least.

JOCKEY FOR PLACES

While it is still too early to get any line on what the summer drive will bring, the arrival of Memorial Day always is regarded as a significant pausing ground. By this time the teams are close or beyond the quarter pole and like eight gallant foxes are jockeying for positions before they enter the back stretch.

Some time ago the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph referred to the Brooklyn team as the "surprise party" of the league. This writer contended then and does now that Uncle Robbie has one of the best offensives in the game with scarcely a weak batter from the top to the battery positions.

The activities of Glenn Wright and Jake Flowers have converted the Robins from an also-ran into a flag contender. Wright was out all of last season with a lame arm and Flowers was out most of the time with sickness. You can get a fair idea of what it means to have steadiness around second when you observe Wright and Flowers.

GREAT BATTERS

To further add to the joy of Uncle Robbie, the two keystone players are savage in their attack. Wright has ever been a powerful, dangerous hitter, while Flowers is a fleet, dependable batter. The former Pirate is given credit for having yanked the Robins out of their inarticulate behavior against lefthanders. With Glenn's big bat punishing the southpaws his mates have been inspired to big things.

Perhaps the Robins will not remain long on the top, but they should be a flag factor all season.

The Pirates were rained out at Cincinnati yesterday, the postponed game being moved back to Sunday, when they will take on the Reds in a double bill at Redland Field.

The Ensmen are due to open a four-game series with the Cubs at Forbes Field tomorrow.

Decatur Nine Wins Long Night Game

DECATUR, Ill., May 20.—(INS.)—Night baseball today had withstood its most severe test. The Decatur and Bloomington Clubs, of the Three Eye League, battled through 16 innings last night, the Decatur club winning by a 3-to-2 count.

Bloomington, to prove the arc light glare is no handicap, handled 75 chances without an error, Bandrimer having 16 at second base alone.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Did you see the way those Brooklyns sneaked into the pennant race by the back stairs? Before the season started, Uncle Wilbert assured me he would have his Robins on the top twig, but I thought he had been smoking Hasheesh and they started off the season like they thought the National League was giving a booby prize. But when you look at the standing today there is only a nickel's worth of carfare between Brooklyn and New York. The Robins have been pecking at the seven other clubs as if they were worms. Still, if Robbie can win a pennant with that outfit I can make a living playing roulette.

Charley Luck, matchmaker of the Hickey Park club, lost no time in lodging a formal protest with the commission and has a meeting scheduled with Commissioner Boyle in the latter's office today. Just what the outcome will be remains to be seen.

FANS DISAPPOINTED

The Braddock show was scheduled for last Thursday night and postponed four nights until last night because of rain. Announcement of the postponement was made at noon Thursday. Yesterday it was announced even as late as 3 o'clock when the boxers weighed in at the Bowl that every effort would be made to go through with the show and that only a heavy downpour at starting time could prevent the staging of the bouts. Given this assurance several thousand fans began their march on the Bowl after dinner only to learn upon their arrival that the show had been ordered called off by the Boxing Commission at 6:45 p. m. There was a lot of fussing and fuming and it is doubtful if some of the disappointed patrons will return tomorrow night. No rain fell after 6:15 last night.

It was announced by Applee Meyers, manager of the Bowl, that in the event of rain tomorrow night the Battalino show will be called off entirely and the club will bear the expenses of the boxers. In view of the fact that the commission has held both clubs and boxers to the letter of contracts in the recent past it is doubtful if such disposal can be made of the show unless it is satisfactory to all parties. The Battalino-Burrone show did not strike popular fancy from the start, there being a lack of interest in the outcome of a meeting between two out-of-town boxers, neither of whom ever had performed in this section before. The two postponements have not helped and it is not surprising that the club should be glad to wash its hands of the entire affair and go ahead with future bookings.

JONES-FORGIONE NEXT

Meanwhile the hornet's nest has been stirred up by the action of the commission in preventing the club from getting the show off its hands last night and dumping it in front of the new Hickey Park club's first offering, which has Knute Hansen, the Melancholy Dane of New York, meeting George Panka, Homestead heavyweight, in the 10-round main bout. Hansen is due in town today to finish his training for the bout.

The Meyers Bowl has arranged to have Gorilla Jones, Akron Negro, meet Vincent Forgione, of Philadelphia, in its main bout next Monday night. As this also brings together two out-of-towners, at least one of whom holds little appeal, it is doubtful if it will prove any more attractive than the much-booted-about Battalino-Burrone pairing. For the following week, on June 3, the first really attractive show is listed at the Bowl, bringing together Willie Davies, of Charleroi, and Black Bill, of Cuba, who eliminated Willie from the New York State flyweight championship tournament.

BIG TEN TRACK MEET

The honors in the Big Ten track meet next Saturday should be among Ohio, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, these apparently having the best-balanced teams. Indiana, which did very well indoors, does not gain anything by the addition of the extra hurdles race, broad jump or the weights and hence has only an outside chance.

Knute Rockne

Probable winners:

100-yard dash—Simpson of Ohio State.
220-yard dash—Simpson of Ohio State.
440-yard run—Walters of Northwestern.
Half-mile run—Martin of Purdue.
Two-mile run—Leas of Indiana.
Mile run—Martin of Purdue.
120-yard high hurdles—Sentman of Illinois.
220-yard low hurdles—Rockaway of Ohio State.
High jump—Shaw of Wisconsin.
Pole vault—Warne of Northwestern.
Running broad jump—Gordon of Iowa.
Shot put—Behr of Wisconsin.
Discus throw—Brookes of Michigan.
Hammer throw—Campbell of Michigan.
Javelin throw—Weldon of Iowa.
One-mile relay—Michigan.

THOMPSON GETS BELT

CHICAGO, May 20.—(INS.)—Young Jack Thompson, of Oakland, Cal., today was the possessor of a $2,000 belt which was given him as an emblem of the world welterweight championship. A Negro lodge last night awarded him the belt, the buckle of which is set with a two-carat diamond.

SCHOOL STARS IMPROVE ON '29 MARKS

By JESS CARVER

It may be a good thing that only four of last year's first place holders will be back and competing in the annual Pitt interscholastic meet in the Pitt Stadium Saturday afternoon. The going for the four, three individuals and one relay team, is going to be tough enough judging from the marks that have been turned in at other meets this year and the boys will find it plenty tough repeating their 1929 triumphs.

I say it MAY be a good thing, for one never can tell what these high school babies are going to do. They tell me that this fellow Bohlender, who owns two of the best marks made in meet competition to date, could be a lot better than he is if he'd train consistently, that he is even better than his record indicates.

BOHLENDER STAR

Bohlender, with his 9.9 hundred and 21-foot 5¾-inch broad jump, owns two of the season's best marks. Milligan of Peabody has made the best time to date in the furlong, 0:22 6-10. Fleming, Westinghouse, tops the quarter-milers with a 52-second 440. John, Wilkinsburg's hurdler, possesses the best mark in the highs, 0:16 1-5, and Jack Bradley, Connellsville, the best in the lows, 0:26 4-10.

Paul McMurdo's 2:03 for the 880, Clements' 4:39 mile, Markovich's 45-5 shot, Van Fausen's 183-foot javelin heave, Spencer's 6-3 high jump, Windy Moore's and Bob Pusch's 11-9 pole vaults and Uniontown's 3:34 8-10-mile relay are other best efforts.

FOUR WINNERS BACK

The four winners from last year who'll be back Saturday are Fleming, Westinghouse quarter-miler; Clements, New Castle's mile star; Pusch, Beaver's pole vault, and the Steubenville mile relay team.

Only three of the marks turned in last year have stood up so far against the assaults of the boys in the major scholastic carnivals. These three, the 220, broad jump and mile relay, all will be fortunate indeed to hold up Saturday.

All others have been bettered except the high jump and pole vault, which have been equaled.

The Tipoff

Today's college sport schedule includes one baseball game and one tennis match. St. Vincent's meets the [illegible] Teachers on the [illegible] diamond and the [illegible] engage the Dukes on the Bluff courts.

Pittsburgh boasts two of the best high jumpers in the country in Spencer, Fifth Avenue High star, and Paul Cooper, Pitt's freshman leaper. Both think nothing of starting their jumping at six feet, a height that causes most schoolboy and freshman bar clearers to take nose dives.

Knute Rockne and Don Harrison, Pitt's athletic director, have agreed on the 1931 Notre Dame-Pitt football date. It will be played on the seventeenth of one of the '31 fall months, not September and not October.

another fight. I shall get myself into the best possible condition and will go in there and give everything I have in the fistic line.

The newspaper boys have been asking me what I intend to do to Schmeling. I have told them I shall hand Max the same treatment I accorded to Tommy Loughran.

Loughran was at the peak of his career when he met me. He had defeated everybody in sight. In many ways he looked like another Gene Tunney. And yet I was able to outbox him and then knock him out.

CITES LOUGHRAN VICTORY

Schmeling is bigger and stronger than Loughran, but has not had the latter's experience as a boxer. There is a serious doubt in my mind as to whether Schmeling could have beaten the Loughran I stopped in short order.

I am down to the training grind in earnest and will not experience any real let-up until I have beaten Schmeling.

Peabody at Schenley.
Ralston at Vocational.
Section II
Langley at Oliver.
Allegheny at South Hills.
JUNIOR LEAGUE
Section I
Gladstone at Liberty.
Peabody at Baxter.
Section II
Overbrook at Herron Hill.

The stage will be set this week for the annual City League scholastic baseball championship playoff series as the circuit runs off its final week of competition. Unless startling upsets occur in both sections of the league, Schenley and Oliver will clash in the title series, beginning next week.

In today's games, in Section I, Peabody will invade Malone Field for a battle with the Bellefielders, undefeated in league play and practically certain to engage in their successive title series. Ralston and Vocational meet in a second Section I game.

In Section II, Langley, runner-up for the title in 1929, 1928 and 1927, but this year far in the ruck, meets Oliver on the North Sider's field. Allegheny plays South Hills at South Hills.

Schenley appears to be as strong as in years past and despite Oliver's fine record in Section II, where the North Side team so far has escaped defeat, the Oakland entry rules a strong favorite to retain the title.

In the junior division today, in Section I, Gladstone meets Liberty and Peabody takes on Baxter. In Section II, Overbrook and Herron Hill clash on the latter's diamond.

Graham to Sub For Kid Chocolate

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS.)—Kid Chocolate, Cuban featherweight, who was injured Sunday night in an automobile accident, probably will not be able to fight for a month or six weeks, it was stated today. He is in a hospital at Nyack, N. Y.

Bushy Graham will take the Kid's place against Fidel La Barba in Madison Square Garden, May 28.

Chocolate has a deep cut on his chin and his face is badly scratched and bruised. His left hand, leg and side also are bruised.

hit the apple out of sight. When he came to the bench nobody said anything. We generally make a fuss over a guy when he socks one for four bases, but we wanted to see what ol' Erv would do.

Well, Erv is a modest guy that doesn't want any credit, but after he got to the bench and nobody said anything he couldn't keep from laughin'. He made a wise crack or two and everybody broke down and confessed. But he heard plenty of compliments before he went out to the box again.

Charley Engle was another of the boys patted on the back. There's a bird that saves his singles for tying and winnin' runs. I guess we'd a been sunk this year with Pie out if Charley wasn't around.

Hearing Is Asked For Banned Carnera

LINCOLN, Neb., May 20.—(AP.)—Lamenting suspension of Primo Carnera, Italian behemoth, at the hands of the National Boxing Association, Ira Vorhees, Nebraska commissioner, today directed a letter to Stanley Isaacs, president of that organization, demanding that Carnera be given a hearing.

Should Isaacs frown at his attitude in the Carnera case, Vorhies will resign his office as treasurer of the N. B. A. and withdraw his membership, he said.

Phil Goldstein Beats Danny Delmont

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 20.—Phil Goldstein, Pittsburgh, was awarded the decision over Danny Delmont, Chicago, at the end of 10 rounds of real fighting in the Jolly Bowl here last night. Goldstein carried the fight to his opponent the greater part of the encounter. Both weighed 138 pounds.

Sport Vignettes

Leo P. Flynn

It hardly seems true that Leo P. Flynn, veteran fight manager, who died yesterday, was only 50 years old . . . . It seems he'd been around in the racket forever . . . . They called him the Silver Fox because his hair was so gray it was almost white . . . . He was one of the shrewdest gents in the game and generally in what the boys call the money . . . . His first real money-maker was Bill Brennan, the big heavyweight, who fought Jack Dempsey two good fights and wound up being killed by a gunman . . . . He also handled Dave Shade, Kid Norfolk, Jack Renault and others, and at one time boasted the largest stable of fighters in captivity . . . . He made his roll when Tex Rickard first invaded New York and made Leo his matchmaker in the old Madison Square Garden . . . . There Leo used his own fighters as often as he could, but he put good opponents against them so the shows would draw and everybody all around made money . . . . One of Leo's rules was to be liberal with himself in the "cut" he took out of his fighters' earnings . . . . "This is a business," he would say, "and the relation between fighter and manager ends when the fighter is through. The manager must get his as he goes along so they can quit all square. He should have no claims against the fighter or regrets after the latter quits boxing." . . . . Flynn was a rabid golfer in his last few years, improving his game to such an extent that he was looked upon as a "shark" by other men in the boxing realm . . . . His delight was to play for money and walk off with a hollow victory . . . . Leo had a ready Irish sense of humor and a merry twinkle in his eye. Often it was difficult to tell when he was kidding and when he was serious . . . . The last time he was in Pittsburgh was last September, when he brought K. O. Brown, a Negro light-heavyweight, here for a bout with Maxie Rosenbloom at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock . . . . At that time he was picking Tommy Loughran to outbox Jack Sharkey in their bout that was to follow in New York . . . . It was one of the few times he was wrong on a big fight, for Sharkey won with a knockout in the third round . . . . Leo was the fellow who started all of that hullabaloo about the likelihood of Sharkey claiming a foul in his bout with Jack Dempsey a few years ago when Dempsey was starting his comeback for another crack at Tunney . . . . Leo had been put in charge of Dempsey by Rickard . . . . He wanted a belt line painted on the bodies of the men to decide all questions of fouls . . . . At first no one took him seriously, but he made everybody foul conscious, and, when Sharkey claimed a foul on a succession of low blows in the seventh round, he was derided and the referee ignored him and counted him out . . . . Leo also was the man behind Dempsey in his second fight with Tunney, in Chicago, and wrangled long and in good voice over the rules . . . . When Dempsey knocked down Tunney in the seventh round, it was a faux pas by Leo that scrambled the works . . . . He called Jack to his own corner instead of letting him go to a neutral corner, with the result that Tunney got what the official timer admits was a 17-second count . . . . Leo's widow was as much interested in the fight game as the Silver Fox himself and made many of the matches via long-distance telephone for the boxers in the Flynn string . . . . In fact, it is said she managed some of the boxers in her own right . . . . Leo possessed one of the most colorful and expressive vocabularies in boxing, and at his best was inclined to speak out of the corner of his mouth, with a strange muscular movement of the cheek . . . . He won't be forgotten in a hurry by those of us who knew him.—HARRY KECK.

Between Rounds

Sergt. Sammy Baker, of New York, and Paul Pirrone, of Cleveland, box the main bout of a show in Cleveland tonight, with Frankie Simms and Ted Sandwina, heavies, boxing another 10-rounder. In six-round preliminaries, Benny Gershe boxes Merle Alte and Frankie Chatterton meets Jack Dalton. Jack Barry and Tuffy O'Dowd battle for 10 rounds in Chicago, Charley Retzlaff tangles with Mickey Taylor in New York and Ace Hudkins and Dave Shade are paired in Los Angeles.

Tiny DeBolt (Young Jack Dempsey) boxes K. O. Kitts at Ashtabula, O., on Memorial Day and K. O. Christner at Lorain, O., June 27.

Ignacio Fernandez, the Filipino, who gives Al Singer a chance to get even with him for a three-round knockout defeat a year ago when they clash in Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night, believes he has the Indian sign on Singer and will knock the latter out of his proposed title fight with Sammy Mandell in July. Nel Tarleton, of England, and Joe Scalfaro, of New York, box the 10-round semi-final Friday.

Al Trainor and Gene Buffalo box in Philadelphia Thursday night.

Tom Malon, of Soho, wants a return bout with Young Rudy, of Charleroi, who recently was given an undeserved decision over him at Motor Square Garden. It ought to be a good number for one of the local outdoor clubs.

Battling Gizzy Wins Over Babe Ruth

WHEELING, W. Va., May 20.—(AP.)—Battling Gizzy, of Pittsburgh, won a newspaper decision over Babe Ruth, of Louisville, in the 10-round main bout here last night.

Gizzy, weighing 129 pounds, carried the fight most of the way to Ruth, 126, although the battle was hotly contested throughout.

Allen Beatty, 151, of Pittsburgh, defeated Jackie Herman, 150, of Wheeling, in the semi-final of six rounds.

By TOM BIRKS.

Pity the poor sandlot manager these days, for King Pluvius still holds the upper hand and soon the list of postponements will look like a regular pre-season schedule.

However, there must be a break sometime, and managers should take little time in getting these playoff games listed on the first available playing date, as it will be impossible to get rid of any game after the last scheduled date in the league.

This evening's card offers a number of well-balanced encounters. Wilmerding, with an undefeated record in the West Penn League, will tangle with the Homewood club at the playgrounds. This will be the toughest obstacle Heinie Boll and his mates have bumped into.

DORMONT FACES TEST

At Dormont, North Bessemer, with Dom De Maria handling the team, will oppose Stricker's club. De Maria succeeds Derr as manager of the club, and the New Kensington boy probably will line up a good pennant contender.

Joseph Hornes will take to Burgwin field to meet B. & O. The Hazelwood aggregation is going like a house on fire and has won four straight. The report that Carnegie Steel and B. & O. had played a scoreless tie was not true. Frank Rush's team won by a 9 to 6 score, so chalk up another victory for B. & O. Beitel will oppose the Railroaders and that fast ball will give them lots of trouble.

In the Central League two real battles are promised. Etna meets the Allegheny Collegians at Dean Field. Tommy Carson has primed Snee for the game, with Imhoff on the firing line for the upriver boys. Soho Board of Trade will meet Pintex and Johnny Hornyak is going to send his ace, Bailey, to the mound seeking his third victory.

CITY LEAGUE BUSY

The City League will feature three games. The Jimmy Smith club will travel to Pleasant Valley to meet the Smilers. W. O. W. and Stowe Civics will stage their local fight this time at Stowe High School field and without a doubt "Pop" Geer will be tickled to see that opener out of the way, bad weather and unfinished grounds having become a nightmare to him.

The third game will bring Book Shoe, with its undefeated record, to the Salt Works to meet Art Rooney and his N. S. Civics. This should be a battle worth while.

In the Greater Pittsburgh League, Edgewood meets Verona at Bill Bright's home grounds. Reliance Life appears against the Cement men of Universal, while a local fight is staged at Homestead with the Stephens meeting Whitaker.

In the Major League, the Mt. Lebanon nine hooks up with the Lineys at Olympia Park, and in the North Side Twilight loop, the Lafayettes go up the river to Blawnox, and Immaculate Heart meets St. Boniface.

In the North Side Twilight League last evening, the North Siders and Fineview played five innings to a 2-2 tie.

Helen Jacobs Wins In Paris Tourney

PARIS, May 20.—(INS.)—Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., and Mlle. J. Sigard, of France, defeated the French Gallay sisters, 6-2, 3-6, 6-0, in their first-round match in the French tennis championship at the Roland Garros Stadium today.

DR. HAYMANN BARRED

BERLIN, May 20.—(AP.)—The German Boxing Association today prohibited the heavyweight boxer, Dr. Ludwig Haymann, from entering the ring again in America on the ground that his repeated defeats in the United States had been harmful to the prestige of the German boxing world.

FLYNN FUNERAL THURSDAY

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS.)—Funeral services for Leo P. Flynn, noted figure in boxing and formerly manager of Jack Dempsey, will be held Thursday and the body removed to Providence, R. I.

Flynn died yesterday from pneumonia contracted as the result of a cold, following a golf game.

DEMPSEY SHOCKED

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, was deeply shocked at the death in New York of Leo Flynn, who managed him in his second battle with Gene Tunney.

"Leo was a good pal and one of the keenest boxing men I knew. He probably would have acted as my manager again had I decided to attempt a comeback."

The death of Flynn was Dempsey's second loss in three days, his booking manager, Jack Wall, having died in Milwaukee Saturday.

Texas League Heads Quizzed by Landis

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP.)—Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League; Robert Tarlton, business manager of the Dallas club of the league, and Steamboat Johnson, Southern Association umpire, yesterday appeared before Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, to make statements in connection with the attendance and receipts at the final game of the Dixie series last year.

Commissioner Landis said it had been reported that true figures had not been given on the game between Dallas and the Birmingham club of the Southern Association, but that the statements had satisfactorily cleared up the report. No other action is contemplated, he said.

Fight Results

At New Castle—Phil Goldstein defeated Danny Desmond, 10 rounds. Joe Bona defeated Frankie Lauder, 6 rounds. Tommy Armond defeated Roger Siso, 6 rounds. Walter Farrow defeated Nick Gruber, 4 rounds.

At Wheeling—Battling Gizzy defeated Babe Ruth, 10 rounds. Allen Beall defeated Jackie Herman, 6 rounds. Patsy Patch defeated Windy Meyers, 6 rounds. Bobby Brinkman defeated Jerry Dunn, 4 rounds.

At Birmingham, Ala.—Battling Bozo knocked out Chief Jack Elkhart, 9 rounds.

At Milwaukee—Earl Mastro defeated Jackie Cohen, 10 rounds.

At Louisville—Cecil Payne defeated Tracy Cox, 10 rounds. Bob Thomas defeated Larry Paxton, 6 rounds.

At Asheville, N. C.—Add Warren and Jack League drew, 10 rounds.

At Little Rock, Ark.—Jack Williams defeated [illegible], 10 rounds. [illegible] knocked out [illegible], 4 rounds. Jack King defeated Mike [illegible], 10 rounds.

At New York—Alan Gibbs defeated Eddie Roberts, 6 rounds. Eddie Maynard knocked out Eddie Pena, 2 rounds. [illegible] knocked out Al Fontaine, 1 round. Jack Wiener knocked out Sergt. Bob Huggins, 5 rounds. Willie Hines defeated Paul Casamento, 6 rounds.

At Atlantic City—Harry Bittman defeated Sammy Ferris, 6 rounds.

JOHNNIES WIN OVER CHAMPS

Rain again played havoc with the Middle Atlantic League schedule yesterday, only one of the four games carded being played, and it lasted but seven innings.

At Johnstown, the Johnnies defeated the Charleroi Guys, 5 to 1, Thompson turning in his third triumph of the season for the victors. He fanned the last two men to face him in the first inning and all three in the second.

Cagle on New York Journal Sports Staff

NEW YORK, May 20.—(INS.)—Christian (Red) Cagle, famous Army football star, who recently resigned from the United States Military Academy when his secret marriage in 1928 became known, today joined the sports staff of the New York Evening Journal. Cagle was on the point of returning to his home in Louisiana when he received word that the post was available.

Cagle was one of West Point's greatest football stars. For the last three years he was chosen as a member of the All-America football team.

JACK, MAX GET NEW MATES

ENDICOTT, N. Y., May 20.—(INS.)—New sparring partners were expected today at the camp of Max Schmeling, where the German boxer is preparing for his world heavyweight title bout against Jack Sharkey, to be fought in New York on June 12. Because George Neron is the only sparring mate left in the Teuton's camp, Schmeling rested yesterday.

CAVALIER FOR SHARKEY

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., May 20.—(INS.)—Jack Sharkey may extend his boxing program today with the scheduled arrival of another punch absorber. The Boston Sailor boxed only three rounds yesterday, working with Johnny Grosso and King Solomon.

In two rounds against Grosso, Sharkey looked sharp, using a vicious hook often.

Paul Cavalier, who trained with Sharkey in some of his previous fights, including the one against Jack Dempsey, was due to join the Tar's sparring force today.

Gallant Fox, Ned O In American Derby

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP.)—Gallant Fox, winner of the Kentucky Derby, is expected to run in the $50,000 American Derby at Washington Park, June 14.

Judge C. W. Hay, general manager of Washington Park, said Earl Sande was particularly eager to ride the Fox in the American Derby, an event in which he has not had a winning mount.

G. W. Freeman, of Baltimore, owner of Ned O, which finished third in the Kentucky Derby, has decided to enter his horse in the American Derby, to again oppose Gallant Fox.

ROTARIAN GOLF PLAY CARDED TODAY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

The first three-cornered golf match of the season is being played today at the Alcoma Country Club between three community Rotary Club teams. Wilkinsburg, Homestead and Verona-Oakmont are battling for victory over the Frankstown road links.

TOURNEY TOMORROW

Tomorrow the Pennsylvania Golf Association will hold its first big one-day medal play tournament of the local season. The state association has listed two events for tomorrow, the local one being at the Pittsburgh Field Club and the other, for Eastern Pennsylvanians, at the York Country Club. Miss Lois Miller, secretary of the handicap committee, announces that an enormous entry list has been received and that the initial competition already is a real success.

Prizes will be offered for low gross and low net for two events at the Field Club tomorrow, an 18-hole medal play under full handicaps being listed in the morning and an 18-hole four ball best ball match play against par, handicaps applied individually, is slated for the afternoon.

An entry fee of $1 will be collected at the tee. Those still wishing handicaps may obtain them by sending their best three scores of last year, their club handicap and the name of their club to Miss Miller, in 1101 Farmers Bank Building. Those not having handicaps must play at scratch tomorrow.

WOMEN PLAN EVENT

Yesterday the inaugural matches in Section II of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania team league were played at the Westmoreland Country Club, and the Caddie-masters and Assistant Professionals' Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania held its first competition at the Longue Vue Club.

In the women's team play, Alcoma defeated Westmoreland, 10-5; Country Club of Pittsburgh defeated St. Clair, 10-7, and Longue Vue downed South Hills, 16-1. The results:

In the caddiemasters' play, only four pairs turned in cards, rain and a late start spoiling the competition. Wayne Tobias, Greensburg, and Charles Bright, Westmoreland, handed in cards of 74 to lead the small field. The play was four ball, best ball with seven-eighths handicap. Sam Mellon, Oakmont, and Frank Bruno, Nemacolin, were second with 76s.

FRED ROBINSON

One of the few golf professionals in Western Pennsylvania who is of English extraction is Fred Robinson, manager of the golf department of one of the downtown sporting goods houses. And the interesting part of it is that in Merrie Old England he also was a journalist. It seems that in his infant days, Robinson took a great fancy to golf. So he caddied and worked on the bench at Glenview Burnley, under Capt. Arthur Speers. After becoming thoroughly familiar with the inside and outside workings of a pro's job, he quit the game for a time to look into the newspaper field, becoming a respected reporter for the Manchester Guardian. He gave it up after a few years, however, and returned to Glenview Burnley as assistant pro. In 1923 he came to this side of the Atlantic as assistant to Capt. Clarke at Daytona Beach, Fla., and at the Highland Country Club here. Leaving Highland after a year there, he signed up with the Hill Crest Country Club, in New Kensington, staying there for four years.—VERN SWARTSFAGER.

KNOCKOUT

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 20.—Battling Bozo knocked out Chief Jack Elkhart in the ninth round here last night.

Sonnenberg Fouled By Strangler Lewis

KANSAS CITY, May 20.—(AP.)—Gus Sonnenberg, recognized in some states as the world heavyweight wrestling champion, was awarded a victory over Ed (Strangler) Lewis on a foul here last night after each had won a fall.

The referee ruled a foul when Lewis butted the title claimant with his knee three minutes and four seconds after grappling for the third fall started.

Lewis won the first fall in 25 minutes, 10 seconds, with a series of headlocks. Sonnenberg took the second in 12 minutes, 12 seconds, with a flying tackle.

DONAHOE TO QUIT

Bus Donahoe, former Carnegie Tech basketball star, is to resign as coach at St. Francis College, Loretto, Pa., it was rumored here today.

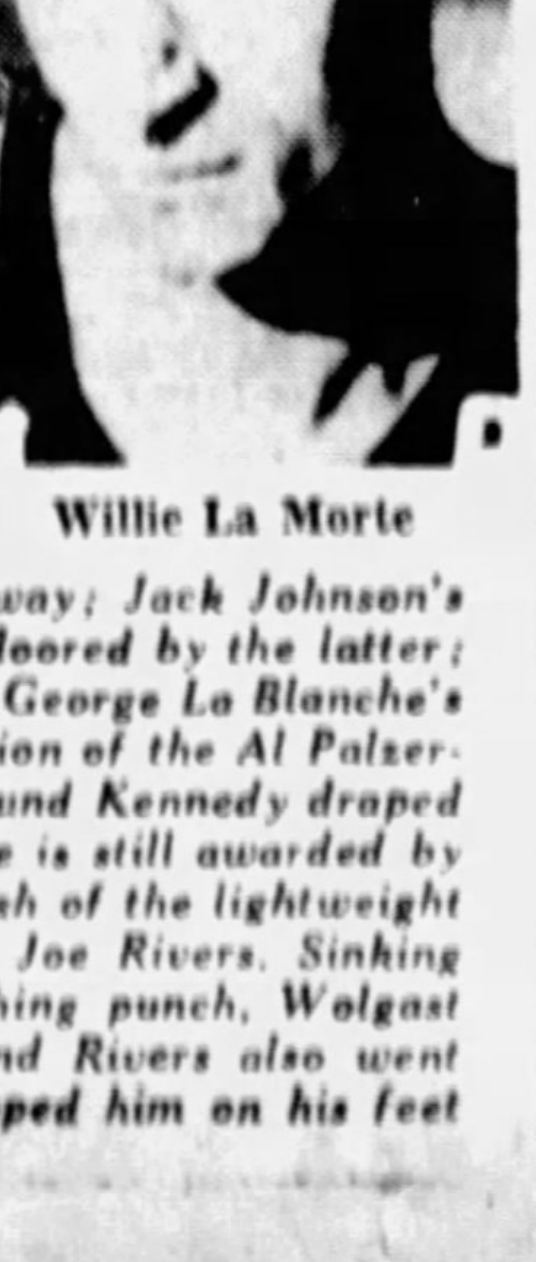
starting up hill, the Browns seem to be headed in the opposite direction, another of the queer form reversals that have affected practically every club in the two loops.

The St. Louis entry in the Barnard race started out at a clip that appeared to indicate Bill Killefer had a pennant contender, but the Browns have been slipping fast lately. They have dropped four consecutive games, eight of their last nine, and 10 of their last 12.



Willie La Morte

THE STRANGE ENDING that marked the recent bout between Midget Wolgast, flyweight champion, and Willie La Morte, challenger, when La Morte, collapsed while walking toward his corner after the fifth round and was unable to come up for the sixth, has led boxing veterans to recall some other unusual finishes. Among them are Stanley Ketchel's feat of knocking Philadelphia Jack O'Brien cold eight seconds before the final bell after being outpointed all the way; Jack Johnson's quick rally to knock out Ketchel after being floored by the latter; the flattening of the original Jack Dempsey by George La Blanche's pivot blow, later made illegal, and the conclusion of the Al Palzer-Tom Kennedy bout, in which the final gong found Kennedy draped unconscious over the top rope. But first place is still awarded by Ed Hughes and other fistic veterans to the finish of the lightweight championship fray between Ad Wolgast and Joe Rivers. Sinking to the canvas from what looked like a finishing punch, Wolgast drove a seemingly foul blow to the body and Rivers also went down. The referee picked up Wolgast, propped him on his feet and then counted out Rivers.*

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Local Market Narrow

BEARS JOSTLE STOCKS FROM STAGNATION

Speculators for Advance Beat Hasty Retreat as Price Breach Widens

NEW YORK, May 20—(AP.)—Bears showed their teeth in today's stock market, and speculators for the rise, who trembled at the first growl from the bear quarter yesterday, retreated rapidly. Losses of 2 to 5 points in important issues were sustained and a few issues showed wider declines.

The market was stirred out of its recent stagnation, and trading was again of substantial volume, the ticker falling a few minutes in arrears at times. The market remained almost entirely a professional trading affair, however, although there were indications that a moderate amount of nervously held investment stock was being shaken loose.

TURN SEEN

While little hope of anything more than an up-and-down market was held out in brokerage circles, there was a feeling in some quarters that with the increase in volume the market should soon reach a point of vantage from which a temporary rally might be expected. Several prominent traders who took profits on the long side last week were said to be committing themselves heavily on the short side, which was regarded as indicating a covering movement before the end of the week.

News was mixed and perhaps slightly in favor of the bear side, although indications that the impasse in Congress over the tariff bill had been broken was regarded as of decidedly bullish significance. Steel production was estimated at only 75 per cent of capacity for the industry at large this week against 76 last week, although U. S. Steel was still reported as holding at 80.

DECLINES WIDE

Among the more volatile issues Case sold up 7 points, then dropped more than 16 from the top when directors declared only the regular dividend and failed to announce the expected split-up. Auburn Auto tumbled more than 10 points to a new 1930 low.

Westinghouse Electric, Johns Manville and Eastman Kodak lost 5 points or more. Shares losing 3 or more included General Electric, American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey, Electric Power and Light, Consolidated Gas, American Tobacco B, Loews and Air Reduction. U. S. Steel, Standard of New Jersey, American Can and Radio also sagged substantially.

About the only feature of the money market was a better supply of bankers acceptance since the further shading of 30 to 90 day bills to 2⅝@2½ per cent. Call money held at 3 per cent.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, May 20.—Cotton opened steady today at 6 to 7 points higher on the old crop months and 2 higher to 4 lower on the new crop positions. There was a fairly good demand from trade shorts for the near months and moderate commission house and Liverpool buying of the distant positions. The technical position of the market was regarded as firmer following yesterday's selling movement and contracts on the whole were not plentiful. The May position advanced to 16.19c and reacted to 16.12c and the new crop months declined 4 to 5 points. There were 142 May notices issued before the opening. The Liverpool market was lower, but showed a steady tone on continental buying.

LIVERPOOL, May 20.—Cotton—Spot dull, prices lower. American strict good middling 9.37, good middling 9.02, strict middling 8.72, middling 8.52, strict low middling 8.17, low middling 7.62, strict good ordinary 6.92, good ordinary 6.52. Sales, 2,000 bales, including 1,300 American. Receipts 2,000, American 1,100. Futures closed steady. May 8.09, July 7.99, October 7.85, December 7.87, January 7.88, March 7.91, May 7.98.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Raw sugar was quiet early today, and in absence of business, prices were unchanged at 3.21 for spots, duty paid.

Refined was unchanged, although withdrawals were more liberal. Prices were quoted at 4.90 by all refiners, with second hands available around 4.65.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 20.—Prices declined in a more active curb market today. Speculative holdings of utility shares were allowed to go in fair-sized blocks during the earlier hours of the session but the offerings tended to dry up toward noon and by early afternoon the list had apparently found the resistance levels.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list, 000 omitted in sales columns of bond list):

U. S. STEEL AT 80 PER CENT

Steel ingot production has been reduced during the past week with the average now around 75 per cent against 76 per cent in the preceding week and 76½ per cent two weeks ago.

There has been no change by U. S. Steel Corp. which has maintained its rate at a shade under 80 per cent, the same as last week. Two weeks ago the corporation was slightly over 80 per cent.

Independents are down more than 1½ per cent to a shade over 70 per cent against around 72 per cent a week ago and a fraction over 72 per cent two weeks ago.

At this time last year, the steel corporation was running at practically capacity, with the independents around 93 per cent and the average at 96 per cent. Two years ago the steel corporation was at 86 per cent, independents at 78 per cent and the average slightly under 82 per cent.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 20.—Favorable reports both regarding domestic crops and Canadian, together with price reductions for Argentine offerings abroad led to early downturns today in wheat values here. On the other hand, wheat exports from France were quoted higher. Opening ⅛-⅜c down, Chicago wheat afterward rallied somewhat. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, with corn starting unchanged to ⅛c off, and subsequently undergoing a general sag.

Set backs witnessed in the Chicago wheat market today were in the face of European advices telling of unseasonable cold and of excessive rains. In this connection, word was at hand that new wheat in France and Italy is losing color, and that danger of damage by rust is evident should a rise in temperatures take place. Meanwhile, also, there were reports that black rust has developed in wheat on bottom lands near Minneapolis and Abilene, Kan.

For the most part, however, domestic crop advices from the Southwest were auspicious, and Canadian crop reports were summarized as excellent for at least the time being. A leading Chicago field observer telegraphing from Woodward, Okla., said general improvement in the crop prospect has been noticeable on the entire trip and is still in progress, with plenty of moisture in the soil. Bears emphasized also that overnight export demand for North American wheat appeared to lack volume.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.

LOCAL MARKET QUIET AND NARROW

Price Movement Reflects Uncertain Attitude of Trading Element in N. Y.

Trading was quiet and prices were narrow in the early dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Lone Star Gas, which backed down sharply under a selling wave yesterday, held steady with the volume of dealings amounting to only a fraction of yesterday's turnover.

The stagnant appearance of the market here was a reflection of conditions in New York, where sentiment continued to mirror the uncertainty and hesitation which have been evident for several days.

The street is confused by the anomaly of large supplies of credit at unusually low rates, coupled with more or less persistent bearish attitude toward stocks on the part of the general trading element.

CALIFORNIA OIL STOCKS DROP

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Stocks of crude and refined oil in Pacific coast territory decreased 1,777,619 barrels during April and totaled 187,192,759 barrels at the end of the month. In the preceding month stocks decreased 728,345 barrels, making a total decrease of 2,505,964 barrels from the beginning of March to the end of April.

TULSA, Okla., May 20.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended May 17 totaled 2,611,883 barrels, an increase of 14,442 barrels daily over the preceding week according to the Oil and Gas Journal.

Reserve Member Loans Decrease

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The Federal Reserve condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in leading cities on May 14 shows decreases for the week of $29,000,000 in loans and investments and $32,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve Banks, and increases of $140,000,000 in net demand deposits and $21,000,000 in time deposits.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

PIPE LINE ORDERS PLACED

The Southern Natural Gas Company has awarded orders for pipe involving approximately $3,750,000 to the National Tube Company and the A. O. Smith Corporation. The National Tube, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, was given approximately $2,375,000 and the balance was given to the A. O. Smith Corporation. Added to pipe already purchased, the award brings the cost of pipe for natural gas extensions of Southern Natural up to $11,750,000. The gas company also made known that work has begun on transmission line extensions to carry natural gas to Mobile, Selma, Montgomery, Auburn and Opelika, Ala.; Macon, Milledgeville and Griffin, Ga., and Jackson, Biloxi, Pascagoula, Laurel, Hattiesburg and Moss Point, Miss.

INTERNATIONAL TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH

International Telephone and Telegraph is about to expand in China through the purchase of the Shanghai Mutual Telephone Company. I. T. & T. already has a manufacturing telephone factory there, owned through International Standard Electric Company. It is apparent that the company intends to continue the great expansion that has been going on for the past three years. Not all of the companies purchased recently are money makers as yet and a further cash outlay will be necessitated before adequate returns will be made. On the other hand, the company is rounding out its plans and although the stockholders may have to be patient for larger returns for some time the management confidently expects the future will bring greatly increased revenues.

MULLINS MANUFACTURING CO.

The Mullins Manufacturing Corporation has acquired the plant of the American Steel and Wire Company at Salem, O., which was vacated two years ago. The factory will be used for the production of boats and other products.

HOLIDAY PETITION DENIED

The board of governors of the National Raw Silk Exchange has disapproved a petition of members asking that the exchange be closed for trading on Saturday during June, July and August.

WILCOX-EATON AXLE

Consolidation of Wilcox Rich Corporation with Eaton Axle and Spring Company is assured through the deposit of 210,333 shares of the former's Class B stock under the merger plan.

Prosperity Near, These Inspiring Facts Indicate

By B. C. FORBES

SKIES ARE GRAY, rain is pelting against the window, damp air chills the bones; but instead of becoming gloomy, let us turn rather to some of America's many distinctly cheery facts and features.

Americans are now working rather than speculating.

Economy has given place to wasteful extravagance.

Savings are increasing.

More people than ever before are investing in life insurance.

The cost of living has come down, thus fitting the United States to compete more advantageously in world markets.

Our business standards have been raised nearer than ever towards the high level of the Golden Rule.

Relations between employers and employed have become widely co-operative, again enhancing this nation's power to conquer international markets.

The science of management has advanced more here than in any other land.

So has inventive genius.

Our work folks are the most ambitious in the world.

They, therefore, are eager to produce in order to enjoy more of the conveniences, comforts and luxuries of life than are enjoyed by the working class anywhere else on earth.

We have learned better than any other people how to hook up electric power to man power so as to multiply efficiency and productivity per worker.

Nowhere else on the globe is wealth being so rapidly and widely diffused.

Nowhere else are the working classes paying less heed to the preachings of Communists.

Nowhere else are so many families being added year by year to the roll of investors.

Nowhere else are so many workmen engaged in the inspiring process of becoming home-owners.

We now are enjoying that most potent of all tonics for the development of enterprise, employment and prosperity. Cheap money.

The purging process which has become necessary in the stock market has been quite thoroughly carried out.

Both bonds and high-grade stock can now be purchased to yield more than the rates current in our financial metropolis.

Borrowing on securities have been reduced $2,797,000,000 from last year's peak.

Borrowing for commercial purposes is also very light.

The present plethora of low-priced money is bound to induce entrepreneurs to put it to work in one direction or another.

Extensive security offerings here by foreigners will have a stimulating effect upon our foreign trade.

Stocks of finished goods throughout this country are relatively light, and as ordering has been rigidly hand-to-mouth the time is approaching—it probably is at hand—when sufficient replenishing will have to be done to quicken our business pace.

It is hardly conceivable that our main farm crops which have been selling at depressed prices will continue to decline; much more likely is it that recovery is imminent.

The evil of overproduction is being taken in hand by leaders in various industries, and cutthroat competition, entailing sales at less than cost, is becoming less flagrant throughout our economic system.

The alarm precipitated by the stock market panic of last fall has subsided, and faith in steady, if slow, national progress towards prosperity is being re-established.

The spending of more money than ever before in advertising by American enterprises reflects the characteristically courageous spirit of our ablest men of affairs.

Tariff uncertainties—a veritable bugaboo—will shortly be out of the way. It is not possible, however, to become elated over the handiwork of our tariff tinkerers.

While mergers, machinery, increased managerial skill and other factors making for economic production tend to create dislocation of employment and unemployment, the ultimate effect will be the infinite strengthening of this nation's power to lead, not to say dominate, other countries industrially, commercially, financially.

Whereas tax burdens are becoming still heavier in most parts of the world, America's public debt is being drastically reduced under the financial statesmanship of Secretary Mellon.

Finally, Americans are so constituted that they cannot long remain in the doldrums but can be depended upon to unleash their boundless native initiative, energy, optimism and the irrepressible daring bred of their pioneer blood.

140 MEN HIRED AT ALLENPORT

CHARLEROI, Pa., May 20.—The Allenport plant of the Pittsburgh Steel Company is maintaining steady production in all departments, with 1,300 men at work. Introduction of the eight-hour day has opened jobs to 140 additional men. The mechanical department alone is continuing under the 10-hour day schedule. The seven-day week has been eliminated.

Public Disillusioned on Uninterrupted Progress Of Powers of Earnings

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, May 20.—For the time being, stocks are selling ex-glamour.

The public has lost the illusion of an uninterrupted steady progression in the earning power of corporations, which last year caused it to bid up stocks to fantastic price-earnings ratios. Of the larger groups only the public utilities have demonstrated that they are independent of the business cycle, embarked on a long-term adventure in expanding the uses of their services. Railroads, though not participating fully in prosperity, share up to the hilt in recession. But it should be pointed out that the present relative price of public utility and railroad stocks seem fully to discount the better growth potentialities of the utility issues.

The market is waiting for an indication from the business world of the trend. Better business—or the revived expectation of better business—would of course give new glamour to the market. There are possibilities of glamour too from other directions—especially from prospects of public utility and railroad mergers. The initial Van Sweringen merger, for example, may be consummated within the next few months.

MERGERS ECONOMICAL

With mental inflation over, the mere idea of "mergers," however, is nothing to conjure with. The public is taking a more sensible viewpoint. It is recognizing that specific consolidations must justify themselves by economies in operations and improvements of service. If the merger merely involves stock jobbing, it only creates a situation which ultimately has to be corrected.

George B. Elliott, new president of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company, when asked about near term prospects for railroad mergers, told me:

"Mergers of the railroads into 18 or 20 systems will undoubtedly make possible certain economies. Centrilization of control will also bring burdens. The ultimate effect of mergers on the operating ratios of the railroads a as whole is problematical."

Referring to the recent slump in railroad earnings, Mr. Elliott pointed out:

"The drop of approximately 20 per cent in net earnings of representative railroads of the country in the first quarter is principally due to a business recession which I believe is temporary. There are other factors, but they existed prior to the drop in earnings and the extent of the influence is problematical.

"I do not think the present drop can be attributed wholly to the rate structure. The rates set up by the commission have never yielded the 5¾ per cent return upon the value of the property devoted to transportation, which the commission fixed as the measure of a fair return. The difficulty with the rates is the constant and repeated reduction of rates on individual commodities; reductions which, taken singly, do not seem very important, but when taken in the aggregate mean very great reduction in the earning power of the railroads generally. If the repeated and persistent efforts to secure individual reductions on particular commodities could be curtailed, the earning power of the railroads would be more nearly stabilized."

OFFERS CURE

David Friday, the economist, offers a cure for the inferiority complex which has been developing among small business men. He says:

"I think bigness is one of the great illusions. Success depends upon capacity and management. It gives you the flexibility. After all, flexibility is one of the most important things. One of my good friends who has been studying the English situation says that the chief trouble with England, English labor, as far as he can see, is a lack of mobility. A man becomes a coal miner; there he stays. The ability to move labor is one of the great secrets of our own prosperity. That is one thing that worries me about Germany, and it is about the only thing that does. It is the fact that on the side of labor policy they seem to have swallowed down the English rule as the proper one, and in a socialistic governmen, as that is, they must be very careful or they will find themselves handicapped by the same lack of mobility.' The small business concerns get away from an awful lot of that in the matter of management."

Dr. Friday predicts that in a year or so the country will be back to the peak of business activity established last year. He says:

"Some time within 12 months or 15 months we will again get up to the high point we reached last June and we will go on with growing productions and falling prices and growing profits over the next decade."

U. S. Institutions Buying World Bank Shares

NEW YORK, May 20.—The 16,000 shares comprising the American allotment of the capital stock of the Bank for International Settlements are being sold privately to American banks. The American underwriters comprise J. P. Morgan and Company, the First National Bank of New York and the First National Bank of Chicago.

Subscription for the total of 200,000 shares has been guaranteed in equal parts by the National Bank of Belgium, the Bank of England, the Reichsbank, the Industrial Bank of Japan, the Bank of Italy and by the American group. Fifty-six per cent of the amount is to be sold internationally at this time, 6 per cent has been taken by the Central Banks of Holland, Sweden and Switzerland, and 38 per cent, or 76,000 shares, is being reserved for later subscription.

CHICAGO STEEL PRICES CUT

CHICAGO, May 20.—Steel producers in this district have reduced prices of steel plates and structural shapes $1 a ton to a basis of $1.80 a pound, Chicago, bringing the price structure in line with eastern quotations. Steel bars are unchanged at a minimum of $1.85, Chicago.

This is the fourth reduction of $1 a ton made on plates and shapes and the third reduction on steel bars by Chicago producers since the beginning of the year.

W. & L. E. FIGHTS ACQUISITION

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The Wheeling & Lake Erie Railway has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to dismiss pending conflicting applications of the Wabash, the Pittsburgh and West Virginia and The Nickel Plate Railroads seeking control of the road through majority stock ownership.

As to the Wabash application recently filed, dismissal is asked because of the inter-system interests in the Wheeling as exists because of the ownership by Pennsylvania Company, a Pennsylvania railroad subsidiary, of 49 per cent of the Wabash stock.

The motion charges that the commission's consolidation application rules require elimination of such inter-system interest. This, it was charged, prevents the Wabash from taking independent action in the case.

Do Clothes Make the Man?

Early in the nineteenth century, "Beau" Brummel, a famous English dandy of that period, made the amazing statement that "clothes make the man." Although this remarkable claim may be disputed by the philosopher, it does, perhaps, even in this modern age, contain an element of truth.

Men, it is true, attain success in business in spite of a certain carelessness in their personal appearance. But it can hardly be disputed that a neatly tailored appearance may be an asset in business. Careful grooming is associated with success, and it is a human weakness to like to deal with a successful man.

Many a man's tailor has helped him to success and, by the same token, many a tailor's banker has helped him to success.

To the tailors of Pittsburgh, the Mellon National Bank offers a complete and helpful banking service. The facilities of the bank are always at their disposal for transacting any kind of financial business and they are always welcome as depositors.

European Bank Rates Touch Lowest Point Since Wartime.

Announcement of the reductions voted in the discount rates at the German Reichsbank and at the Bank of Italy was looked upon as more or less completing preparations long under way in the world's leading money centers for the reception of the German annuity loan expected to be placed now in the first week of June. The Berlin rate is now 4½ per cent, that of the Bank of Italy 5½ per cent, with London, Amsterdam and Brussels on a 3 per cent basis and Paris on a 2½ per cent basis. All in all official bank rates at leading European money centers are now down to the lowest range since the outbreak of the war.

Geat Western Sugar common has been slipping rather persistently since the publication of its annual report showing net applicable to the stock slightly under dividend requirements for the period. The stock dipped to new low levels last week under light but persistent selling, presumably inspired by anxiety over the outlook for maintenance of the present dividend rate. The company, ranking as the largest domestic producer of beet sugar, reported net for the fiscal year ended February 28, last, equal to $2.74 a share, as against the present $2.80 dividend rate. After dividends a deficit of $279,783 was shown, as against a surplus of $1,695,700 in the preceding fiscal year. Directors are scheduled to take action on the next dividend a week from Wednesday.

The recent improvement in the prices of wheat, if continued, is expected to remove one of the chief causes for lack of more aggressive activity in International Harvester. The first quarter operations were impressive with estimated business approximately 10 per cent over the preceding year. The company has developed exceptional diversification of its products and markets, thus making for greater stability than the usual run of farm equipment corporations. The steady forward progress is shown in the earnings figures for the three preceding years, each year having bettered the record results attained prior thereto. In 1929 net per share was equal to $7.11, as against $5.58 in 1928 and $4.21 in 1927. It would not surprise many observers to see this stock develop into one of the real bull leaders of the year.

The carrier group as a whole has shown decided firmness in the irregular price tendencies of the past week. A substantial increase in expenditures for maintenance and improvement in the first quarter of this year over that of the like period of 1929, explains in part the sharp decreases in net income which have been reported to date. Expenditures up to April 1 were $973,578,000, as compared with $704,960,000 for the corresponding quarter of last year. It is probable that this item will show an appreciable reduction over the remainder of the year, and with the present wide gap of comparative earnings expected to narrow materially over the next few months, the present talk going the rounds of a bull market in rails in the early fall may be expected to bear fruit.

The stock market is waiting for an indication as to whether definite business improvement will start from the present level or one a little lower in the scale of trade and industrial activity. That is the significance of the extremely dull and narrow trading of the last week or two, following directly upon the severe liquidation which forced the 8,250,000-share market on May 5 and the 4,067,000-share session of Saturday, May 3. Contrasted with last Saturday's turnover of 790,000 shares, this seems like a comparison of one of the small European exchanges with our big and mighty stock exchange.

Strength of Western Maryland in recent market sessions is reported to have developed on the belief that this carrier will make a splendid earnings showing for the current year. For the first four months, the road has done well. In addition, there is the speculative feature because of the prospect of consolidation developments. Baltimore and Ohio has been ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission to divest itself of control of the road. The carrier has been assigned to the Wabash-Seaboard Air Line in the general consolidation plan. It would be no surprise to the street to discover that Wabash was buying Western Maryland at current levels, which are considerably below the price paid for the common stock of the carrier by Baltimore and Ohio.

Building Activities Gain in N. Y. Area

NEW YORK, May 20.—New awards for building and engineering projects in metropolitan area of New York during week ended May 16 were larger, with but two exceptions, than in any week since first of year, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. Week's total amounted to $31,173,700. Contracts let thus far in May were at rate of $4,530,000 per business day, against $3,788,000 for May, 1929.

Company Abandons Liquidation Plans

NEW YORK, May 20.—Plans for liquidation of the National American Company, holding and management concern controlling several title and mortgage companies in and near New York, have been abandoned because of the recent improvement in the outlook for real estate, John A. Dilliard, vice president, has informed the stockholders.

Aluminum Co. Finishes Laboratory

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE FUTURE DEVELOPMENT of aluminum will be aided by one of the most complete research laboratories ever constructed. The new laboratory at New Kensington was opened today with an inspection tour by newspapermen and the editors of more than 30 leading technical publications.

In no industry has research yielded more outstanding results than in aluminum. The material has been developed from a rare element to a product which is playing a vital part in world progress.

The completion of the new laboratory, occupying a large building, indicates that officials of the company believe that they have only started to learn about the possibilities of aluminum and of its applications to industry.

Metal 44 Years Old

THE NEW LABORATORY, with its sweeping view of the Allegheny River and the nearby foothills of the Allegheny Mountains and its 14 acres of landscaped lawns, offers a sharp contrast to the woodshed in Oberlin, O., where the commercial process for making aluminum was discovered 44 years ago.

The initial discovery, the first link in a chain of research which is still far from completion, was made single handed by Charles M. Hall. At the new laboratory under the supervision of Dr. F. C. Frary, director, and J. D. Edwards and H. E. Bakken, assistant directors, more than 120 highly trained scientists, aided by a large clerical staff, will devote their time to investigation and experimental work.

Aluminum Used

ALUMINUM HAS BEEN USED wherever possible in the new building. The metal has been employed for both practical and artistic purposes. At the main entrance are aluminum doors with cast aluminum grille work, framed by aluminum castings in blue, green, white and red. Surmounting the building is a decorative aluminum cornice. In the lobby, aluminum strips in the floor harmonize in design with aluminum wall fixtures, chandeliers, radiator grille work and elevator doors executed in hand-hammered aluminum sheets.

Throughout the remainder of the building aluminum is in evidence. The stairways have aluminum balustrades, newel posts and treads, while the substructure is finished with aluminum paint. Office radiators are covered with ornamental aluminum casing and window frames are of heat-treated aluminum alloy.

Metal Furniture

ALL THE FURNITURE is also made of aluminum. The water system, as well as the storage and distribution equipment for distilled water for experimental purposes, are made of aluminum.

The equipment will make possible every type of experiment. A rolling mill and instruments for the most accurate determinations in both chemical and physical work have been secured.

Electric furnaces have been installed which are designed to maintain constant temperatures for periods of several months. For exceptionally high temperatures a high-frequency furnace which can produce temperatures up to 5,400 degrees Fahrenheit can be used.

The laboratory even has facilities for producing artifical sunshine, summer heat, winter cold and rain for the divison of paints and finishes.

WALL STREET HEARS

That if the long-rumored $4 annual dividend rate for Missouri-Kansas-Texas is announced at the directors' meeting tomorrow, many traders who have purchased the stock at lower levels will be inclined to accept the action as a signal to take profits.

That Warren Foundry is planning to sell unprofitable units and distribute the proceeds to stockholders.

That many traders regard the present stock market as too dull to give any definite indications of its fundamental trend.

That owing to comparatively low inventories of manufactured goods, the seasonal summer recession in industrial activity will be moderate.

Commodity Prices Decrease Slightly

The Labor Department's index number of wholesale commodity prices stands at 90.7 for April, compared with 90.8 for March, a decrease of one-tenth of 1 per cent. Compared with April, 1929, the index has declined about 6.3 per cent. The farms products group gained 1 per cent in average prices over March. Foods were about ¾ of 1 per cent above the March level. Practically all other groups recorded decreases. Of the 550 commodities included in the compilation increases were shown by 103, decreases by 171, and in 276 instances no change was reported.

Receiver Sought For Shoe Company

CHICAGO, May 20.—Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, has filed suit for appointment of a receiver for Hamilton Brown Shoe Company, alleging it holds claims for $360,000 and that other claims total more than $3,000,000.

The petition says the company is believed to be solvent, but that creditors are threatening to sue for collection, which, it is alleged, would cause loss to creditors and stockholders through forced sale.

N. Y. Bank Readjusts Bill Buying Rate

NEW YORK, May 20.—New York Federal Reserve Bank has made a readjustment rate in its buying rates for bills extending the 2½ per cent rate to cover short bills up to 90 days. Previously that rate had only covered shorter maturities.

Employment Gains In Detroit Plants

DETROIT, May 20.—The employment index compiled by the Board of Commerce, covering two-thirds of the industrial plants in the metropolitan area, was 111.5 on May 15, compared with 110.5 on May 1, and 137.0 on May 15, 1929. Index stood at 109 on April 15, this year, and 98 on December 1, 1929.

YEAR'S COTTON CROP LARGER

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Cotton production in 1929 was placed at 14,828,000 bales or 500 pounds gross weight by the department of agriculture today in its revised estimates of the crop. This compares with an estimate of 14,919,000 bales made in December last year and the census bureau's final ginning figures of 14,821,499 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, made March 20 this year. The 1928 crop was 14,477,874 bales.

The area in cultivation July 1, last year was 47,067,000 acres, compared with an estimate of 47,569,000 acres made on August 1, and the area picked was 45,793,000 acres compared with an estimate of 45,981,000 acres made in December.

The yield of lint cotton picked per acre was placed at 155.0 pounds, compared with 155.3 pounds, estimated in December, and with 152.9 pounds, the final yield of the 1928 crop.

Offers Exchange to Alliance Holders

NEW YORK, May 20.—Commercial Credit Company has extended to Credit Alliance Corporation stockholders the offer to exchange one-third of a share of its common stock for each share of Credit Alliance common or class "A," and additional fractional shares when the assets of the latter company are realized or are realizable in excess of the amount provided in the agreement.

Higher Priced Car Sales on Increase

One of the most important developments that has taken place in the automotive industry since the first of the year has been a sudden and somewhat unexpected increase in sales of high-priced automobiles, according to B. H. Cram, president of Cram's Automotive Reports, Inc. He further states that less than a month ago high-priced cars were the most inactive of the three priced groups.

Liverpool Cotton Exchange Holidays

LIVERPOOL, May 20.—The cotton exchange will be closed June 7, 9, 13 and 14, Whitsuntide holidays.

Cosmetic Firms Arrange Plans For Merger

NEW YORK, May 20.—A consolidation of Louis Philippe, Inc., Neet, Inc., and Hopper-Kissproof, Inc., manufacturers of cosmetics, has been arranged, subject to the approval of stockholders, it was announced today. The new company will be known as Superior Products, Inc., and will have outstanding 382,000 no-par shares, of an authorized capital of 1,000,000 shares.

COPPER MARKET IS STEADY

NEW YORK, May 20.—Buying of copper in the foreign market on the first call today continued in good volume, although the total was well below the early sales that have been obtaining for the past week or more. So far this morning it is estimated that about 6,000,000 pounds of copper have been engaged for shipment abroad at 13.30 cents a pound, c. i. f., European ports. Total foreign sales, including this forenoon, so far in May, come to 192,000,000 pounds.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The American Bureau of Metal Statistics estimates consumption of copper in the first quarter by the three important copper requiring industries of the United States at 8,000 tons, compared with 104,500 tons last year and 88,000 tons in the 1928 quarter.

Germany Denies Gas Shipments to China

BERLIN, May 20.—(AP.)—A statement was published here from the Chinese North Coalition that French authorities of Indo-China have intercepted a consignment of poison gas to the Nanking government which, it was intimated, came from Germany.

The German foreign office contradicted the report, declaring it anti-German propaganda and pointing out that the Treaty of Versailles prohibits the manufacture or export of poison gas from Germany, while there is no such interdiction for other countries.

SHELL AFTER PARAGON

NEW YORK, May 20.—Shell Oil interests are reported authoritatively to be negotiating for the Paragon Refining Company of Michigan. The negotiations, it is said, have reached an advanced stage.

The Paragon concern, in addition to substantial refining operations, has 500 retail units, 700 tank cars and a network of pipelines. It recently acquired the Valvoline Oil Company.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving remembrance of Fred Kaltenbach, who departed this earthly life one year ago today, May 20, 1929.

No one knows the heartaches
Only those who have lost can tell,
Of the grief that is borne in silence,
For the one we have loved so well.
Friends may think we forget him,
When they see us smile,
But little do they know the sorrow,
Which the smile hides all the while.

Sadly missed by Father, Mother, Sisters, Brother and his family.

IN LOVING MEMORY of my beloved husband, John Dempsey, who died one year ago today. Sad and sudden was the call of one whom I loved best of all. He bade none a last farewell, he said goodbye to none. The heavenly gates had opened, a gentle voice said, Come, and with farewell unspoken, he entered his heavenly home. But God alone has helped me to bear the heavy cross. Sadly missed by his wife, Catharine Dempsey.

A SOLID YEAR OF ADVERTISING GAINS!

For the twelfth consecutive month the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph showed a substantial gain in total advertising linage. In April alone the gain was

244,747* Lines

The accumulated gain over the twelve-month period totals

2,553,075 Lines

For the first four months of 1930 the Sun-Telegraph was the only Pittsburgh newspaper to show a gain. During this period the Sun-Telegraph gained

1,230,781 Lines

For the fourth consecutive month the other Evening and Sunday paper has shown losses. In April the loss was

36,819* Lines

For the first four months of 1930 the accumulated total of losses for the other Evening and Sunday paper is

1,443,355 Lines

The inevitable conclusion, shared by the majority of Pittsburgh's successful advertisers, is that the "Trend Is Unmistakably to the Sun-Telegraph."

All measurements by Media Records, Inc., and excluding, for the Sun-Telegraph, American Weekly linage; excluding for the other Evening and Sunday paper segregated linage published in "stuffer" section, distributed weekly to a small percentage of its total circulation and paid for at less than regular local rates. This latter linage segregated by Media Records as "Metropolitan Section Linage" for the first time in the April report.*

HOOVER BOARDS FLAGSHIP

ABOARD THE U. S. S. SALT LAKE CITY OFF THE VIRGINIA CAPES, May 20—(INS)—President Hoover took the bridge of the Salt Lake City—first of the 10,000-ton eight-inch-gun cruisers this nation has laid down—and cruised out of Hampton Roads this morning to witness his first review of the fleet as commander-in-chief of the Navy.

Ahead, the bulk of America's fighting ships lay waiting ready to do him honor and demonstrate their effectiveness should they ever be called into battle.

The Navy is staging the greatest demonstration of its history. Even the dirigible Los Angeles was on hand for the maneuvers.

Mr. Hoover and the other official observers reached Old Point Comfort, Va., by special train from Washington and immediately took off for the Salt Lake City in barges. With the President was Secretary of the Navy Adams.

A feature of the day will be the attempt, above the high seas, to dispatch an airplane from one of the aircraft carriers and hook it on the Los Angeles, the plane later detaching itself and returning to its floating base.

Fifty-five of the fighting sea craft will pass the Salt Lake City, each firing a 21-gun salute to the President, while the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner" roll continuously from the passing armada.

ELECTION RUM TAKEN; 11 HELD

Election day revelry was cut short, 2,000 gallons of liquor and mash were seized, three stills and brewing equipment confiscated and 11 arrests made early today when prohibition agents raided 11 places in Braddock, Homestead, Rankin, Swissvale, South Side, North Side and East End and captured a beer-laden truck on Lincoln highway, near Wilkinsburg.

Seizures included 946 gallons of beer, 88 of moonshine, 60 of ale, 900 of mash and six quarts of gin. One of the prisoners held today at Central Police Station is only 18.

Two men captured with the beer truck said they were Lloyd Lydiard, 26, and Joseph McCarrol, 25.

The other arrests were John J. Harrington, at 316 Braddock avenue, Braddock; Paul Kraysik, 16, in a shed on a Frazier Township farm; Andy Rogan, 59, at rear 505 Dixon street, Homestead; Steve Pavic, 37, at 317 Fourth street, Rankin; John Thomas, 25, at wildcat brewery, 1206 Carson street, South Side; Frank Bennett, 23, at 2716 Sarah street, South Side; P. H. Harvey, 58, at club, 1217 Pennsylvania avenue, North Side; M. H. Flanigan, at club, 111 Maurice street, and William Manns, 37, at club, 6117 Penn avenue.

NO. 215.
AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto the authorities of Allegheny County, the right to construct, maintain and use a tunnel under and across Fourth avenue at a point distant 73.00 feet eastwardly from the easterly property line of Ross street, First Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa., for the purpose of the transmission of power, etc., between the Allegheny County Office building on the north side of Fourth avenue and the Allegheny County Morgue building on the southerly side of Fourth avenue.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the authorities of Allegheny County are hereby given the right and authority to construct, maintain and use a tunnel under and across Fourth avenue at a point distant 73.00 feet eastwardly from the easterly property line of Ross street, First Ward, City of Pittsburgh.

The tunnel shall be used for the purpose of installation of steam heat and return pipes, electrical conduits, telephone lines, water lines, etc., between the Allegheny County Office building on the north side of Fourth avenue and the Allegheny County Morgue building on the south side of Fourth avenue.

The foregoing tunnel shall be laid in the location and in full conformance with the plans on file in the Division of Public Utilities, Bureau of Highways and Sewers, Department of Public Works and identified as Accession No. B-382, Folder "B", said plan being entitled, "Plan of proposed tunnel under and across Fourth Avenue, east of Ross street for the authorities of Allegheny County."

SECTION 2. The construction, maintenance and use of the said tunnel shall be at all times at the sole expense of Allegheny County, subject to the approval of the Director of the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 3. The rights and privileges herein granted shall be subject and subordinate to the rights of the City of Pittsburgh and its powers over City streets and to the ordinances of the said City relating thereto and to the provisions of any general ordinance which may hereafter be passed relating to the [illegible]struction, operation and maintenance [illegible] overhead and underground structures [illegible] City streets and compensation for same.

SECTION 4. The said grantees shall be liable for all damages to persons or property, including the street and sub-surface structures therein, by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of the said tunnel.

SECTION 5. The said grantees shall, at their cost and expense, repair and replace all street pavement, sidewalk, surface and sub-surface structures, which are in any way damaged or disturbed in the construction, maintenance and use of the said tunnel, all of which work shall be subject to the approval and supervision of the Director of the Department of Public Works of the said city.

SECTION 6. DAILY TRUE STORY

Romeo Stuff

"In the first place, he has a crooning voice!"

Great-Aunt Lavina half frowned and shook her head as she spoke.

Little Miss Delmar, who was named for her great aunt, but compromised by calling herself Vina, smiled patiently.

"That's an asset," she said demurely. "A husband with a crooning voice could put the babies to sleep while I slept."

"Babies!"

Great-Aunt Lavina's face flamed as she spoke. "I don't know what the world is coming to with mere girls talking about babies. When I was a girl such subjects were taboo except among married women."

"This is an era of fewer and better babies, auntie, and such things are to be discussed calmly and logically in the open, not with smirks and titters back stairs."

Miss Lavina Delmar shook her head again. Through all of her prim and colorless sixty years the mere mention of biological facts had brought color to her cheeks.

"But to think of babies in connection with a man to whom you are not even engaged, Vina! It sounds almost disgraceful."

"Thoughts do not sound, auntie. Now be a dear, don't object to every blessed young man I meet—"

"As if any man were blessed! Look here, Vina, what do you know about this Oliver Holden?"

"He's gentlemanly, jolly, prosperous and I like him."

"But his background?"

"Oh, that's all regular. His parents are married and all that. I've met them. They're nice people."

"But a young man who twiddles his fingers over a Hawaiian guitar and sings love songs doesn't seem to me to be much of a catch. Of course I expect you'll be silly enough to marry some day, but do select someone who doesn't go around crooning sentimental bosh—Romeo stuff, I call it."

Fond of Vina

"A little Romeo stuff is all right if—"

Vina hesitated. She had almost said that if her great-aunt had had a little more Romeo stuff in her youth she might not have become so prim and severe.

"If it doesn't go too far!"

Lavina spoke the words solemnly. Vina laughed lightly.

Lavina Delmar was extremely fond of Vina. She had kept the girl in her home since she was orphaned at 12, handled the girl's sufficient income judiciously and loved her in her own prim way, for she had been one of those unfortunate women who had never known much of love.

Vina had known Oliver Holden nearly a year. But it was only a few months ago that she discovered she had fallen in love with him.

Oliver was annoyed because Vina's great-aunt regarded him with disfavor, but he was not dismayed. And the fact that Lavina regarded with disfavor all young men who might marry Vina made the situation fairly clear to him.

Vina hopped into her little runabout and drove to the country club. Lavina secretly believed that it was too unmaidenly and too mannish for women to drive cars, but that was a minor matter these days, her great effort consisting of convincing Vina that she would be far happier if she never married.

Oliver was at the country club for the Saturday half holiday. He played a twosome with Vina and took her further out in the country for tea.

"Come over for dinner," Vina invited.

"I'd love to, but will that Lavina person put poison in my coffee?"

Vina shook her head.

"What do you think her chief objection is to you?"

"My desire and my intention to make you Mrs. Oliver Holden," he answered promptly.

"You croon! You sing crooning songs with a crooning voice!"

"Horrors! She has found out my worst vice!"

"I told her a crooning voice in a husband was a valuable asset—he could put the babies to sleep!"

Weighty Problem

"Did she swoon?"

"No, but she blushed and intimated that it was immodest in a girl to think of babies."

"She's been good to you and I'm for her always, regardless of the hideous monster she thinks me to be."

"And she says I'll be happier if I remain single."

"The answer to that is applesauce, horse feathers and hay wire. Also, the two of us will be unhappier than we have any right to be unless we run along and get married. I'm going to Megalon Lake district in Canada in July to manage some canal construction work for our company—it's wonderful up there in July, Vina."

Vina stared at him and sighed.

"Can't do it, Oliver. Great-aunt would be heartbroken. Trouble is, I'm not twenty-one. She's my legal guardian."

"But you are over eighteen, you may marry without her consent."

"And make her think I'm ungrateful and cause her a lot of sorrow. You see, Oliver, her heart it set on keeping me single and she'll make quite a lot of fuss if I marry. She's a dear, but stubborn."

"Every problem has a solution, Vina. We will think this over for a while. But I want to take you up to Canada with me—we'll see how the Lavina person feels tonight."

"Don't croon—tell her about your work and hope for the best," Vina advised.

"See you at dinner," Vina called out to him as she turned into the drive.

"We were playing golf," Vina remarked as she came through from the garage.

"Seems to me he has a lot of time for playing, Vina."

"Saturday half holiday, auntie. I asked him to dinner."

"Will he stay over for the week-end?"

Vina laughed at this and kissed her aunt.

"He's going away soon—up into Canada to build some waterways."

"Is he?" Lavina brightened up at this. She was a strong believer in "out of sight, out of mind," and then she sighed again—there would always be other young men after Vina.

Oliver drove up for dinner. Lavina greeted him pleasantly enough.

At dinner Lavina said, "Vina tells me you are going up into Canada very soon to build things, Mr. Holden."

Tells of First Job

"Yes, Miss Delmar, and I hope to take—"

Vina kicked him in the leg. She sensed that he was going to say that he wanted very much to take her along with him, and this was no time for making a plea.

"I hope to take only two months with the work. We are cutting a canal between two lakes and there is considerable masonry to be done."

"I always thought that it must be nice to do big things like that—work that will last, Mr. Holden."

So he told her about some of his work and especially about his first job after he left Tech. It was in Hawaii.

"So that's how you come to strum that funny guitar with the whine in it?"

It was long after dinner that a telephone call took Vina to the library. Lavina grasped the opportunity.

"Look here, Mr. Holden, I've nothing against you, you know, but I think you ought to know that you are wasting your time with Vina—she is not the sort of girl who is going to marry," she said, speaking quickly and rather grimly.

"Well—now I don't exactly know what to say to that, Miss Delmar," Oliver answered, "but of course, if Vina tells me that there is no hope—that she never intends to marry—"

"Marry whom?"

Vina had come into the room.

"We mentioned marriage in a—a sort of abstract way," Lavina spoke up hastily.

"A tentative discussion," Oliver added.

When Oliver and Vina were alone later Oliver told her what had been said.

"I've got an idea—I'll come around under your window nights and play and croon—I'll do the Romeo stuff until the dear old Lavina person will be glad to let you marry me just to get rid of me."

Vina thought he was joking.

But he wasn't. A few nights later Oliver was twanging the guitar and crooning a moaning love song under a window.

Lavina, almost asleep, awakened and went to the window.

Continues to Serenade

"For goodness sake, do go away—don't be absurd," she begged.

"I am trying to serenade Vina," he answered, softly.

The window slammed down.

The next night he came again.

"If," came the coldly crisp voice of Lavina, "a man couldn't find anything better to do than that awful Romeo stuff beneath my window, I would be disgusted with him."

The window slammed again. Oliver departed, grinning.

The third night he came and crept into the garden carefully. She might have some sort of a trap set for him.

Her window was open. He got ready to play and sing when he saw a moving black shadow on the bay window. It was a man, just about to climb into the open window.

Oliver put down the guitar, climbed up the trellis and got to the little roof just as a scream came from Lavina's room.

Oliver slipped through the window and grappled with the man. Vina ran into the room and switched on the lights.

That enabled Oliver to sock the porch-climber for the count. Lavina tried to telephone the police, but the line was dead.

"It's a good thing I was doing my Romeo stuff tonight," Oliver said. "This crook evidently cut your telephone wires."

"Vina, put something on!" screamed great-aunt.

"Don't bother, Vina—we're going to be married tomorrow, anyway." Oliver smiled at her.

"No!" Great-Aunt Lavina said.

"No?" Dear, dear, that means weeks and months and perhaps years of my Romeo stuff here every night under your window," Oliver murmured.

"Go ahead and marry her, only don't go crooning around," Lavina said, with a sigh.

"Only to the babies," Vina murmured.

Oliver disarmed the porch-climber, revived him and took him downstairs.

"Good play-acting," he said, handing him some money. "Much obliged for helping me out."

The "porch-climber" departed.

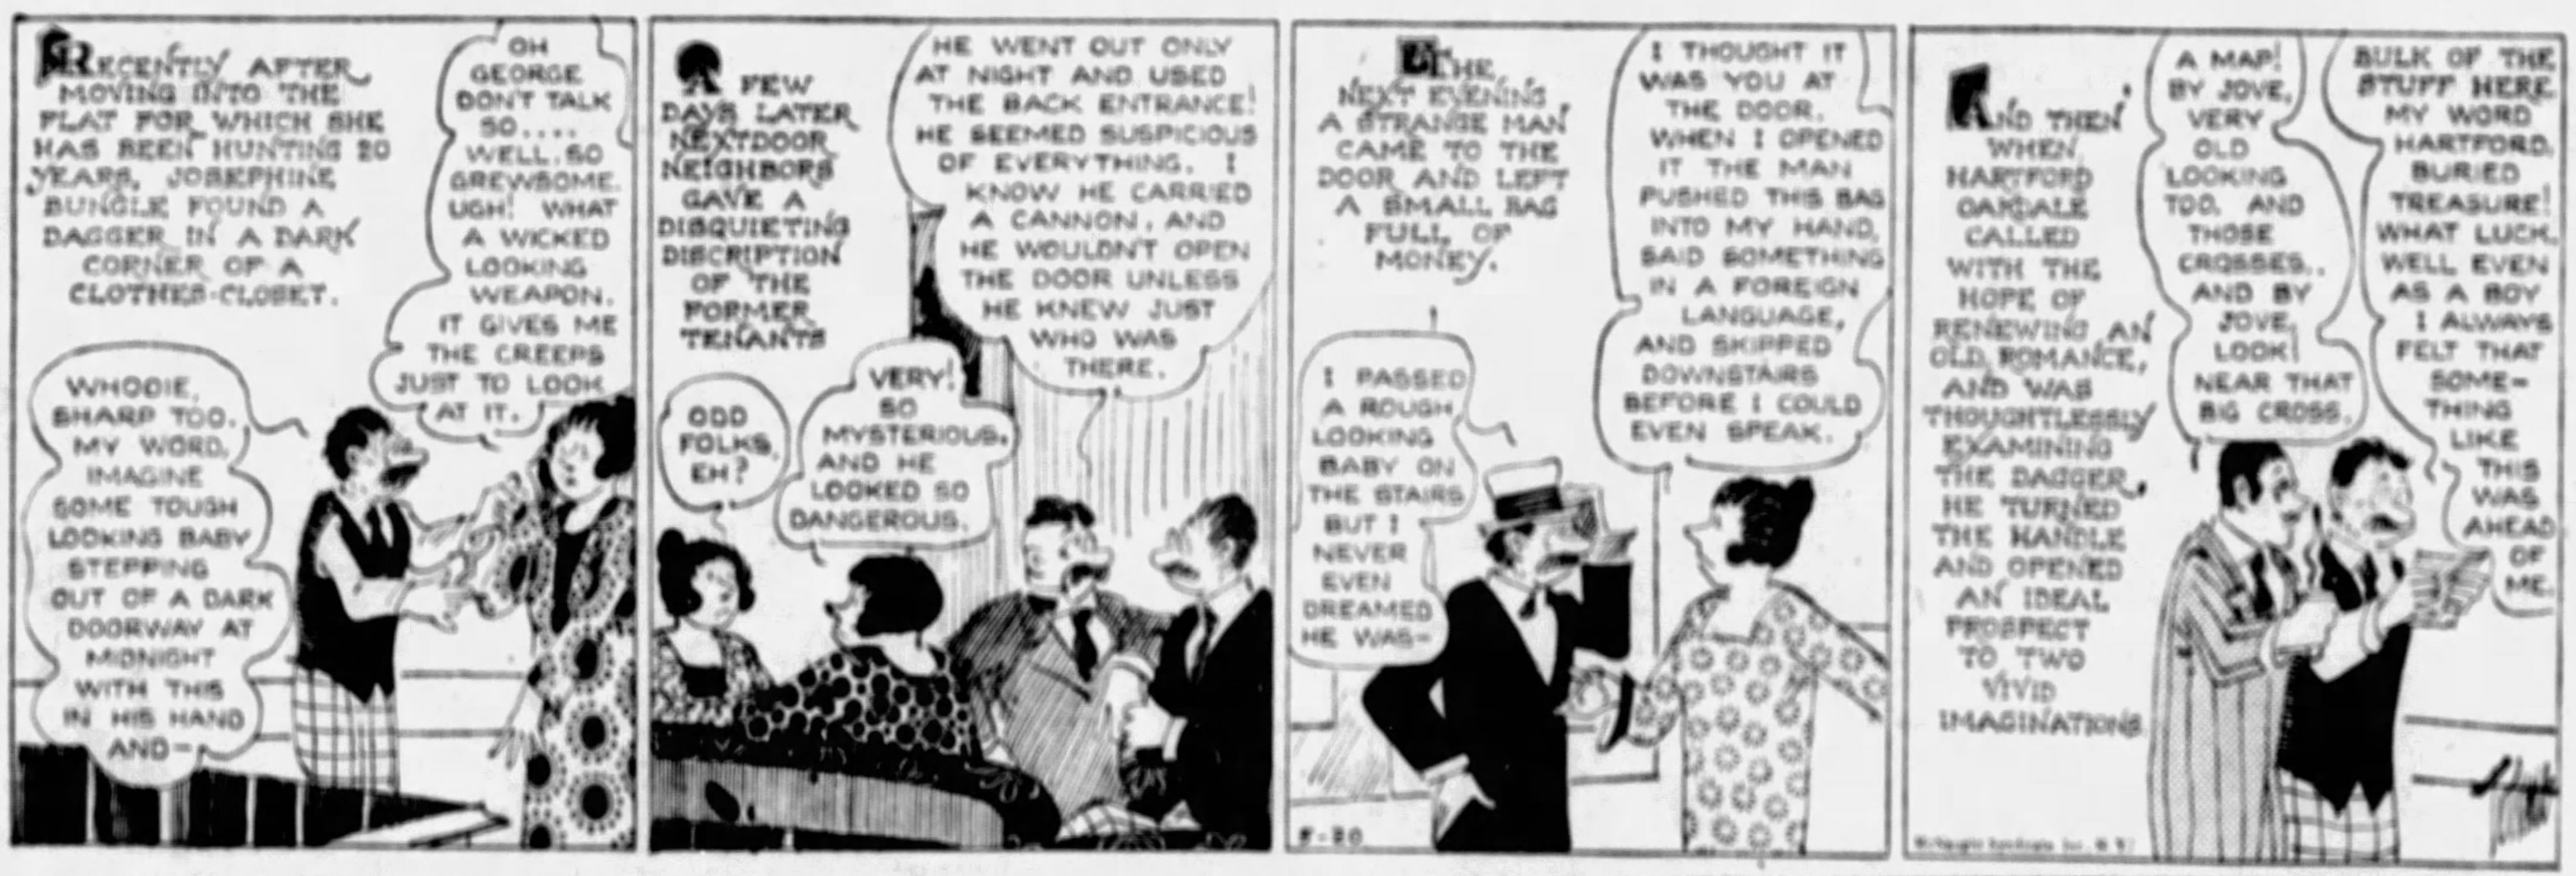
Excitement



RECENTLY AFTER MOVING INTO THE FLAT FOR WHICH SHE HAS BEEN HUNTING 20 YEARS, JOSEPHINE BUNGLE FOUND A DAGGER IN A DARK CORNER OF A CLOTHES-CLOSET.
OH GEORGE DON'T TALK SO.... WELL, SO GREWSOME. UGH! WHAT A WICKED LOOKING WEAPON. IT GIVES ME THE CREEPS JUST TO LOOK AT IT.
WHOOIE, SHARP TOO. MY WORD, IMAGINE SOME TOUGH LOOKING BABY STEPPING OUT OF A DARK DOORWAY AT MIDNIGHT WITH THIS IN HIS HAND AND—
A FEW DAYS LATER NEXTDOOR NEIGHBORS GAVE A DISQUIETING DISCRIPTION OF THE FORMER TENANTS
HE WENT OUT ONLY AT NIGHT AND USED THE BACK ENTRANCE! HE SEEMED SUSPICIOUS OF EVERYTHING. I KNOW HE CARRIED A CANNON, AND HE WOULDN'T OPEN THE DOOR UNLESS HE KNEW JUST WHO WAS THERE.
ODD FOLKS, EH?
VERY! SO MYSTERIOUS, AND HE LOOKED SO DANGEROUS.
THE NEXT EVENING A STRANGE MAN CAME TO THE DOOR AND LEFT A SMALL BAG FULL OF MONEY.
I THOUGHT IT WAS YOU AT THE DOOR. WHEN I OPENED IT THE MAN PUSHED THIS BAG INTO MY HAND, SAID SOMETHING IN A FOREIGN LANGUAGE, AND SKIPPED DOWNSTAIRS BEFORE I COULD EVEN SPEAK.
I PASSED A ROUGH LOOKING BABY ON THE STAIRS BUT I NEVER EVEN DREAMED HE WAS—

TINY TOT FIRST TO WIN PRAISE IN POETRY TRY-OUTS

It seems only yesterday (in fact it was only yesterday) that this department called upon the mothers and fathers of America to send to us the poetry written by their little ones. So it is with a feeling of gratification and pride that we report to the committee of the whole. The very first envelope was opened with trembling shears, while the news cameras clicked. So today, friends, we print the very first of these historic efforts by the little ones—the children, on whose shoulders rests the responsibility of making this world a bigger, better place in which to live. Our Guest Poet, therefore, is little Abe Geiselwit, 444½ Bottocelli boulevard, aged 8, who dashed off the following—

The Curfew tolls the knell of parting day,
The lowing herd winds slowly o'er the lea,
The ploughman homeward plods his weary way
And leaves the world to darkness and to me.

Pretty, good, don't you think, for a tiny tot? Come again, Master Abie Geiseluit.

Be Sure to Vote Today

The Polls Will Close at 8 P. M.

Pennsylvanians are choosing today party nominees for offices possessed of great power. The welfare of the state depends on the choice made.

Even the national welfare will be affected, since we are choosing a United States senator and representatives in Congress as well as a governor and numerous other state officers.

Do not fail to cast your ballot. The polls will close at 8 o'clock this evening, daylight saving time.

If you neglect to vote, and the outcome of the election should be unsatisfactory, you will have no right to complain.

Naval Experts Agree That Treaty Is Unjust to Us

It is the opinion of THE GENERAL BOARD OF THE UNITED STATES NAVY that the London naval treaty is "UNJUST TO THE UNITED STATES."

This is the UNCONDITIONAL and UNANIMOUS verdict of the board, arrived at after the most careful examination of the treaty.

It represents also THE CONSENSUS OF OPINION OF THE NAVY, as Admiral Mark L. Bristol, president of the board, emphatically testified when he appeared as a witness before the great committee of the Senate whose members are now sitting as judges of the treaty.

The General Board, which constitutes THE HIGHEST AMERICAN NAVAL AUTHORITY, finds against the London treaty upon the following grounds:

First: Negotiation of such a treaty at this time was not necessary.

Second: Ratification of this treaty will not develop an international feeling of good will and mutual respect generally, or even between the five signatory powers.

Third: The treaty provides neither for real limitation nor substantial reduction of naval armaments.

Fourth: Its ratification will not substantially reduce the cost to the American people of that Navy second to none which it is the established policy of the United States to provide and maintain.

Fifth: By the terms of the treaty the United States Navy does not achieve parity with the British Navy and abandons the 5-3 ratio with Japan.

Sixth: The treaty is wrong in principle because it surrenders the sovereign right of the United States to define the number of types of ships required for its fleet in any category—a right which has been consistently maintained at every naval conference until it was abandoned at London.

Seventh: The treaty jeopardizes the future defense of the United States afloat because it establishes evil precedents "WHICH MIGHT READILY EMBARRASS US IN FUTURE NEGOTIATIONS."

These are the well-considered views, the deliberate and unanimous conclusions, as Admiral Bristol respectfully reminded the Committee on Foreign Relations, "OF THE BEST EXPERTS WE HAVE" in the United States Navy.

The verdict of the General Board, reinforced by the testimony of Admiral Hilary P. Jones, shows conclusively that THOSE AMERICAN PRINCIPLES WHICH THE ADMINISTRATION OF CALVIN COOLIDGE VIGOROUSLY DEFENDED AT GENEVA WERE SUPINELY SURRENDERED AT LONDON BY THE ADMINISTRATION OF HERBERT HOOVER.

In the light of this indictment and in the wake of this surrender, the rejection of the London naval treaty by the United States Senate ought to follow as surely as the night the day.

And the Senate will reject the treaty if the American people can muster in that citadel of their liberties 33 defenders who, having been elected independent representatives of the several states, appreciate the honor and obligation of their high office and refuse to become the puppets of any president.

Dirty Dishes

A Sign of Efficiency.

The lazy housewife who lets dishes pile up for two or three days and then washes them all in one fell sweep need not apologize any more. On the contrary, she should be proud of herself. For it is announced by the University of Chicago that she is far more efficient than the busy, bustling woman who cleans up after every meal.

The university says:

"Tests conducted in the domestic science department prove that it is much more efficient to let the dirty dishes pile up in the sink until there is a good big stack before they are tackled with soap and water."

That's revolutionary enough, but Mary Heiner and N. M. Verner, two of the university investigators, add:

"Dishes don't need to be wiped and polished. Just let 'em stand and the air will do a much better job than a grouchy husband with an apron about his middle."

Women, naturally conservative, may disagree. Men will herald that statement as the dawning of a new era. For generations they have known it was true, but they have lacked scientific backing.

250,000 Pounds of Opium

The U. S. Will Get a Share.

On April 27 a ship under the Japanese flag sailed from Bushire, Persia, for Vladivostok, Siberia, with a cargo of a quarter of a million pounds of opium. It is expected that part of this cargo will be landed in China for smoking and the remainder in Manchuria to be made into morphine and cocaine in Japanese factories there, which operate uncontrolled.

That is a specimen of the earnest way in which nations which profit by the opium traffic are "combating" it. It was mentioned casually by Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary, at a meeting of the Council of the League of Nations, though Mr. Henderson politely omitted the name of Japan, because Japan is a friendly country.

Part of that cargo, of course, will eventually be smuggled into the United States, after it has been manufactured.

That's good news for American dope dealers, who will make from 200 to 500 per cent profit by retailing it here.

We're Saving Money

If you're still alive it is comforting to know that the cost of living has dropped in the last five years.

And every time it drops it bounces a little higher.

The slump in expenses is not visible to the naked or the monocled eye. If it keeps improving its present lack of speed we will soon be skidding over the hills to attend a meeting of the board of directors of the poor house.

The National Industrial Conference Board has unloaded a goulash of statistics that looks like seaweed floating in an ocean of red ink.

Within the last 15 years the most noticeable leap of the nervous budget has been in the price of food and clothing.

You could get an extra pair of pants with your coat. But no grocer ever gave you an extra egg for your vest.

Now we learn that clothes are much cheaper. We wish they would tell our tailor that. Our tailor plays a bad game of golf anyway. He's always pressing with his irons.

The meal is gradually decreasing in value, especially if it has been left standing for three or four days.

The peak was reached in 1929. And we've been looking peaked ever since.

Rents were at their highest in 1924. They may be lower now but you need a stethoscope to detect the relapse.

Fuel and light followed the dotted line along with the rest of the commercial commodities. They fluctuated like a scared goat running up a hill. Top was reached 10 years ago and the low water mark is still above the roof.

All of this is as important to the wage owner as a guess is to a weather prophet. When a man gets his pay envelope on Saturday he doesn't want it to explode in his face.

Everything would be solved if somebody invented a crosstown transfer that would be good until a street car came along.

Man wants but little here below. But he wants to sell it above the purchase price. There are too many middle-men. The only thing we get direct from producer to consumer is a drink out of a pump or a sunstroke.

If the people are living cheaper then why is it costing the public more?

WAVE MECHANICS

By Archibald Henderson

Flux and eternal change! These words express the characteristic qualities of contemporary physics. A new theory is put forward to account for what goes on inside the atom. After a little while it becomes firmly established. Further investigation, however, shows that the new theory will not do other "stunts" which experiments in the laboratory show that it must do. Then some ingenious physicist comes forward and invents a theory, markedly dissimilar to the former theory, yet which will not only do all the former theory did but also fulfill the new experimental requirements.

This is what has recently happened in the study of the atom. Niels Bohr advanced a plausible theory of the atom, likening it to a miniature solar system. This theory caught the popular fancy and was elaborately described in numerous popular magazines and newspapers. It was attractive, ingenious and easily understood—which features account for its large popularity.

Unfortunately, Bohr had to make a number of assumptions, hypotheses especially made up to fit the case. The electron moves around inside the atom in orbits, which are sometimes circular but are also elliptical in shape. These various orbits were spoken of as being at different "energy levels." An electron was presumed to jump from one of these orbits to another as the result of some external influence. When it jumped from an orbit of high energy to one of lower energy it would radiate outside the difference of energy in the form of light.

A new hypothesis, within recent years has been advanced by Louis de Broglie, who has just been awarded the Nobel Prize for his brilliant work in physics. This new theory rests on Einstein's theory regarding the relation between the mass of a body and the energy which it possesses.

Einstein maintains that a mass of m grams, say, is equivalent to an energy represented by m multiplied by the square of the velocity of light. This conclusion is truly astounding in its consequences. As Hagenow says: Suppose someone in King Tut-ankh-Amen's day had started an engine with just one ounce of "fuel" that could be gradually converted into mechanical energy at a rate to keep the engine running without a stop with an output of 30 horsepower. The engine would be going yet, with some 300 years to run before this ounce of matter would be entirely consumed.

De Broglie combined the Einstein energy theory with the famous quantum theory regarding the connection between a period of an atom and the frequency of its vibration. The result of De Broglie's assumption led to a most interesting state of affairs. It turned out that every mass-particle was accompanied by a retinue of waves. Some of these waves pressed on ahead as a sort of undulatory advance guard, while others lagged behind as rear guard. The mean of the speed of the faster and slower waves, however, gave a specific velocity—namely, the velocity of light.

The extraordinary interest of the new theory is that it explains in a more or less natural way the arbitrary assumptions of the Bohr theory, which gave rise to the unit orbital numbers. Unfortunately, new difficulties were later encountered, which have not yet been overcome. But the new theory of De Broglie has brought about a remarkable state of affairs which constitutes one of the paradoxes of physics today.

An atom may be thought of as consisting of either particles or waves.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Marconi talked to New York from Rome, the other day. Clearly and casually, he and Madame Marconi chatted over 4,400 miles. So near were they in spirit as well as wave length, that Madame Marconi told her friends of the coming baby.

Four thousand four hundred miles of space annihilated! But if you were born since the war that doesn't seem very exciting. You're used to miracles. If you had been young in 1905, or thereabouts, Senator Marconi's feat would make shivers run up your shins and down your memory. Life was incomparably different then. It was full of walls. Walls more solid than any ever built of stone or steel. Walls of time—and space.

Time and space—they belonged to the eternal mysteries. Like birth and death—they belonged to God. Man might accomplish many things—but he couldn't tamper with time and space any more than he could tamper with birth and death. It would be almost impious to try. And so time and space hedged men around with impenetrable walls. Cut people off from each other. Made men feel tiny and impotent—made them feel that there were things they couldn't lick.

I was a bride in Vermont in 1903. I had come from California and I was insanely homesick as Californians always are when taken from their place. I used to go up on a hill behind my home and look out toward the West. I used to think: "Mother and Dad are out there. If I could hear their voices everything would be all right. I wouldn't mind this strange, new life so much. If I could hear their voices—IF I COULD HEAR THEIR VOICES—" Over and over I would say it, standing there alone on the hill. At first I would say it in a little lonely whisper. But sometimes I would scream, for the hopelessness of it was so terrible. IT WAS LIKE TALKING INTO A GRAVE. IT WAS AS FUTILE, THEN, FOR ME TO WANT TO TALK TO CALIFORNIA AS FOR ME TO WANT TO TALK TO THE DEAD. No voice could possibly come back.

We were shut in like that, in 1903. And, because of it, something very sad and unhealthy happened in human life. Those vital currents which swing between human hearts—the currents of love and enthusiasm and mutual helpfulness and inspiration—were cut off. Days and weeks must intervene between the time YOU felt a splendid impulse and the time the OTHER PERSON heard about it. And even then it carried no warm personal vibration. So life held great arid gaps of loneliness and discouragement. YOU MOVED ABOUT AT ALL, LIFE BECAME A SUCCESSION OF LITTLE DEATHS. All men lived within the imprisonment of those grim, gray walls of time and space.

BUT LITTLE BY LITTLE THE WALLS ARE COMING DOWN!

The things men thought they couldn't lick, are being licked. Four thousand four hundred miles are no longer 4,400 miles. They are only AN IDEA now—idea which no longer means what it meant 20, or even 10 years ago. And that idea can be overcome in an instant by the use of a little box. Time is vanishing—space is disappearing—they are both being erased from our consciousness.

But, of course, "the little box" isn't really performing the miracle. MAN'S MIND HAS PERFORMED IT. Man can do whatever he THINKS he can do. Men once THOUGHT they couldn't abolish time and space. And so time and space stood. Solid and invincible, as firmly as though it had been a riveted chain. Then man changed his mind. He decided that he COULD lick time and space. AND NOW THE WALLS ARE FALLING!

Perhaps some day that last great wall called Death will crumble just as surely—WHEN MEN THINK THAT WAY!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Two Hands

Two hands are yours, what can you do
With all the world to meet,
How can you see the struggle through,
Face victory or defeat?
What can you do when foes may come
Against you as you stand,
With trumpet's blare and beat of drum,
Proud hosts at their command?

Two hands, bare hands, why this is all
God gives any man;
He who has legions at his call
And banners in his van
Can never taste the pure delight
Or sense the conquest known
To that high victor in the fight
Who wins, and wins alone!

He has two hands, a mind serene,
A heart with hope abrim,
And all that victory can mean
Is known alone to him.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

To the majority of even highly educated people at that period, educated for the most part upon lines of a narrow religious orthodoxy, it brought home for the first time the neglected and repudiated fact of evolution, it made it seem credible.

H. G. Wells

Explanatory theory and fact to be explained appeared together in their minds, and so to this day in common talk, Evolution, Darwinism and Natural Selection are hopelessly mixed and muddled. It became the custom to speak of the Darwinian Theory, the Theory of Natural Selection and the Theory of Evolution indifferently.

Moreover, Darwin and his associates drew attention to the particular aspect of the question of Evolution that had hitherto been in the background.

He followed up his The Origin of Species by a book upon Man's Place in Nature. He insisted that man was an animal and that if the facts of Evolution were true they applied to man.

If other living things had not been specially created, but evolved, so, too, man must have been evolved. To do this was to challenge and bring the whole world of contemporary theology into the discussion. What had been a field of interesting speculation for naturalists became an arena of intense interest to the ordinary man.

The furious controversies that followed. Darwin's publications did much to darken counsel in these matters. The fact of Evolution had to be proved to most people, many were only too eager to suppose that the defeat or qualifications of the theory would abolish the fact.

To many of them to the end of their days it remained a theory, and an unsound one at that. All sorts of secondary considerations have played their part in these disputes.

There is, for example, a real dislike of the fact of Natural Selection on the part of such a fine and sympathetic nature as Mr. G. B. Shaw's. It seems to him unchivalrous and vile for science to recognize that the weakest do go to the wall.

It is hitting the fellow who is down. In the philosophy of a wilful life-force it is natural the wish should be father to the thought. He wishes things were not so, and therefore he declares they are not so, and he does it with great charm, confidence and conviction.

It pleases Mr. Shaw to tell the world at regular intervals that Natural Selection has been "exploded," and it does not hamper the operation of Natural Selection in the very least that he should do this.

But Natural Selection has been no more "exploded" by recent research than the rejection of underweight coins at the Mint has been exploded by the doctrine of relativity. Wherever there are favorable or unfavorable heritable variations Natural Selection must be at work.

Nearly three-quarters of a century have passed since the controversial cataclysms of the mid-Victorian period, and Darwinism has been criticized and tested in every conceivable way.

It cannot be said that it has been destroyed, but it has undergone restatement in certain respects.

The modification of a species by the natural selection of variations is still an undefeated theory. That idea from Darwin's writings lives and flourishes. The remoulding of Darwinism has concerned the part of it which deals with the mechanism of heredity and the intimate nature of variations.

For in Darwin's time hardly anything was definitely known about the inheritance of individual differences. The chromosomes to be presently described had not yet been seen; the essential facts of fertilization were unknown; most important of all experimental breeding had not drawn a clear distinction between variations which are inherited and those which are not.

Since that time accurate knowledge has accumulated on these questions. The microscopic changes in the germ-cells that accompany fertilization were observed; the chromosomes, the bearers of the physical basis of heredity, were discovered, and their complicated but regular movements were traced as they passed from one generation to the next.

Moreover, the study of inheritance was attacked experimentally. Even in Darwin's time the Austrian Abbe Mendel (1822-1884) had experimented on the interbreeding of varieties of plants and had discovered the two most fundamental laws that govern hereditary transmission.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 20.—Arnold Bennett recently observed that the most interesting side of an individual's life in print is encompassed in the trivial things rarely considered worth mentioning. A good idea to elaborate on a dull day. So here goes:

I am frightened stiff when a policeman walks toward me. I never sit in a barber's chair without wondering what would happen if the barber suddenly let out a scream and went mad. I take two baths a day—a cold plunge in the morning and a warm tub at night and blush when caught in a fib.

I like to see romantic plays and picture myself in the leading role. And when I hear a band conjure up a picture of myself as a hero speaking from the platform of a train in my home town. Yet I have refused radio offers because I am the world's worst speaker. I love to sulk.

The only two vegetables I cannot eat are radishes and carrots. My favorite flower is the gardenia. My table manners are atrocious and I never make the slightest impression on strangers. I will not attend the theatre unless sure of an aisle seat. I was arrested at the age of 11 for swimming a la naturel.

I read an average of a half dozen books weekly, try to eat in a different restaurant every night and subscribe to two clipping bureaus. I quit drinking because it did not agree with me and discovered I was not only far happier as a teetotaler but got more out of life. I can read German and speak a little French.

I rarely smoke more than three cigarettes daily and nothing bores me so much as a night club. I like people but have not more than a dozen intimates. I love flattery and am easily flattered. Personal criticism used to infuriate me but of late years I enjoy it. I have been rescued three times from drowning.

When I take off my clothes at night I scatter them all around the room. I have invested more in fancy pajamas and house robes than in all other articles of wearing apparel combined. My head is shaped exactly like an egg and I wear a 7¾ sized hat. Purple is my favorite color. I know no grammatical rules.

This is heaps of fun. And imagine getting paid for it! Only one person has ever done me a downright scurrilous trick. I met my wife when she was four years old in a kindergarten. We went through public school together. And lived a block from each other. My first impression of her was beauty. And I have never lost that impression. My mother-in-law has lived with us 12 years. We have her live with us wherever we go. My hair will not stay brushed 10 minutes. I choke myself wearing tight collars and secretly long to play an accordion like Phil Baker.

Note to printer: How is the "I" box holding out? I do not like to be alone. My only articles of jewelry are a cameo ring—my mother's engagement ring—and a Cartier wrist watch presented by one of my closest friends. I have more than 200 canes in a collection coming from every city and country I ever visited. Frequently I think I am losing my mind. I use a gargle called sodiphene a half dozen times a day. My tailor is Lanvin in Paris and my shoemaker is Costa in the same city. My choice candy is peppermint wafers made by Sherry and my favorite dessert is floating island. I do not drink coffee at night and do not snore. I was born in Plattsburg, Mo., and reared in Gallipolis, Ohio.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You may be in a highly important executive position.

Those in more humble stations are perhaps expected to procure from you some facts, under instructions from their superiors.

How do you treat such a person?

Do you accord him the courtesy of giving what he asks or as courteously tell him that you cannot or will not furnish these facts?

Or have you forgotten the days when you were struggling toward the top as a beginner in your line.

Were you not as bothersome as those you consider as pests today?

If you had not had some good breaks, if some of those with whom you came in contact had not been helpful to you, you would not be where you are today.

Can you say truthfully that your success is due entirely to your own efforts?

Too many successful men are unwilling to boost the beginner along his way.

They are more likely to make it difficult for him.

Give the beginners a fair break.
